

say nothing to the owners. You can fool all the people a part of the time; You can fool a part of the people all the time; but you cannot fool all of the people all the time. (Laughter.) Reciprocity is not free trade. It is a principle whereby people are allowed to enter our gates and are compelled to buy from us if they would sell to us.

The Republican party is in favor of sound money.

Only the party that uses force at the ballot box is afraid of the force bill. (Laughter.) Sugar was made cheaper by the erection of the Utah sugar factory at Lehi last year; everybody knows that.

As to alleged church influence being used by the Republican party in this campaign, we deny it. Out of their own mouths our opponents have convicted themselves. If the Republican party is successful in Utah it will not be due to church influence but because the people will simply assert their honest belief, a thing they did not do one year ago when they loaned the local Democracy a good proportion of their votes. (Protracted applause.)

was introduced by Col. Lett. He said in part: The other night at Ogden our eloquent friend said that if it were not for the McKinley protection bill, attraction would lose its force and the earth would be hurled through space and be converted into star dust. (Laughter.) He now says if it were not for Mexican free trade our mines would all close down. The lead production of our mines is only about 100 per cent of the entire output, the other 9-10 being gold and silver. (Applause.) The price of lead has gone down, the production has gradually diminished since the enactment of the McKinley bill. The Republicans tell us that if the Democracy wins in Utah our mines will close down. They didn't close down here between 1883 and 1886. (Applause.) Since the McKinley bill went into effect the three largest mines in Tintic were compelled to suspend business. (Renewed applause.) At Ogden the other night my friend quoted from a letter purporting to have been received by him from the well known hardware firm of E. C. Coffin & Co. of this city. When the gentleman read it I was following him in the Republican campaign book and found that the letter had been copied bodily from the book or the extract in the book from the letter. (Applause.) To the persons who are now engaged in manufacturing tin in the United States the people are compelled to pay $14,000,000 tribute annually.

The shoddy mills have greatly increased in number since the passage of the McKinley bill. Eugleni, the area of which is not much larger than Utah, sustains 33,000,000 head of sheep. In all the United States we have 44,000,000 head. The labor cost in the United States is less than elsewhere. Regarding bounties the Republican nominee has said that if the last Territorial Legislature had been Republican instead of Democratic, there would have been sugar factories in every county in Utah. (Laughter.) We Democrats don't believe in bounties. (Applause.) Last year the Lehi Sugar company was paid $42,000 in bounties. If that thing was extended indefinitely it would exhaust the Territory's finances. Democrats believe in home industries, but those industries must sustain themselves. When the farmer is unable to make both ends meet at the end of the year, he has just as much right to go before the Legislature and ask for an appropriation as an organized corporation has.

In 1857 the Republican party joined with the Democratic party in reducing the tariff.

Why is it that the millionaire manufacturers sell their products to foreign countries 35 per cent cheaper than they do to the American people? They are able to do so by the purchased provisions of the McKinley bill. The infamous system of Republican protection which has given to Carnegie wealth beyond the dreams of avarice is crushing the life out of the people. It has created the famous alliteration of tariff, trusts and tramps. The rich it makes richer and the poor poorer. It fills our prisons and poor houses.

Reciprocity is a kind of latitudinal free trade, extending afar off to the little island where Robinson Crusoe was stranded and one or two more such insignificant places.

Mr. Cannon has seen fit to refer to the election of one year ago. That is not an issue of the present campaign. He says that it was not a criterion. I don't know. The Democratic party has not resorted to the use of the Sunday schools (tremendous applause), or the Elders meetings to further their political ends. Neither have they dragged the names of men sacred to the Mormon people in the mire. (Cheers and applause from the Democratic side of the house.) They have endeavored to be honest in their canvass. They have issued no illustrated pamphlets as rewards of merit in the Sunday schools.

The speaker here referred sarcastically to what he termed an unholy alliance between the Republican leaders, Charles Crane and Judge Bennett on one side and Joseph F. and John Henry Smith and Bishop Clawson on the other. [Hisses and expressions of disgust came from the Republican side of the house]. Mr. Rawlins continued. You may sneer and protest but when men "steal the livery of the court of heaven to serve the devil in I have a right to tear off their masks and take them by their horns and horns and hold them up to public derision. In Provo the people have been told not to vote for Joseph Rawlins because he was an apostate and an agnostic.

At Mill Creek secret emissaries were sent among the people, I am told, to inform the people the same thing. The way to judge a man is by his past life. To the people I would say if you listened to the admonitions of such men, under such circumstances, Oh, Utah! poor Utah, who has been wandering in the wilderness of despair for forty years, hang your heads in shame. But I say that on the morrow you will express your honest convictions at the polls. As to the result no man will yield greater obedience than myself. I want no advantage over a political opponent and will take none. As the light shines through the rifted clouds after a storm, so do the signs of political freedom in Utah now appear. Men have mistaken the temper of the people with whom they have to deal. No trick or dark device will now deceive them. If I, for any purpose, desired revenge against the people I could have no greater wish than to see the schemes of such individuals as I have referred to, succeed. The Democrats have confined themselves to legitimate discussion in this campaign and with the result I will be content. (Applause.)

CANNON CLOSES.

I am not going to tear away the mask and show the faces of members of the Democratic party, prominent and otherwise, who hold ecclesiastical positions and are covered with hoofs and horns, who have used their Church influence in a certain direction. (Applause.) I have traveled more miles and made more speeches in this campaign than any other man and I never yet have made a personal attack on any member of the other party. I have heard of and read insinuating remarks made by the other candidate against my father, who was his client at the time he referred to and was supposedly under his protection. (Applause.) It belongs to us to show to the nation that we can stand on one broad political plane with the people of the United States. In every word the gentleman uttered in concluding his speech there was a threat against the people of Utah. He substantially said that unless they vote the Democratic ticket on the morrow they would be regarded by the nation as insincere. If that is so the Democratic party lied when it adopted its platform at Provo. (Applause.) One thing the Republican party will not do in this Territory if the Democratic party is successful and that is accuse the people of insincerity. (Applause.) It is said that for forty years we have wandered in the wilderness and that we will hang our heads in the valley of shame if a certain thing occurs. Tomorrow the people have the privilege of redeeming themselves. The Democracy has thought for a long time it owned us body and soul. I know that when the home rule bill was drafted its prospective offices were parceled out. (Applause.) Yes, people of Utah, we have wandered in the wilderness for forty years under the leadership of a Democratic Mess, but tomorrow you will be led into the promised land by a Republican Joshua. (Applause.)

The great gathering then dispersed amidst vociferous cheers for the respective candidates.

At Aspen, Colorado, it is reported diphtheria has become prevalent to an alarming extent. So far about fifty cases have been reported. The death rate is also large. On account of the epidemic all the public schools of the city have been closed for two weeks. A number of cases of scarlet fever are also reported.

A deal has been consummated in Boise City, Idaho, whereby the Maria, Black Hawk and Silver Bell mines at Mineral, owned by the Maria Mining company have been bonded for $150,000 for 90 days to W. Darlington, acting for a company of Colorado capitalists. These mines are the most valuable in the Mineral district.
