TABERNACLE SERVICES.

The usual Sabbath services of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints were held in the Assembly Hall yesterday afternoon. The choir sang the hymn on page 16:

To him who made the world,
The sun, the moon and stars.

The opening prayer was offered by Elder David O. Calder.

The choir sang the hymn on page 156:

O God, the eternal Father
Who dwells amid the sky.

President William Budge, of Bear Lake Stake, addressed the congregation. He felt confident that he was speaking to a people who had reflected deeply upon the principles they had adopted as their religious faith. It has always been unpopular to be a Latter-day Saint. Those who have accepted of this gospel were opposed by their friends and acquaintances. On account of the current of feeling against this work, it had been especially necessary that we should know it was right before identifying ourselves with it. This alone should exhibit the fact that there were some powerful incentives and reasons for those who have received the gospel taking that step. There is nothing to induce an honest hearted individual to accept this work excepting a conviction of its correctness. When the Elders brought the message of salvation to us, it was plainly made manifest that God had spoken again from the heavens and restored the true gospel. We could not deny obedience to that which we knew God had offered. All who profess to be Christians believe that the Father sent Christ to the earth to teach principles that would prepare the people for the Kingdom of Heaven. Since Christ ministered among men, there had been a falling away from the system that he advocated and established. This condition made the revelation of the same system in our day necessary. In consequence of this departure from the perfect system of Christianity, those who have not received the revealed word are destitute of that knowledge to which all who embrace the true plan of salvation are entitled. Christ and His Apostles taught the "perfect law of liberty." Had any law or principle been omitted it would have been imperfect. Many of the laws and ordinances had been eliminated by the religious world, and a withdrawal of God's spirit had been the result. The basis of our religion is faith in Christ, His divinity and atonement, then repentance of all sin, then baptism by immersion in water for the remission of sins. These are the first principles of the perfect plan revealed by God through His Son. Is there any one who does not desire a remission of his sins? Surely not. Then the means of obtaining that blessing is plainly exhibited in the scriptures. To sustain his remarks, the speaker here drew attention to the preaching of Peter on the day of Pentecost, in answer to the question of the multitude as to what they should do: "Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." (Acts 2d chapter, 39th verse.) To gain the Celestial Kingdom, we must not only be hearers of the word, but doers of it. God promised to the baptized believer, the gift of the Holy Ghost, which is a spirit of revelation. This was given by the laying on of the hands of the Elders. These blessings are promised only to those who accept of the ancient, plain and simple gospel. The Church of Christ was built upon the rock of revelation, as witness his words to Peter when the latter said he was "Christ the Son of the living God." The Latter-day Saints have accepted an unpopular doctrine because it is true, and they have received a knowledge of the divinity of the work. Many were members of other churches before they became identified with this, and they understand both sides of the question. The gospel has been revealed in these days for the last time, to be preached to the world before the end shall come. The speaker bore testimony that the work in which the Latter-day Saints are engaged is true, and that the Spirit of God had been shed abroad in the hearts of those who had accepted it.

Elder Milo Andrus was the next speaker. From the earliest ages, the Bible records the existence of a spirit of opposition to the establishment of what God had revealed. The Savior taught the principles of salvation. Where there was faith He was of great benefit to the sick. A man who was blind from his birth was healed by Him. The unbelievers tried to persuade him that Christ was not the personage he pretended to be. He replied, in effect, this much I know that whereas I once was blind I now see. That is the position of the Latter-day Saints in a figurative sense; we were once blind but now see. We are accused of being uncharitable, yet we have a kindly feeling to those who do not see as we do. The pre-eminent excellence of the principles of the gospel is that they are adapted to the wants of men in all conditions, in time and in eternity. A strong proof to unbelievers, if they would receive it, is the fact that when the Elders lay the doctrine of Christ before the people, they promise to each person accepting the message a testimony of the truth for himself. Those who have accepted the doctrine testify that they have received this promised witness. The great difficulty is and has always been that men generally dread authority, which we claim has been given to man in this day. Professing Christians accept of the figurative expression of the bridegroom and the bride, as applicable to Christ and the Church, yet they do not believe in the bride (the Church) in her perfection, with Apostles, Prophets and other officers. These and other officers are placed in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, but have not been placed there only as revealed through the youthful Prophet Joseph Smith. The day will come when every knee shall bow and every tongue confess that Jesus is the Christ, and it shall also be confessed that Joseph Smith was His prophet. Through the ancient prophets God has described the existing condition of the world, these being the latter days, and He has promised that He would set up His kingdom, which was never to have an end. This is the work thus referred to. No class of opposition will hinder its progress. Persecution may rage and some of the men connected with this work may be killed; but still its tendency will be onward. I was present when the first Apostle that was martyred in this dispensation—David W. Patten—breathed his last. He said, "You that live should carry out the principles of the gospel. God will yet call upon you to bear witness that I was murdered by the hands of assassins." The speaker proceeded to describe the condition of those who opposed the work of God, and concluded by bearing testimony to the divine origin of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and exhorting the community to faithfulness.

The choir sang,

Rejoice in the Lord.

Benediction by Elder Elias Morris.
