The proposition to build a line of light rails, it is asserted, is only a temporary one because soon after the road is completed it will be demonstrated that it will be a paying undertaking.

Mr. Scofield's ambition is to get the line built and he is confident that the rest will follow. This enterprising pairs the proposition of the party is no novice at the work he is finder is no novice at the work he is undertaking, in fact he has built several roads and sold to advantage. Among the roads in Utah that he has constructed was the line to Aita.

AFTER REBATERS.

Roads Charged With Splitting Steamship Commissions With Passengers.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Charges that two western and three eastern railroads are paying rebates in order to get the business of persons bound from Chicago and northwest to New York to take steerage passage for Europe will be made by representatives of one of the eastern railroads at the special meeting of the Central Passenger association today.

The usual large fall and winter movement of persons of foreign birth from Chicago and the northwest to their homes in Europe is under way. Certain of the eastern and western roads are paying the agents of the Atlantic steamship companies commissions of from $2 to $5 for each ticket to New York sold via their lines. It is alleged that the steamship agents in turn with the knowledge of the roads are dividing their commissions with the passengers they get. These persons are thus enabled to travel from Chicago to New York for from $1 to $2.50 less than the lawful published rate for second class passengers. The usual large fall and winter move

The matter will be brought to the attention of the interstate commerce commission by the complaining eastern line filing with the commission tariffs formally announcing that this line proposes to adopt the same methods that its rivals are employing. This is expected to draw from the commission a ruling.

The men claim that they have not been paid by the subcontractors since Aug. 17, and that part of the money due is for labor performed in July. They have been excited about the matter for some time and finally quit work to come to town and investigate the matter and see what could be done.

Clerk Christensen of the board of public works informed them that the board would withhold the amount due them from the next estimate to be paid to P. J. Moran, the original contractor on the job. Mr. Moran was notified of the action yesterday by the clerk and his estimate will be reduced by about $2,000 when it is passed by the board and the men will thus be protected.

Sewell, was arraigned on a charge of forgery, in which there were several counts. He pleaded not guilty, and the case went over for a hearing. Payne would prefer to take his chance with the military authorities for deserting, rather than to face the civil law for forgery, but it is doubtful whether his wish will be gratified in the premises.

The case of E. H. Rich, charged with Road Supervision Raleigh with a misdemeanor, for filling a certain ditch in front of his premises, was today disfront of his premises, was today dis-missed by Judge Diehl. The testimony of defendant, who resides on North Temple and Seventh West street, was to the effect that he had permission of the city engineer to put in a curbing at a certain depth, to prevent water from standing in fropt of his house. Rich claims that Raleigh's men arbitrarily digged his ditch much deeper than was necessary and he filled it in to the level authorized by the engineer. The digging out and filling in was repeated a number of times, and finally Raleigh had Rich arrested, but the court today held that there was no cause of action, and the defendant was discharged.

DEMAND FOR POLES.

Compressed Paper Said to be a Good Substitute for Wood.

A prominent telephone official remarked this morning that with the increasing scarcity of poles, companies using overhead electric plants would be forced to find some substitute for wooden poles. Such a substitute could be found in compressed paper, cornstalks, and the like. This would take care of an immense quantity of waste papers that find their way to the crematories, or are left to blow about the streets. Compressed paper makes a very strong stick, and would well answer the purpose of telephone construction. Paper mills can take care of but a very limited amount of wate paper, on account of the faks which seem incapable of neutrialization by present known chemical processes, without destroying the texture of the paper itself. Sawdust is compressed into boards now using overhead electric plants would be
