

EVENING NEWS. Wednesday, Mar. 10, 1884.

WIND during the night and snow to-day.

FRAGMENTS.

A HUGGY belonging to Mr. N. Groesbeck, in which that gentleman was seated, broke down on West Temple Street yesterday.

WILLIAM SEVERANCE, for assault with intent to kill, was sentenced in the First District Court at Provo, on Monday, to one year in the Utah Penitentiary.

TO-NIGHT Kirkham's panorama will be exhibited in the 15th Ward meeting-house, and to-morrow night at the 19th Ward School-house. Doors open at 7.30, and commence at 7.30 o'clock.

A MAN named Bennett was accused by another named Kerns of robbing him of $25, and was arrested and lodged in jail, but at the examination yesterday it was proved that the accusation was false and the accused a fraud, and the prisoner was discharged.

TO-MORROW, Thursday evening, a concert for the benefit of the Sabbath school will be given in the 17th Ward Assembly Hall. An excellent programme has been prepared, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, tableaux, and a comic opera. Doors open at 7.30; to commence at 8 o'clock.

The other night burglars attempted to break into the 20th Ward store. The watchman, who was at his post, as usual, stood ready to receive them, pistol in hand. Rather than kill them, however, he told them it would be more conducive to longevity for them to leave. They took the hint, and didn't wait.

A HORSE belonging to Dr. Mattie P. Hughes, met with a serious accident yesterday. The doctor was driving her carriage down a steep hill in the eastern part of the city, when the animal stumbled and fell, its head getting under its body and injuring its neck. Dr. Hughes narrowly escaped. The horse to-day showed symptoms of recovery.

LOCAL NEWS.

Notice.—The undersigned would be pleased to obtain the address or addresses of any member or members of the family of Benjamin Sny, who left Oakland, Cal., Mich., about thirty years ago and went to Illinois, from whence they are supposed to have removed to Utah. B. S. Thornton, Pine Valley, Washington Co., Utah.

Suicide by Hanging.—A special to the News from Cedar City, states that James H. Spiking committed suicide this morning, by hanging himself with a rope from a tree standing a few rods from his mother's residence, between the hours of four and six o'clock, while under a state of mental derangement, caused by excessive pain in the vital organs. He had been sick for six or more months, and suffered excruciating pain most of the time.

The Choir Re-union.—The social re-union of the Tabernacle Choir, held at the Social Hall last night, was a delightful affair. The company consisted of ninety couples, the music was excellent, the prevailing feeling sociable and friendly, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. In the course of the evening Brother William Foster sang, "The Old Wooden Rocker." Brother George Goodard also sang "Hazel Dell," and made a characteristic speech in the course of which he stated that he expected to start shortly after Conference, on a mission to England.

Among the guests last evening were George Q. Cannon, of the First Presidency of the Church, and Angus M. Cannon and Joseph E. Taylor, of the Presidency of this State.

Temperance Lecture.—There was a very large attendance at the Logan Tabernacle last Sunday evening, to hear Elder Scott Anderson lecture on Temperance. Every seat was filled, and quite a number had to stand in the aisles and around the door. In the course of his address, Elder Anderson exhorted that he had not come to Logan to lecture because of any bad reputation attaching to that city, on the contrary he believed it to be one of the most temperate places on the face of the earth. But he considered it not only desirable but necessary that he should be posted as to the true character of intemperate drinks; he recommended fathers and mothers to inform themselves and then to carefully instruct their children.

He then proceeded to show the falsity of the belief as to the beneficial effects of drink upon the body and bodily powers, contending that it had been conclusively demonstrated that these drinks could not give strength, but their action on the living body deranges the constitution of the blood, unduly excites the heart and respiration, paralyzes the minute blood vessels, decreases the functions of the digestive organs, of the liver and of the kidneys; disturbs the regularity of nervous action, lowers the animal temperature and lessens the muscular powers. Brother Anderson was listened to with rapid attention and received a cordial and unanimous vote of thanks at the close of his lecture, which occupied one hour and twenty minutes in delivering.

Returned Missionary.—Elder Wm. F. Rigby, Jr., of Newton, Cache County, returned yesterday from a mission to the Southern States, where he has been laboring since February, 1883. He traveled entirely in the State of Georgia, after his assignment, for the first four months in company with Elder John A. Mower, and afterwards with Elder Samuel Echols, until they were both released on the 15th of last February.

Elder Echols had been in the mission about fourteen months. Brother Rigby was released sooner than usual on account of being lame, he having broken his leg several years ago, and in the damp climate of Georgia and through over-exertion incident to much walking, it became so bad as to partly disable him and render traveling very painful.

He baptized two persons, one in Paulding County and the other in Folk, and assisted in baptizing five others, besides blessing three children. He has been in nine counties and says he has but little reason to complain of the treatment he received. He was forced to lay out in the woods one night, and went without food 48 hours, but otherwise was well treated and cared for.

He traveled 2,200 miles and held 57 meetings. He prizes his experience highly, and speaks in praise of the kind-hearted Saints and generous people outside of the Church, who administered to his necessities. There were but two Elders remaining in Georgia when he left, and times were very dull in that portion of the mission. He is the son of Bishop W. F. Rigby, late of Newton but now of Snake River, Idaho. He leaves for home on Thursday.

THE PETERSON TRIAL.

PROCEEDINGS LAST EVENING AND TO-DAY.

The trial of Andrew Peterson for illegal voting, resumed last evening with the further examination of the defendant, who testified in addition to what was published yesterday, viz.: that in going through the marriage ceremony with Caroline Johnson he simply stood as proxy for her dead husband—that he never lived with or supported Caroline Johnson, and she never called on him for support. Witness also denied the truth of Jacob Lundberg's assertion to the effect that he ever admitted Caroline Johnson to be his wife. He did say in 1878, to Lundberg, on the latter's asking him if he was Mrs. Johnson's husband, that he was only sealed to her for her dead husband, Johnson, and would help her if she ever needed assistance. He simply made this promise out of regard for a general duty he considered he owed to widows and indigent persons. W. W. Cliff was sworn and testified as follows: As President of Summit Stake, and as Bishop in that Stake at one time. The basis of the marriage ceremony of the Mormon Church is in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants. I know of no set formula. We may have forms but I could not repeat one. The ceremonies differ according to the nature of the contracts. There are four separate and distinct marriages in our Church. There is a similar ceremony in each form of marriage, but the words change.

He knew of no printed record of the marriage forms of the Church.

Court adjourned till 10 a. m. Wednesday.

At the opening of the Court this morning W. W. Cliff was sworn on the stand, and was asked to explain the separate forms of marriage in the Mormon Church. He answered that there were four forms in all, but only three in sealing: One of these was for time and eternity combined, another for eternity alone, and the other for time alone. If a man and his wife both died without having been sealed, their nearest relatives, say the son and daughter, might stand for them and be sealed by proxy for their parents. This would not make the son and daughter man and wife. If the children were too young to act, a near relative or friend might act in their stead. Sealing for eternity alone, would not make the parties man and wife for time. Without the sealing ordinance for eternity, the "Mormons" believed all relationship of husband and wife would cease at death.

Witness could not conceive of a "Mormon" marriage where both parties were not willing actors in the contract. "Mormon" marriage was a contract between the parties united. They could decide for themselves as to whether they wished to be married for time only, or for both time and eternity; but the marriage for time would not take place at the Endowment House, but might be solemnized by an Elder or a Justice of the Peace. In the case of the sealing of a man or woman to one another, if it was to be taken for granted that the dead party was willing. If it were thought he or she was unwilling, witness did not think the marriage would take place. The Church, he thought, would not sanction such a union if it were known that either party was unwilling. It was taken for granted, if the dead party had no chance to attend to it in person, and no other objection was known, that he or she would by proxy. It was generally held that the authority that seals on earth could unseal, though it was believed by some that a marriage for eternity could not be dissolved in this life. Witness thought that any ordinance could be performed by proxy—even if two dead parties were married. The consent of the parties in such a case, if not revealed—as was sometimes done—might be assumed, though proxy baptism would necessarily precede proxy marriage; leaving, in all such latter cases, the dead at liberty to accept or reject the ordinance performed in their behalf, as they might see fit.

Plural marriages might, in certain cases, be for time only, as in the case of a young widow, already sealed to her dead husband, who married another man for time. A proxy marriage could not be performed in such a case, as the ordinance for eternity was not considered valid, unless performed in a Temple, Endowment House or place designated by Divine authority for that purpose. Such places were for sacred purposes and not open to the public. In proxy marriage or baptism, the ceremony would be similar to what it would be were both parties living and acting personally for themselves, though the wording would be a little different to suit the nature of the case. Where two persons were married before joining the Church, their marriage was considered good for time. A son could stand proxy for his dead father in a marriage for eternity. It was generally supposed that the son should be of age, though witness knew of no rule regulating the matter. The ceremony of proxy marriage in such a case would impose no religious obligation on the proxy husband, not even if requested, to support or give advice to the woman, except as a matter of friendship and free will. The status of the case would not require him to extend any of the rights of marriage to her. It was the rule in plural marriage that the first wife should give her consent at least to the second or plural marriage, and give the additional wife to her husband. It was believed by the "Mormons" that in a future state, and on the knowledge of proxy marriage, and ordinances performed on earth for the dead, in most cases would prove acceptable to the departed.

Caroline D. Peterson, wife of the defendant, was put upon the stand. She had known Caroline Johnson for about 14 years. At the latter's house in Kamas, in May, 1879, she asked Caroline Johnson if she was Peterson's wife, and she told her she was not. She stopped at Mrs. Johnson's house, while passing, to ask about the matter, as she had heard it reported that her husband and Mrs. Johnson were married. After receiving Mrs. Johnson's answer, witness left and went home. There was no one else present at the time. She asked her husband if he was married to Caroline Johnson, and he said it was only a ceremony he had gone through with her for her dead husband. She knew Mr. and Mrs. Johnson before he died, and visited once or twice at their house. They were from Sweden. Witness had been married to the defendant 27 years. She told her husband what she would say at the trial. He told her to say nothing but the truth. She knew Jacob Lundberg, he had been at her house and staid over night. She heard some of the conversation at breakfast between Lundberg and her husband. She did not hear Peterson acknowledge to Lundberg that he was Caroline Johnson's husband. This was in 1878. They were talking about the Gospel, about the roads, but not about marriage. They went out together after breakfast.

Berta Anderson, sister of the defendant, was recalled. She heard

Lundberg, a week ago to-morrow morning. When they were on the way to this city, that he wanted to bring witness to town to "send that damned rascal Peterson to the Penitentiary and make old Cliff support his family." When Lundberg came after her at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning, she told him she did not like it. She would not like to have her brother go to the Penitentiary or be fined. She had a dream the night before in which she dreamed her brother had been taken up and was going to be imprisoned, or killed, she woke up crying and said she would sell her last cow, or do anything she could to help her brother.

Andrew Peterson was recalled; At the time he went through the marriage ceremony with Caroline Johnson he was a member of the Mormon Church, and understood the nature of the sealing ordinance and believed in it. The defense offered to prove by this witness that the ceremony he entered into with Caroline Johnson, had in his belief no application to his marriage relationship with her in this life, but solely to her union for eternity, with her dead husband. The prosecution objected and was sustained. The court took a recess.

A MAGIC POWER.

A Secret Agent at Work.

We were surprised the other day to learn that certain individuals in this city, who had for many years yielded to what was apparently an inevitable fate, were started from their torpid condition of semi-stupidity into the pursuit of happiness. These parties had been bound by an influence as powerful as it was incomprehensible. They knew not the cause, yet they were yielding to the result. They were unchained, but they could not discern by what means they had been manacled. They had long sought deliverance in vain. Their appeals to science and the knowledge contained in books were equally unavailing. At last, however, it was not through any action of the President, or of Congress, for their trouble was not a political character. Neither did the Governor's Message relieve them, nor any action of the Legislature, for it was not out of their power, and foreign to their jurisdiction. Yet they were suddenly and effectively released from the bondage they suffered, and placed on the equal scale of human happiness. What was their trouble? It was not a mere morbid habit, but a disease of the mind, and on the strong recommendation of friends "who had been there," tried Britanna, and were at once relieved and radically cured. Britannia was what did it. It acted like a magic power. This secret agent quietly poured through their veins, removed the cause of the trouble, liberated the organs from their diseased condition, and now they congratulate each other on the accomplishment of the knowledge, by which they can at any time resist the encroachments of their enemies. We could give the names of the parties, but will wait a future time.

Dr. S. S. Hullman, Philadelphia, Pa., says: "It is of good service in the troubles arising from Rheumatism, and gives satisfaction in my practice."

A STAMPELING DISCOVERY.

Physicians are often startled by remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and All Lung Diseases is daily curing patients that have given up to die, is startling them. It is not a new discovery, but a discovery of the merits of this wonderful remedy, resulting in human life. Our best Physicians tell us it is their practice. Trial bottles free at Z. M. I. Drug Store. Regular size $2.00.

C. H. Lewis, druggist of Cedar Vale, Kansas, writes: "I have sold Dr. King's New Discovery for the past seven or eight years, and can testify to the fact that it is the most reliable proprietary medicine I handle, as it is cured by it. I can give universal satisfaction which attests the fact."
