EASTERN DISPATCHES.

New York, 2.—The will of Mr. and Mrs. Greeley leaves the property to their two daughters.

Ethan Allen, late chairman of the National Committee, requests the electors of States giving majorities for Greeley to cast their votes for Grant, for President, and Brown for Vice President. John Cochrane, late chairman of the New York Liberal committee, concurs.

Baltimore, 2.—Both branches of the council have taken positions of grief at the death of Greeley.

New York, 2.—Elaborate preparations are making for the funeral services of Greeley. The church will be draped in mourning. Clara Louise Kellogg and other leading citizens offer their services for the choir.

Mayor Hall yesterday sent the following telegram to the Secretary of the navy:

"To Secretary Robeson, Washington. Having the honor of your personal acquaintance, I telegraphed you to say that the civic authorities will join private societies and citizens in a public funeral on Wednesday, December 4, at City Hall, to the late Mr. Greeley, and the idea is universal that should the President attend, and the authorities hereby respectfully invite him, his attendance would be a fitting tribute to the magnanimous, graceful, and farsighted statesman of the century. Signed, A. OAKLEY HALL, Mayor."

Secretary Robeson to-day sent the following reply:

"Washington, 2.
"A. Oakley Hall, Mayor of New York City:

"Your telegram was received last night. The President had determined, as early as last Saturday, to attend Greeley's funeral if the day fixed should be one in which he could properly be absent from the capital. He is still of the same mind and will attend on Wednesday, if his public duties growing out of the assembling of Congress will permit. GEO. M. ROBESON."

The common council to-day adopted resolutions endorsing Greeley. The members of the common council will attend the funeral in a body and wear a badge thirty days. The following gentlemen have been named as a guard of honor over the casket: John A. Dix, W. F. Havens, Thurlow Weed, Geo. W. Vardner, W. Butler, Duncan A. Stewart, Abraham R. Lawrence, Hor. Seymour, Wm. Cullen Bryant, Henry M. McKim, Peter Cooper, W. B. Astor, John McKim, Samuel J. Eldon, Shepley Knapp, John T. Hoffman, A. Oakley Hall, Moses H. Grinnell, Chas. O'Connor, Emil Bauer, and John A. Schuchman.

A committee has been appointed to request General Shaler to furnish proper military escort to the funeral. The arrival of representatives of various societies they will form a guard of honor to co-operate with a committee of citizens.

Gay Gordon, in a complaint against Smith, Martin & Co., and the Erie Co., demands the surrender of the books of that firm by Erie as absolutely necessary for the preparation of his defense. It is reported that the books will be at once submitted to the grand jury.

H. H. Booley, banker, 12 Wall street, was arrested on the charge of embezzling $10,000 from the Erie Co. charged with fraud. Bail, fixed at $100,000, has not yet been obtained.

James C. King, who shot O'Neil, was indicted to-day for murder in the first degree.

Bail for Woodhull & Claflin has been reduced to $25,000 each, which has been obtained and they have been liberated. Friends in ill and forthcoming lectures have been postponed.

The Democratic National Committee have issued the following:

"The National Democratic Committee do not regard it as their duty to advise the electors of the several States who favored the election of the candidate nominated at the Baltimore Convention as to the course they shall pursue in view of the death of Horace Greeley. Such an event was unprecedented for the action of the Convention, and succeeding convention will without doubt make provisions for a similar contingency, and as no practical result can come from the establishment of the precedent, by this Committee it is deemed undesirable that the Committee should make any recommendations to electors.

Signed, "AGUSTUS SOBELL, Chairman, National Committee."

WASHINGTON, D. C., 2.—The report of the Secretary of the Treasury contains an acknowledgment of the ability and fidelity of the officers and clerks of the several departments, divisions, and recommendations for increased salaries to these persons as a matter of justice and reward for their services. The Secretary recommends that registered bonds of every kind be made convertible into coupon bonds at the option of the holders. Detailed statements of receipts and disbursements of the treasury during the past fiscal year are given in the report, and the ending in the message of the President. Estimates of receipts for the remaining three-fourths of the current fiscal year are as follows: customs, one hundred and thirty-five millions; public lands, one and a half millions; internal revenue, seventy-three millions; tax on national banks, three millions; Pacific railways, five hundred thousand; customs, dues, etc., eight hundred thousand; post office, one million seven hundred thousand; miscellaneous, one million four hundred thousand; total, one hundred and eighty-eight millions five hundred thousand.

New Orleans, 3.—Hon. Jno. H. Kennard has been appointed to the vacancy on the Supreme bench resulting from the resignation of Judge Howe. The appointment was made without delay.

New York, 3.—The body of Horace Greeley arrived in the City Hall at 8 o'clock. It was borne there in a simple hearse, attended by an escort of honor. The coffin was carried to the Governor's room and placed upon a temporary bier. The coffin was black with heavy silver handles. At the head was a portrait of Greeley as he appeared in life, and at the foot a portrait of him as he appeared in death. The lid bore the inscription: "Horace Greeley, born Feb. 8th, 1811, died Nov. 29th, 1913. He was ornamented with festoons of natural fern leaves. There was also a second inscription, 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' at the foot, worked in violet."

And the city mourns out loud. Greeley lay with his left arm lying by his side, his right across his breast. His face was terribly emaciated, and had a worn appearance like that of a man who, after terrible sufferings, had succumbed in a prolonged and agonizing struggle. Although the preparations for receiving the public were not completed until 10 o'clock, the square in front of the City Hall was occupied by thousands of men, women and children intent upon taking a farewell look. Everywhere the utmost decorum prevailed. A hush pervaded the entire gathering.

There was a look of intense sadness on the face of every one.

The multitude formed in line and passed up, two by two, into the room where the body lay in state. One of the first men to approach the coffin was Gen. Dix. Among the many distinguished gentlemen present was Thurlow Weed, who stood by the head of the coffin and seemed pained to be questioned concerning the life and character of the deceased. He said he could not remember that Greeley ever referred to any youthful ambition. He had been young men together, and were often in each other's company. Every body said, Weed has hours of relaxation as poor as he, and had the battle of life to fight as he had, yet I always took relaxation. Looking back over Greeley's life, I think the share of success was his whole life was given to opposing injustice and oppression. His character was perfectly pure. He had no vices that I knew of, and I was most intimate with him in all matters. He was fearless in expressing his belief in what was right, his whole mind was given to the cause of the oppressed. He was earnestly into the face of his former associate, seeming to be deeply affected by the death. After looking at the features of the dead for some time he leaned on the shoulder of a friend and left the room. Many ladies showed signs of emotion, some stopping to kiss the forehead of the deceased. As the dinner hour of the working classes approached the crowd waiting admittance to the chamber of death became immense. Laboring men and women in their working clothes to get one last look at the face of their old friend. Working girls of all ages came and were very properly allowed to pass before the man who was obliged to wait their turn. A passage was made in this way for all persons accompanied by ladies. Families, even from the old country, came to see the body. The crowd could not restrain their tears as they looked on the face of the man who, as it were, had lived in their hearts for half a lifetime. A noticeable fact was that many men and women were in line, anxious to gaze upon the features of the dead. The crowd continued undiminished until 5 o'clock, when the City Hall closed. Fully 50,000 viewed the body and many thousands did not even reach the steps of the City Hall, the line extending a block away.

Louisville, 3.—Charles D. Jacobs has been elected Mayor without opposition.

The National Democratic Convention announced that it will adjourn on Wednesday, if his public duties growing out of the assembling of Congress will permit.

Stanley delivered his first lecture this evening on his African experiences. The audience was large.

Harrisburg, 3.—The election for Senator resulted in Judge Merriam receiving 87 votes. The whole Republican vote was cast for him.

Cincinnati, N. Y., 3.—There was a large meeting of citizens last night to express sorrow at Greeley's death. Appropriate resolutions were adopted and a committee appointed to select an orator to deliver an oration upon the deceased.

New York, 3.—The committee of the society of Dr. Chapin's Church, in view of the fact that many men and women were in line, anxious to gaze upon the features of the dead. The crowd continued undiminished until 5 o'clock, when the City Hall closed. Fully 50,000 viewed the body and many thousands did not even reach the steps of the City Hall, the line extending a block away.

The horse disease has appeared at Boonville, Mo., and is spreading to the surrounding country.

New York, 3.—The City Hall Park has been crowded with thousands of people since 8 o'clock, endeavoring to get a view of the remains of Greeley lying in state in the Governor's room, and although the crowd lingers by at a wonderful rate there seems no diminution in the throng.

Universal testimony of public esteem has been shown since Lincoln's remains lay in state here. Flags are everywhere at half-mast. Crowds arriving by train and stage, from adjacent cities. The City Hall is draped in mourning and over the main entrance is a portrait of the deceased member with pride his busy life.

Many distinguished citizens from abroad have arrived to join in the funeral services.

The courts will adjourn over Thursday.

all buildings on either side the whole length of the thoroughfare. The interior of the church, while the obsequies were held presented a sombre but beautiful appearance. The church was opened at about half-past ten, and the service was held in the galleries. Among the first celebrities to arrive were President Grant, Gov. Hoffman, and Senator Conkling.

A dispatch from Washington states that twenty-five members of Congress left that city last night to attend the funeral of Mr. Greeley.

Senator, Thurlow Weed, Charles Sumner and Trumbull present. Charles Sumner telegraphs that his health prevents his attendance, but he will be present in spirit.

The route of the funeral procession will be through 5th Avenue to Fourteenth St., thence to Broadway and to Hamilton Ferry. The draping of Dr. Chapin's Church is completed. The large arched entrance to the church is heavily draped in black, looped up with heavy crapes. The vestibule is hung with black and immediately over the door is a large portrait of the deceased surrounded with a deep border of crapes. The interior is profusely draped with black cloth and crapes, and being used before the exception of flowers. From the centre of the arched roof are hung broad folds of cloth festooned to the capital of the pillars by massive tassels. The front of the galleries is also hung with black, and the pillars, of which there are six on either side, are wound round with the same sable emblems of woe. The main aisle is composed of rich black velvet, profusely strewn with flowers, vines and ivy, and the steps directly in front of the altar are also covered with the same material. The decorations that loving hands and hearts have furnished. Around the church are hung appropriate texts. The organ is completely covered with mourning drapery. The pew lately occupied by the illustrious dead is appropriately dressed with crapes, while from the wall is hung a heavy festoon of crapes, caught up by heavy tassels of the same material. Vines, roses and ivy will be gracefully entwined, falling to the seat, where also will be strewn a profusion of flowers.

New York, 4.—The Herald proposes a great fund for the funeral expenses of Greeley's children, and offers one thousand dollars as its subscription.

The trial trip of the new steamer Copart, intended for the Hawaiian group, was made yesterday with favorable results.

The number of applicants for tickets of admission to witness the funeral services of Greeley at Chapin's church, was estimated at about one hundred.

Many prominent persons had great difficulty in procuring cards. Some persons offered high prices for tickets, but none were sold.

The funeral procession started at 10 o'clock from the City Hall, and proceeded to the church. The cortege was headed by the band of the City Hall, followed by the members of the City Council, the Mayor, and the members of the City Board of Aldermen.

The funeral services were held at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Chapin delivered the funeral oration. The services were attended by a large number of people.

SAFETY LAMP.

Is needed by all who have seen it to be possessed of great merit, and to be able to produce the best light of the kind ever put in the market.

The Lamp is constructed with two tubes, the outside intended only for the attachment of the burner, and the inside one to contain oil and receive the light. As there is no connection between these tubes, it will be evident that there is no possibility of communicating any heat to the oil, and as long as the oil in the lamp can be kept perfectly cool there is, of course, no chance of an explosion.

The Lamp is strongly and well made attractive in appearance, and something of a novelty. It will burn kerosene, and will burn any other oil of the same quality. It has all the advantages of the present indications it is destined to become very popular.

In case of accident, the Lamp falling or being overturned, by which many explosions occur, is the cause of the oil running to the bottom. In this Lamp it is not so; it will run to the top, and will not catch fire. It will run to the top, and will not catch fire. It will run to the top, and will not catch fire.

The public may rest assured that the Lamp is all that it claims to be, and will be a great improvement on the present indications it is destined to become very popular.
