Ogden, Oct. 16.—William McGregor, one of the most highly respected residents of Ogden, was killed yesterday shortly after noon at his farm at Bench creek, Weber county, by a mad Jersey bull, which he owned.

Mr. McGregor had eaten dinner with his sister, Mrs. D. E. Browning, whose place is next to his farm. After dinner he left the house saying he would go up into his field and see how everything was, and it is supposed had walked to the barley patch used as pasture, where the bull was feeding. The animal must have become enraged at Mr. McGregor's presence and started after him, knocking him down and then lashed and pawed him until he was almost extinct. A girl named Martin, whose home is near the McGregor farm, was going to a neighbor's when she saw the infuriated bull baying a man around. She ran to the home of George Ferrill and told him what she had seen. He rushed into the field and drove the bull away, but Mr. McGregor was breathing his last and died a few minutes later before Mr. Ferrill could get a drink of water for him. His lifeless form was carried to the home of Mr.

PROVO.

LIGHT TO BE TURNED ON.

Council Has Decided to Restore Old Conditions—"Mission of Mirth."

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Oct. 16.—At last night's council session Mayor Frey submitted a communication suggesting that immediate steps be taken to improve the power plant site near the mouth of the canyon owned by the city. He also called attention to some of the city's main streets. The committee on electric light was authorized to proceed with the work of improving the power plant site and the recorder was instructed to notify the city marshal to have all objections which he considered objectionable removed.

The lease of 12 acres of land near Provo cemetery was extended for $9 for the year 1907.

City Attorney Thomas presented an agreement between the Telluride Power company and the city, permitting the city to lay a conduit across certain land of the Telluride company in Provo canyon. A question came up as to whether the right of the city would be to convey water for electric power purposes, other than for lighting the streets. The agreement was amended by striking out a clause limiting the purpose for which the water is to be used, and the words limiting the size of pipe to 21 inches were also stricken out, and a resolution passed authorizing the mayor and recorder to sign this agreement in behalf of the city.

The city recorder presented a report of license fees collected for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1906, amounting to $2,158.30.

Councilman Fowelson brought up the question of street lighting, stating that while the city was in a bad box and was being pinched, he did think the city should not remain in darkness till a certain municipal plant, he then moved that the city recorder be instructed to notify the electric company to light the streets, as they were lighted before the difference of opinion in regard to price caused a suspension of lighting at 30 cents a light (the price which the company finally offered the lights for after first raising the price from 66 2/3 cents to $1, as a retaliatory measure for the license fee of $50 a year charged the company).

The motion carried, President Booth, Councilmen Gills, Miller and Partridge voting "no."

City Marshal Henry was given a leave of absence for an indefinite time, he to employ a substitute. Mr. Henry intends to take a little time to look after his campaign for sheriff, for which he has been nominated by the Democratic party.

Arrangements of arranging for laying the waterworks pipe line through Mr. Heltzel's fish pond in Provo canyon was referred to the committee on waterworks with power to act.

"THE MISSION OF MIRTH."

The first of the season's series of lectures under the auspices of the Philadelphia society, "The Mission of Mirth," was delivered last night by Thomas McClary of the American Lyceum on "The Mission of Mirth."

There are two springs of emotion in man, said Mr. McClary, the spring of sorrow and the spring of mirth.

and those who are most mirthful are most susceptible to sorrow. The one is akin to the other.

Mr. McClary recommended good, healthful, mirth as a means of restoring and preserving health. Few things in this world are better for a body than a good healthful laugh.

Mirth, said the lecturer, is a means of preserving appearances, of making beautiful. Mirth is a means of getting over lots of hard things in life. It will help you to succeed in life.

The speaker interspersed his remarks with many good, healthful jokes, the audience listened with attention and was in sympathy with the speaker throughout his lecture.

The lecture, by Spillman Riggs, scheduled for Oct. 25, has been postponed until next April.

The board of county commissioners met yesterday and transacted routine business of minor importance. It will meet in special session Friday to appoint judges of election.

Another meeting will be held on Saturday.

Monday evening the Democrats will open the campaign here with J. H. Moyle and L. B. Martineau as the principal speakers.

Jesse E. Johnson of Shelby, Idaho, arrived here yesterday for a course of study in Prof. Bassett's school for stammers.

Mr. and Mrs. Brigham Jarvis will leave for St. George, Thursday, where they will reside.

James Arrowsmith of Mesa, Arizona, is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Hannah Arrowsmith, and other relatives.

A complaint has been sworn to in Justice Noon's court charging J. B. Hildebrand with obtaining money under false pretenses from Carrie Thomas at Cotton on the 2nd of this month, when he passed a worthless check for $100 on Miss Thomas. He is charged with obtaining other amounts in a similar way in the canyon towns. Sheriff Harmon has gone after him.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. John Gatherum; all well.

The trustees of the Utah county schools will meet here on Tuesday the 23d, in County Superintendent Eggertsen's office.

Superintendent Eggertsen is very much interested in the proposed amendment to the constitution which, if it carries, will enable state aid to be given to the high schools. He is preparing and will publish, a letter to the public which he hopes will encourage the voters to vote "yes."

CELEBRITY.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Tendered Dr. George W. Middleton by Citizens of Cedar.

Cedar City, Iron Co., Oct. 15.—The big event of the year occurred here last evening when Dr. George W. Middleton was tendered a farewell social in the ward hall prior to his departure within a day or two for Europe and the cities in the eastern part of the United States.

The affair shows how highly the doctor is esteemed by those who best know his worth. There were over 300 guests present in his honor last evening. The entertainment comprised a program of short speeches, songs and readings, interspersed with dancing.

Dr. Middleton will travel in the company of Dr. Allen of Salt Lake City, with whom he did post graduate work in the Johns Hopkins university a few years ago. It is their intention to visit all the leading medical institutions in America and Europe, putting in the greater portion of their time at a great hospital in London. They expect to be absent about six months, and on their return it is the intention of Dr. Middleton, who has built up an enviable reputation for his successful surgery, to locate in Salt Lake City. He will be missed from this community, but Cedar's loss will be Salt Lake's gain.

SHOCKING DEATH OF BOY.

Little Mathew McEwan Has Head Crushed Under Wagon.

Special Correspondence.

Panguitch, Oct. 15.—Yesterday about 11 o'clock a. m. Mathew McEwan, 13 years of age, while driving a small load of straw up Main street, slipped off the load, and fell under the wagon. The hind wheel passed over his head, tearing the scalp from his head, and opening the skull on the back from ear to ear. The boy was hastily taken to the office of Dr. Clark, where everything was done for the little sufferer that medical skill could do, but at 3:30 p. m. he passed away, surrounded by his mother and relatives. A messenger was hastily dispatched for his father, who lives 10 miles distant, but Mr. McEwan was not able to arrive until after the death of his son.

The telephone poles will reach Marysville by about Tuesday next, when the wire will be stretched from the "vale" to Paulth, as the boys return home. Conference visitors have returned and report having had a good time. Farmers are still busy gathering their crops.
