

THE PROPOSED TENTH CIRCUIT

Bill Before Congress Providing for Its Establishment.

BAR COMMITTEE AT WORK.

Aided by a Committee of Citizens—Will Send a Delegation to Washington to Work for the Bill.

The bar of the State, seconded by leading business men, is now engaged in formulating plans to secure the speedy passage by Congress of the bill now pending before that body providing for another judicial circuit of the United States, to be known as the Tenth circuit. This district is to be composed of the States of Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana.

As urgent reasons for this, it is stated that under existing conditions, attorneys from the States named are required to travel great distances to appear before the court, entailing heavy expenses upon litigants. Further, that the States suggested to comprise the new circuit are mining centers, and much of the litigation arising involves mining claims, and therefore different from the usual litigation in the East.

Recently a committee of citizens has been formed to act with the bar in this matter, and it is proposed to send a representative to Washington this winter to urge the necessity for the passage of the bill, introduced by Senator Walcott.

DAVIS BURGLARY CASE.

Prisoner Discharged by One Justice and Taken Before Another.

Joseph Davis, the young man who was arrested on complaint of Joseph Williams, charged with burglary, had a preliminary hearing before Judge McMaster this morning and was discharged. Davis stated when he was arraigned that he didn't want a lawyer as he could easily beat the case. In view of the seriousness of the charge Attorney A. W. Casey volunteered to defend the young man. The prosecution was conducted by Assistant County Attorney W. T. Gunter.

The main point in the evidence was that of identification. Mr. Williams, the complaining witness testified that he saw the defendant on the night of the burglary standing in front of the store with some goods in his arms. When he saw witness defendant dropped the articles and ran. This occurrence was about midnight. Mrs. Davis, the young man's mother, took the stand and swore positively that Joe was in bed at 8 o'clock and continuously on the night of September 27th, when the crime was committed. The court decided that there was a doubt as to the guilt of

BUSINESS NOTES.

The week has been a good one in commercial stocks, the main activity being confined to Z. C. M. I. State Bank, Home Fire and Utah Sugar Co. There is an active demand for Ogdens Sugar stock, but very little of it is to be had. There is also inquiry for stock in the Sugar factory at La Grande, Oregon, at 50 cents above par, but this stock is largely held in Ogdens and very little of it is to be had. The effect of the season when the sugar factories will close their run will doubtless have the effect of increasing the inquiry for those stocks, especially as the operations have kept up to the estimates made at the beginning of the season, and the case of the Utah factory will go beyond them. The spring estimate of the best crop in Utah was 50,000 tons; already 51,000 tons of beets have been received, and there is doubtless another 1,000 tons of beets in the field; the 12,000,000 pound mark will no doubt be passed. The following list represents the latest accurate quotations:

BONDS.

The bank clearings for the country for the week ending yesterday amounted to $1,874,397.62, an increase of 46.1 per cent over the same week last year. Salt Lake's clearings jumped over three million mark, reaching $1,938,391, an increase of 36.7 per cent, and ahead of such cities as Atlanta, Richmond, Washington, Los Angeles, Portland, Me., Portland, Ore., Fort Worth, Springfield, Mass., Seattle and Toledo.

State street is at the present time the center of the greatest activity in building operations. The mammoth buildings being constructed by the Co-op Wagon & Machine Co. and Consolidated Implement Co., will give an impetus to real estate in that locality, such as nothing else could do. Mr. Odell, manager of the Co-op Wagon & Machine Co., says he cannot name the date when they will be doing business under the new roof, but there will be no lull in the building operations.

A block of 100 shares of Home Fire stock was purchased by a local bank yesterday at $103, the bank buying as a permanent investment.

SIX FRIGHTFUL FAILURES.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Muller of Lockwood, O., to the early grave. He said he had a fatal lung trouble and that he must soon die. DIED AT HIS HOME.

An Old Resident of Sanpete Passes Away Today.

Special per Deseret Telegraph. Mant, Utah, Nov. 25.—Elder Jeremiah Stringham, one of Utah's early pioneers, who was among the first to settle Sanpete county, died at his home in Mant this morning at 10 o'clock. He had been confined to his bed for nineteen months. Elder Stringham was born in Brown County, New York, Feb. 1, 1821. With his parents he moved to Illinois, where he witnessed many of the scenes of mob violence in early Church history. He spent eighteen years in pioneering in Wayne county, where most of his family reside, and leaves a wife and twelve grown children, nine of whom are married and have families of their own. The funeral must necessarily be private, owing to the quarantine.

RECEIVER FOR NEW MAMMOTH

Col. Theodore Bruback Appointed to Take Charge of Property.

SUIT OF JOHN R. FOULKS.

Isabella M. Pitts Also Files Complaint Demanding Judgment on a Note for $3,475.

Col. Theodore Bruback was appointed receiver of the New Mammoth Gold Mining company's property in the West Mountain district today, under a $10,000 bond.

The appointment was made by Judge Hiles upon motion of Dey & Street, attorneys for John R. Foulks. The latter filed a suit against the New Mammoth this forenoon, and, in three causes of action, prays that he be given judgment for $3,513.38. Of this amount plaintiff claims $6,000.29 for the boarding of employees at the defendant company's mine. The sum of $910 is claimed for services as secretary, and $102.69 on account of money advanced.

Plaintiff alleges that the defendant company was organized in December, 1898, and that by reason of constructing a mill and in doing other work incidental to the development of its property in the West Mountain district, it has become wholly insolvent and unable to meet its debts and liabilities, which are now alleged to amount in the aggregate to $35,000.

Out of a total capitalization of 500,000 shares, plaintiff says he owns 100,000. The defendant, it is alleged, is threatened with the filing of liens by employees for their wages, and plaintiff says that without a receiver directing the sale of the defendant company's property and discharging its indebtedness, the property will be dissipated and lost by reason of the expense attending the suits of these parties, and other creditors.

The receiver had not been long appointed before Isabel M. Pitts filed a suit against the New Mammoth. E. G. Rogerson, Frank Knox, as trustee, and the National Bank of the Republic, to collect $3,475 on a promissory note secured by two-thirds interest in the Mammoth, and one-third interest in the Confidence, Defender and Reserve, and two-thirds interest in the Oak Brush. Plaintiff prays for judgment for the full amount of the note and interest, taxes and attorney's fees, and for the usual decree of the sale of the premises under the mortgage.

INDUSTRIAL GEOGRAPHY.

That is What the Future Must Hold Out to Students.

The teachers of the Salt Lake county schools met in one of the large classrooms of the University building this morning to listen to a lecture by Prof. McKnight, who is in charge of the normal training school in the absence of Prof. Stewart.

The subject of Mr. McKnight's address was "Geography," and it was treated in an exceedingly interesting style. "Geography," he said "needs a great deal of attention. The primary geography of the past, has been more of a physical geography, but that of the future will be a social geography. The child will be taught the industry of farming, the industry of manufacturing and of mining, along constructive lines. The lecturer specialized upon the geography of New England. He said he would begin with the surface of New England, if he were teaching it. It is not enough for the student to know that Boston is in Massachusetts, but he should know why it is there. The causes of its growth, etc. The condition of the New England surface should be accounted for. Students should be told of the ice cap that covered the northern part of North America at one time. By means of this ice cap, the boulders were brought down, the mountain tops were rounded off, and the coast was made ragged and broken.

In the manner of a teacher conducting a class, Mr. McKnight then took up the soil of New England, and indicated how the lakes were formed when the ice cap melted. These lakes were natural reservoirs. The climate was then taken up. The effect of the ocean current upon the climate was pointed out. Children should be taught all things that effect the climate.

The life of the region was then taken up, both vegetable and animal life. Geography is the study of the world, as the home of man, and this should not be lost sight of. In connection with the study of New England, the history of the settlement of the country should be taken up. The story of the Pilgrims seeking for religious freedom should be taken up.

The lecturer indicated how the occupations of the people were affected by the surface, soil and climate. It was pointed out how the occupation of farming was discouraged as a leading industry, on account of the dense woods, and police amount of boulders. The farming products also of the region were mentioned as an exportable nature. It was shown how inevitable was the growth of manufacturing in New England, as was also hunting, fishing, lumbering and ship-building.

It was clearly indicated how the New England people had to exercise thrift and industry to subsist. The physical and intellectual development of the race was urged, because of the adverse surroundings they had to overcome. The Southern States were then taken up, and the difference in the surface and the soil of the two sections were pointed out. Slavery was a product of the surface, the soil and the climate of the South. It was shown how the geographical nature of the country had affected the political notions of the people.

MUTUAL LIFE CHANGE.

Rulon S. Wells Takes the Utah Management of the Big Company.

He Assumes His New Duties on December 1, Under the Title of Managing Agent.

An important change has just been made in the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York in this city. The position of managing agent for Utah has been offered Mr. Rulon S. Wells and accepted by him. The change was made by a representative from the home office who has been in the city for some time looking the ground over. Negotiations with Mr. Wells have been pending for some time and at length brought to a satisfactory termination and he will assume charge of the Utah office about December 1. Mr. Boice remaining as cashier.

Both parties to the transaction are to be congratulated. Mr. Wells, on having obtained the agency for one of the Big Four insurance companies of the world, and the Mutual Life on having secured a man of Mr. Wells' wide acquaintance, sterling probity and extensive business experience. Hitherto the Mutual Life, which is one of the great leaders in other communities, has not been pushed aggressively in Utah, but there will probably be but little room for comment on this score under Mr. Wells' management.

SUIT TO QUIET TITLE.

William C. Rydbeck Appointed Guardian of Jane A. Tennant.

Thomas A. Tennant filed a suit against Jane Ayrton Tennant in the Third district court today for the purpose of quieting title to a lot in this city described as lot 2, block 80, plat A.

In his complaint plaintiff alleges that he is a native of England, having been born on May 11th, 1855, at Hawkeville, Yorkshire; that his father's name was Thomas Tennant and his mother's name Jane Ayrton Tennant, the defendant. In 1856, plaintiff says, his parents emigrated to the United States, and while on the way Utah his father died at Laramie, Nebraska. In the fall of 1856, plaintiff says, he arrived with his mother in this city. He then alleges that his mother has been incompetent ever since his birth, and became so on account of a fever at the time of his father's death. Plaintiff says, he left $10,000, a portion of which was used to buy the property referred to.

Plaintiff then sets out that he is desirous of selling the property for the purpose of a few years, the time of his support his mother, but objection has been made on the ground that his mother has an interest in the property and that a deed from plaintiff would convey a naked and perfect title thereto. He asks that a guardian be appointed to represent his mother and that her interest may be fully and carefully stated.

Judge Hiles appointed William C. Rydbeck guardian ad litem for Mrs. Tennant.

The property consists of a vacant lot on First South between Third and Fourth West.

Railroads May Get Judgment for Damages Done.

IN THE BIG STRIKE OF 1894.

U. S. Circuit Court Gives Pennsylvania Railway Company $2,500 in Its Law Suit Against the City.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—A verdict for $2,500 was rendered here today in the United States circuit court in favor of the Pennsylvania Railway company in its suit against the city for damages done during the big strike of 1894. The railroad asked for $25,000. The decision is regarded as important as having a probable influence on the action of the other roads, which suffered property damage during the riots.

WISHED HE HAD A GUN.

George Howard Said that He Would Not Have to Beg.

George Howard, a callous looking hobo with a ditto epidermis, pleaded not guilty to vagrancy before Judge Timmony in the police court this afternoon.

Officer Simpson stated that he watched the defendant "brace" a couple of pedestrians on State street last evening. Witness said that he stopped Howard and told him that a husky individual like he, ought to be ashamed to beg, whereupon the fellow said, "If I only had a gun I wouldn't have to beg at all." The officer further stated that when he placed Howard under arrest that he said, "Oh, just you look me up for the winter; I'd just as leave stay in the cold weather."

Howard indignantly denied everything in toto: "Look at dem hands, judge," said the accused as he raised his grimy paws aloft like Henry Irving as Mathias in the Belles. "dem hands mean work, judge, dishwashing, pulling beets at Springfield, an' any old 'ting."

Judge Timmony gazed at the unwashed pounds of meat and mumbled, "You had better go and get another job for the winter out of town. I'll just give you one hint."

Howard promptly faded.

J. A. Groesbeck, who was arrested for drunkenness yesterday morning and subsequently allowed to depart, fell from grace again this morning. Groesbeck was "horrorstricken, amazed, agast!" He simply told the court that he couldn't understand it; "why," he said, "I only had two or three whiskies this morning, and then I must have fallen asleep." Sgt. Burbridge concurred with the statement of the confessor. Groesbeck certainly did fall asleep on the sidewalk. Then the court, more in sorrow than in anger, said "Five dollars."

Stephano Chidio, an ex-resident of the suburbs of Naples also the city jail, was the next victim offered on the judicial altar. Chidio was not present to be "chided"; consequently the five dollar silver certificate he left in lieu of his arrest money was declared duly forfeited. Needless to remark, his offense was the violation of the statutes providing for the legal capacity of perambulating individuals carrying alcohol.

THE O'MELVESEY INSURANCE.

A compromise settlement has been effected between the Fidelity and Casualty Insurance company and the widow of the late J. C. O'Melvey, by which the latter accepts $4,500 as claims in full on a $5,000 policy. There has been much adverse criticism of the company on this compromise, the ground being taken that the company should have paid the full $5,000. The company's answer, however, is that O'Melvey endangered his life by reason of his relationship with Mrs. Mills.
