

"DUMMY" ROWAN WON THE FIGHT.

Knocked the Park City Giant Out in the Third Round.

BIG MAN WAS VERY GAME.

In the Second Round Rolly Had the Mute Almost Out, But the Latter Rallied.

In the third round of what was to have been a ten round go between "Dummy" Rowan and Houston Rolly at Park City, last night, the latter was knocked completely out, and "Dummy" was declared the winner.

The go was exceedingly lively while lasted and the friends of Rolly were greatly surprised at the showing he made. It was the first fight he ever had of a professional nature, and his friends say that with proper training he will make a good fighter. In the first round Rolly had the mute all but gone, and when the gods saved him from going down for good. At the end of the first round both men went to their corners willingly, and it was noticed that they were in need of oxygen in large doses.

In the second round the fighting was of the whirlwind order, and before it had half ended the Park City lad had the "Dummy" on the ropes and it looked like the end had come. "Dummy" rallied, however, and began to force the fighting. He landed a stiff one on Rolly's jaw sending him to the floor for almost the full count. Both were decidedly groggy as the round ended.

When the men came up for the third round, it was evident to all that Rolly had not the "stick-to-itiveness" that he was winded and that he was the defeated man. "Dummy" had regained his strength and was apparently fresh and strong as ever. The men advanced slowly to the center of the ring and exchanged rights. They parried a few minutes when the mute's right suddenly shot out with great force and the Park City pet went down with a thud. The blow had landed fairly on the jaw and Rolly was completely out.

The preliminaries were between Fatty Rowe vs Jacob McDonald and Ray Kenner vs Jim Francis.

The receipts amounted to something over $300.

GAME WILL BE PROTESTED.

Reppito of Y. M. C. A. Not Satisfied With the Contest.

Captain Hugh Reppito of the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team says he is going to protest the game played last week with the L. D. S. college. Reppito's contention is that the game was unfair because the L. D. S. team are not pupils of the school and are therefore not entitled to play in the team. On the other hand it is claimed that no agreement has ever been made to the effect that non-members of the school should not be allowed to play. The league officials will settle the dispute at their next regular meeting.

OUTSIDE EVENTS.

TERRY IS DISGUSTED.

He Does Not Like the Stage and Will Leave It.

Chicago Feb. 18.—A special to the Chronicle from Kansas City, Mo., says: "Terry McGovern is disgusted with the stage and will 'tread the boards' for the last time in April. Although his theatrical tour has been a financial success he would rather box than attempt to act. Manager Harris said today: 'Terry will finish up the season April 6th in Brooklyn. On Monday, April 8th, he will start for San Francisco where Terry will fight Tim Hagerty before the Twentieth Century Athletic club April 28th.'

Bowling Matches.

New York, Feb. 18.—The Inter-city bowling match between New York and Chicago bowlers which was the subject of complaints by the New York bowlers of unfair treatment in the National bowling championship meeting in Chicago last month, has finally been arranged and will be bowled at Toledo, Ohio, on May 14th. Each team will put up $500 and the winners will receive the entire amount of $1,000 in addition to 80 per cent of the gross receipts of the match.

SPRING HANDICAPS.

Entries to the First and Second are Announced.

New York, Feb. 18.—G. C. Crickmore, secretary of the Washington Jockey club, has announced the entries made to the first and second spring handicaps to be run on the first and last day of the spring meeting at Benning, Tenn. Races are for three year olds and upwards, the first being at six furlongs, with $500 added, and the second at seven furlongs with $1,000 added. The weights for the race will be announced on March 1st. The entries are:

Death (6), False Alarm (5), Robert Waddell (3), Albee (2), Magic (2), Knight of Rhodes (4), Moor (4), Guatemala (4), Speedmaster (5), Lexington (7) Big Gun (4), First Whip (4), The Rhymer (3), Fake (3), Albert Edward (3), Robert Metcalf (4), Charley Brisk (aged), Sidney Lucas (4), Gold Fox (5), Elaine (4), Sentry (3), Oblivion (3), Titicaca (3), Animosity (3), Gertrude Elliott (3), Prince of Verona (4), Intrusive (5).

SULLIVAN WINS A BOUT.

Tom Kearns is Defeated in the Twentieth Round.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 18.—Spike Sullivan of New York was tonight given the decision over Tom Kearns of Brooklyn by a unanimous vote of the judges.

The men weighed in at 133 pounds. For the first six rounds neither forced matters. Then, for four rounds, Kearns took the aggressive and appeared to be punishing Sullivan with kidney blows and jabs over the wind. There was little behind the blows, however. At the end of the eleventh round Sullivan landed on Kearns a well punishing blow severely over the heart and the face. Twice Sullivan fell and both times Referee Hurst cautioned Kearns against what looked like fouls, Kearns striking Sullivan when he was on his knees. In the seventeenth round Kearns was all but out.

From the thirteenth round the result was never in doubt. Sullivan's generalship and science far surpassing that of Kearns. From beginning to end the fight was of the rough and tumble order and the referee was continually cautioning them against the tactics used. Time and again each man claimed a foul, but one of the fighters was as bad as the other in this respect.

Drunkards Easily Cured.

Miss Edith Williams Wants Every Lady Reader of this Paper to Know How She Saved Her Father.

Used an Orliness and Tasteless Remedy In His Food Quickly Curing Him Without His Knowledge.

Trial Package of Remedy Mailed Free To Show How Easy It Is to Cure Drunkards.

Nothing could be more dramatic or devoted than the manner in which Miss Edith Williams, Box 36, Waynesville, Ohio, cured her drunken father after years of misery, wretchedness and almost unbearable suffering.

MISS EDITH WILLIAMS.

"Yes, father is a reformed man," she said, "and our friends think it a miracle that I cured him without his knowledge or consent. I had read how Mrs. Kate Lynch of 329 Ellis St., San Francisco, Cal., had cured her husband by using a remedy secretly in his coffee and food and I wrote to Dr. Haines for a trial. When it came I put some in father's coffee and food and watched him closely but he couldn't tell the difference so I kept it up."

"One morning father got up and said he was hungry. This was a good sign, as he rarely ate much breakfast. He went away and when he came home at noon perfectly sober I was almost frantic with joy as I hadn't seen him sober for half a day before in over fourteen years. After dinner he sat down in the big easy chair and said, 'Edith, I don't know what has come over me but I hate the sight and smell of liquor and am going to stop drinking forever. This was to me and I told him that when I had done. Well, we both had a good cry, and now we have the happiest home and the kindest father you can imagine. I am so glad you will publish this experience for it will reach many others and let them know about that wonderful Golden Specific.'

Dr. Haines, the discoverer, will send a sample of this grand remedy free to all who will write for it. Enough of the remedy is mailed free to show how it is used in tea, coffee or food, and that it will cure the dreaded habit quietly and permanently. Send your name and address to Dr. J. W. Haines, 673 Glenn Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, and he will mail a free sample of the remedy to you, securely sealed in a plain wrapper, also full directions how to use it, books and testimonials from hundreds who have been cured, and everything needed to aid you in saving those near and dear to you from a life of degradation and ultimate poverty and disgrace.

Send for a free trial today. It will brighten the rest of your life.

AGED COUPLE TO WED.

An aged couple applied to and received a marriage license from County Clerk James this forenoon. Their names are as follows: James Gardner, 70, and Hannah M. Vowels, 63, both of American Fork, Utah.

CONSUL HAY'S SUCCESS.

He Secures from Lord Kitchener Food for All Foreigners.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Consul Hay scored a distinct diplomatic success at Pretoria before leaving there. Lord Kitchener had issued a proclamation at Johannesburg which, while allowing the English and Dutch to buy food from the government stores, prohibited this privilege to foreigners. As a result of this, it was difficult to obtain food in any direction; so it looked like starvation for the 8,000 foreigners on the road.

The consular corps at Johannesburg exhausted all its resources without avail, and at last dispatched Mr. Gordon, the American consular agent, to Pretoria to enlist the help of the consul. Mr. Hay hearing the Lord Kitchener was about to leave for London, he immediately without consulting with his colleagues, laid the matter before him and succeeded in getting an order to the military governor at Johannesburg to allow only Americans, but all foreigners, to obtain food from the government stores on certificates from their representatives.

CONSUL HAY WELCOMED IN LONDON.

New York, Feb. 18.—Consul Adelbert Hay is receiving a warm welcome from friends in London, says the Tribune's correspondent in London. He is modest and reticent and talks like an honest man who has done his work with strict impartiality. He distributed four thousand letters among the British prisoners and arranged money remittances for them, yet commanded the respect of President Kruger. He left Pretoria received the honor of a farewell dinner from a dozen burghers. On the other hand, his relations with Gen. Roberts and Gen. Kitchener were most friendly and the four prisoners were grateful for his timely services. He refers in the kindest terms to the leaders on each side and avoids any display of partisanship.

Mr. Hay will spend a fortnight in London and on the continent before sailing for America.

Shamrock III.

Glasgow, Feb. 18.—The protest of George L. Watson against the slow progress of the work on the Shamrock III has had a good effect, and during the past week the yacht has grown at a remarkable rate. Quite two-thirds of her outer plating is now in place, riveted up and smoothed off. The plates are of manganese bronze, three eighths of an inch in thickness, and varying from two feet to three and a half feet in length. The top sides and overhanging plates are overlapped and riveted by a double row of rivets of the same strength. Below the water line, however, the butts of the plates are brought edge to edge and are fitted with such accuracy that the joint is scarcely discernible. The rivets are specially made of yellow gun metal. They are counter-sunk into the plates and are dressed with great accuracy, a burnishing machine being used to make the joints dead smooth.

HOW M'MILLAN BILL RE-PASSED.

As stated in last evening's "News" the Governor's veto of the McMillan bill was not sustained in the lower house yesterday, the vote to pass the bill over the veto being 33 to 12.

When the bill came up for consideration Mr. McMillan moved that the word "public" in reference to schools, be stricken out of the title so as to make it correspond to the text of the bill. It carried. This simple little amendment would necessitate the bill going through both houses again and being submitted to the Governor as a new bill. The change had been suggested in the House at the time the bill was signed by the Speaker, but the title was then allowed to stand. Some of the sharper sighted members among the anti-compulsory ranks saw the trap they were being led into, and Mr. Holzner came to the rescue by moving that the vote on the amendment be reconsidered, and the motion prevailed. Axton held out for the amendment vote, however. When the count was taken it was found that the amendment had been voted down. When the final vote was taken on the passage of the bill it was not perfectly clear whether members were voting on the question of sustaining the veto or passing the McMillan bill. When the vote was counted and announced as 33 to 12, a full vote to the House, the Speaker ruled that the McMillan bill had passed and ordered it transmitted to the Senate. Those who voted for the bill were:

Anderson, Barrett, Bench, Billings, Christensen, Cutler, Evans, Fry, Gardner, Harmon, Hatch, Howlett, Holzner, Homer, Johnson, D. C.; Johnson, G. W.; Kelly, Langston, Maughan, McFarland, McGregor, McMillan, Mohr, Morris, D. M.; Morris, N. L.; Page, Pond, South, Stevens, Van Wagenen, Wells, Williams and Speaker Glasman—33.

His opponents were: Axton, Davis, Hall, Hamlin, Holmgren, Lambert, Phillips, Redd, Sharp, Smith, Stuart and Van Horn—12.

GERMAN ATROCITIES IN CHINA.

New York, Feb. 18.—George Lynch, an English war correspondent who saw service in Cuba and South Africa, and was then commissioned by two London papers to accompany the allied forces on the march to Peking, writes to the Herald a long description of the terrible atrocities by the allies by which the campaign was accompanied. Mr. Lynch personally vouches for the accuracy of the facts he relates. He says:

"But it is to the Germans that we must award the laurels of outrage in this campaign. They arrived late for the hunt—the man-hunt, or man, woman and child hunt. There was something particularly cold-blooded about their proceedings. They arrived when the country ought to have been settling down, to avenge their minister and to carry out the mandate of their Kaiser."

"After marching into Peking, leaving their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had

just ventured to return to their homes, the Germans established a military reign of terror in their section of the city. Every day there were executions. One day sixty-eight were shot. They did not hesitate to resort to oriental methods for the purpose of extracting evidence from their witnesses. The treatment of their prisoners, as I can personally testify from what I saw, was most brutal."

Mr. Lynch takes the missionaries to task for their looting. Further on he says: "The policy of the United States throughout this whole Chinese business has been to my mind, altogether admirable. I recollect being with Gen. Chaffee the day after the relief. He said to me: 'We have come up to relieve these people in the legations and now the sooner we can get out and go back home the better pleased I shall be.' This appears to me the right policy, not alone for the United States but for all the rest of the powers."

Mr. Lynch thinks the Chinese spirit of their path stained with the blood of hundreds of innocent people, who had the amendment vote, however. When the count was taken it was found that the amendment had been voted down. When the final vote was taken on the passage of the bill it was not perfectly clear whether members were voting on the question of sustaining the veto or passing the McMillan bill. When the vote was counted and announced as 33 to 12, a full vote to the House, the Speaker ruled that the McMillan bill had passed and ordered it transmitted to the Senate. Those who voted for the bill were:

Anderson, Barrett, Bench, Billings, Christensen, Cutler, Evans, Fry, Gardner, Harmon, Hatch, Howlett, Holzner, Homer, Johnson, D. C.; Johnson, G. W.; Kelly, Langston, Maughan, McFarland, McGregor, McMillan, Mohr, Morris, D. M.; Morris, N. L.; Page, Pond, South, Stevens, Van Wagenen, Wells, Williams and Speaker Glasman—33.

His opponents were: Axton, Davis, Hall, Hamlin, Holmgren, Lambert, Phillips, Redd, Sharp, Smith, Stuart and Van Horn—12.

As stated in last evening's "News" the Governor's veto of the McMillan bill was not sustained in the lower house yesterday, the vote to pass the bill over the veto being 33 to 12.

When the bill came up for consideration Mr. McMillan moved that the word "public" in reference to schools, be stricken out of the title so as to make it correspond to the text of the bill. It carried. This simple little amendment