WHILE money matters in this city are rather stringent and in the far east are still more so, there appears to be plenty of cash in California. The savings banks in Han Francisco are lowering their rates of interest on money loaned by them. Last week the French bank loaned $33,-000 at nine per cent. This week the German Savings Bank, says the S. F. Chron c'c, made loans of $16,000, $15,090, and $9,000 at nine per cent. The Hibernian Bank, for a long time past, has charged but nine per 000 at nine per cent. This week the cent.
