City of Mexico, Nov. 22.—One of the most notable political demonstrations in the history of Mexico occurred here this afternoon, when the foreign residents of this and adjoining counties marched in a procession up the thor-oughfare of San Francisco street to the national palace to urge President Diaz to accept the nomination for re-election by the liberal party, whose convention will assemble early in the coming year.

No other country can show a more contanted and prosperous body of out-landers, and the demonstration was notable for its spontaneous enthusiasm and great numbers, several thousands of Frenchmen, Cermans, Americans, Englishmen, Belgians, Austrians and Italians taking part. The American contingent represented every mercan-tile, banking, insurance and other in-terest. Most of the participants were men of high standing in this commun-tive the democratical and was viewed by ity. General Diaz replied to his callers in a brief but cloquent speech, in which he deprecated the idea that a man of his age should be selected to carry the executive department for four years more. He referred to the high charac. ter of the participants in this significant demonstration, and intimated that he should listen to the manifestation of the people's will as shown later on.

however much we may rack our brains to discover satisfactory solutions of them, there is at least one-and certainly not the least important-province, in which the solution has been found. For is not the question "What is our best daily beverage?" of importance to all classes of society? And is any other answer to that question possible, from disinterested persons, than Van Houten's Cocoa? It is more wholesome than any other drink, it is nourishing and easy to digest; refreshing without acting injuriously on the nervous system, in the way that Tea, Coffee, and other drinks do; and its delicious flavor in no way palls on the taste after continually using the cocoa. As regards its price, it is, as thousands can testify from practical experience, not at all dear to use.

What a pity all social questions cannot be answered as easily as the above one; but their answers require a great deal of thinking about. Those who are busy thinking about them, cannot do better than take a cup of Van Houten's Cocoa, daily, as for helping the brain-worker it is without equal.
