Once more will the giants the "American" party majority in the city council go up against the bond issue proposition at a special meeting of the council called for tonight. Once more will the internicine enemies of the issue come forth in battle array, with sabers un-sheathed for the gore of war; and once more will the cry "vote the bonds or no more improvements" be heard as the slogan of the boosters for the bond issue. For the word has gone forth from the great sachem, and the law has been pronounced from the "drele" and we unto him who dares disobey this command, for lo his political head shall pay for it. For tonight is the last opportunity the faithful will have to promulgate the ordinance so that the people may vote thereon before the great and awful day of fixing the taxes, and should the issue be then unprovided for, it will be seen that the levy will be so greatly increased as to make it a bur-den on the backs of the taxpayers; and forasmuch as the desire of the great "American" administration is not to increase the burdens of the taxpapers, but only to saddle upon posterily the blessings of interest-bearing bonds, that the great and grievous debts of the city may be wiped out, and the vast overdraft be satisfied, let your vote be "yea, yea," and not "may, may." Yesterday forenoon during the thunder storm that prevailed, lightning entered the house of James Vincent, 1096 Eighth East, and the wonder is that no Eighth East, and the wonder is that no fatalities occurred. The crashes sound-ed so close that members of the family gathered on the side of the dining room farthest from the window. Scarce-ly had the move been effected when a bolt struck the house and the flash that entered the room was followed by a loud roar. All present received a shock, but none were seriously injured, though a boy and a girl showed effects of the flash upon their countenances. Plaster was knocked from the wall and linoleum was torn from the floor, as the electric fluid made its exit from the place. the electric fluid made its exit from the place.
