

VERDICT OF "NO CAUSE OF ACTION"

Rendered by Jury in Richards vs. Glasmann Libel Suit.

DON'T WANT TO LEAVE OFFICE

Old Officials Refuse to Recognize Council's New Appointments—Councilman Wilson Takes a Bride.

Ogden, Jan. 29.—"No cause of action" was the unanimous verdict rendered last evening by the eight jurors who heard the libel suit brought by Mrs. Alice Lewis Richards against the Standard Publishing company et al. The case was submitted to the jury at noon, but they did not arrive at the verdict for about six hours. Once the jury returned into the courtroom and informed Judge Chidester that they could not agree on a verdict. The court felt that they had not been out long enough, so advised them to return to the jury room and give the case further consideration. To Atty's. A. G. Horn and R. S. Farnsworth is due much credit for the able manner in which they conducted the defense for Glasmann, as a very hard fight was put up by the plaintiff's attorneys, Richards, Pratt & Skeen. There are still a number of libel suits pending against Mr. Glasmann and his papers.

REFUSE TO VACATE OFFICE.

New Appointees of Council Cannot Obtain Possession.

Ogden, Jan. 29.—None of the three appointees named by the Ogden city council at its regular meeting Monday night, to act as jail and desk sergeants, has as yet been able to get possession of his office. Jailor Snyder and Desk Sergeant Joseph Critchlow and Ben Ternes all refused to turn over their keys to the men appointed to succeed them, on the ground that the appointments were not legal. City Atty. J. H. Devine has sent to Pres. F. S. Browning a lengthy communication holding that under the statutes and the law as he understands it, it requires a majority of the city councilmen elected to confirm any appointment, and cites the state supreme court decision in the case of the state against George Sheets, which is a parallel case with the one under consideration. The outcome of the matter will be watched with interest.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

Some unknown party forced one of the doors leading into the warehouse at the D. & R. G. depot some time during Friday night or Saturday morning, breaking in by way of various towns to Canada. Returning to Boston a few days ago, he was found by his foster-mother after the police had forced in a door and overcome the male relatives of the boy's real mother. When Mrs. Maude G. Clarke's husband obtained a divorce from her, three years ago, their little son Carleton was adopted with their permission by Clarke's friend, Dr. Kremer, of 8707 Lexington avenue, N. Y. He was taught to regard Dr. and Mrs. Kremer as his father and mother and grew to love them as much as they loved him. Last October, while walking with Dr. Kremer's sister, the boy was seized by Mrs. Clarke, who, it is said, had made several attempts to recover him from the Kremers. He was taken into a waiting cab and rushed to a railway station, from which he was taken to Boston. The Kremers secured a warrant for Mrs. Clarke's arrest and she was followed to Boston. When the officers arrived there, however, she had again fled and it was only after a long search personally directed by Mrs. Kremer that they were located in Canada. A few days ago they returned to Boston and accompanied by police officers, Mrs. Kremer went to the home of Mrs. Clarke's parents. Admission was refused, Mrs. Kremer says, and the door was broken open. While the officers were overcoming the men in the house, according to Mrs. Kremer's story, she heard the boy's voice and found him in an adjoining room. Mrs. Clarke was arrested and the boy was turned over to Mrs. Kremer, who brought him back to New York last night. Dr. and Mrs. Kremer say that they will not prosecute Mrs. Clarke if she agrees not to again attempt to secure the boy.

There was also a brief note for her husband. Mr. Sears did not live in the same house with his wife, but is said to have been a frequent visitor there. Why Colds Are Dangerous—How To Cure Them

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous.

Every one knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold.

Consumption is a germ disease and is not caused by a cold but as a rule starts with a cold. The cold simply prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs of that disease that would not otherwise have found lodgment.

But this is not all.

It is now agreed by the best and most progressive physicians that the chances of contracting diphtheria and scarlet fever are greatly enhanced by colds. The same is true of influenza, whooping cough, measles and other infectious diseases. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs of these diseases. That is why one child will contract a disease and another exposed at the same time will not take it. The one that takes it, as a rule, has a cold.

A prominent physician has truthfully said that "a well established, ripe cold is to the germs of diphtheria what honey is to the bee." The same is true of all infectious diseases.

Colds are the greatest menace to human life at this season of the year.

How to Avoid Taking Cold

Keep the feet clean and dry. Keep the body clean and comfortably clothed.

Wear clean under clothing. Have your sleeping and living room clean and well ventilated.

Children most often take cold by getting their feet wet or by reason of their bodies and feet not being washed daily.

If people in general would observe these precautions, few of them would take cold and there would be less consumption, diphtheria, scarlet fever and other infectious diseases.

How to Cure a Cold

Be as careful as you can and you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, do not waste valuable time in experimenting with new and untried remedies, but get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

It has gained a world-wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this common ailment and may always be depended upon.

It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. During the many years in which this remedy has been in general use, we have yet to learn of a single case of a cold or of an attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is, in fact, a favorite with the mothers of young children, not only for colds, but also for croup and whooping cough and never disappoints them.
