The revolutionary ideas of the eighbount century, however, found registered century, however, found fertile soil in the Greek nation. When Russis made her threatening move against Turkey during the reign of Catherine II, the Greeks prepared to strike for their illerity. The Russian campaign was not quite as successful as was expected, but in Greece it had the effect of recalling the people, particularly the young men, to a consciousness of their degraded position. Numerous particular sulface were formed, and in 1811 these were strong enough to valuare an active strongle with Turkey. The revolution was commenced whitch after time years of engatisary combate ends in the establishment of the Greek Ringdom.
