

A TRUE GHOST STORY.

A REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE OF BISHOP WILBERFORCE.

The Quiet One at the County House and the Singular and Important Disclosures Made When Addressed by the Bishop. The Bishop's Own Story.

The following remarkable incident in the life of the late Bishop Wilberforce, Bishop of Oxford and afterwards of Winchester, is related by a distinguished author, and the ghost which appeared to him is said to have been the spirit of the late Bishop of Winchester.

On a certain occasion the worthy Bishop had accepted an invitation to stay at a country house not far from London. Entering the drawing room previous to dinner the Bishop perceived the presence of a ghostly figure, and he was so much startled that he fled to his room, where he remained for some time.

"I beg your pardon, my dear sir," said the Bishop, "but I am not at all surprised to find you here. I have been told that you are a ghost, and I am not at all surprised to find you here."

"How very singular!" remarked the Bishop. "But have you never addressed your ghostly visitor?"

"I have," said the Bishop, "and I have been told that you are a ghost, and I am not at all surprised to find you here."

"With all my heart, your lordship," replied the Bishop. "The Bishop's story is a very singular one, and I am not at all surprised to find you here."

"I have," said the Bishop, "and I have been told that you are a ghost, and I am not at all surprised to find you here."

"I have," said the Bishop, "and I have been told that you are a ghost, and I am not at all surprised to find you here."
