Local and Other Matters.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY, OCT. 28.

Trial for Riot.—The acquitted murderers of Elder Joseph Standing, having escaped the just penalty of their foul deed, are to be tried for riot, the charge being based upon the same event for which they were arraigned and found "not guilty." The new trial was to have commenced yesterday.

Arrested.—Last evening, Elder James Birmingham, of Bountiful, Davis County, was arrested at his home by deputy U. S. Marshal Greenman, and brought to Salt Lake. Being charged with polygamy, he waived an examination, gave bonds in the sum of $2,000 and was permitted to return to his home.

Canvassing for "Bikuben."—A. W. Winberg, editor and publisher of the Bikuben, starts this morning on a business trip through Utah, Juab, Sanpete and Sevier Counties, in the interests of his paper. Bikuben has been greatly enlarged and improved of late, and is a paper the Scandinavian population should appreciate and patronize. Success!

Canned Peaches.—Messrs. R. F. Johnson and sons, of Lake Villa, are engaged in the business of fruit canning this season. A specimen of their canned peaches was shown to us this morning. The Johnson orchards and vineyards are celebrated for their excellent products, and we trust the proprietors will meet with success in the worthy enterprise of preserving home fruits for the home trade.

A Bovine Treasure.—Brother Jacob Bigler, of Nephi, has a cow of the half breed Devon stock that is a small fortune in herself. As a sample of what she can produce, we give the following: One evening last week Sister Bigler set away the milk from this cow and let it stand thirty-six hours. She then skimmed it, taking the whole coating of cream in her hand at once and without its breaking, deposited it in the scales. It weighed just sixteen ounces. She then put it into a pan, took a spoon and stirred it three minutes and it became butter, so nice and hard it was with difficulty she could stir in the salt. The butter was then put into the same scales and weighed exactly thirteen ounces; the butter-milk exactly three ounces. We are also told that the milk from the same cow, mixed with that of ordinary cows, when setting away, not only increases its richness, but causes the cream of the latter to rise much quicker than usual.

From Bear Lake.—Bishop George Dunford, of Malad, returned from his visit north, last evening, whither he went, two weeks ago, to attend the funeral of his brother, Elder Isaac Dunford of Bloomington, who was accidentally killed by falling from his wagon on Saturday, the 4th inst. Bishop Dunford gives a few additional particulars regarding that unfortunate occurrence. It appears that Brother Dunford, in falling from his wagon, struck his head upon a rock, which stunned him, and the wheel immediately passing over his left side, crushed out his life. It is almost certain that he was instantly killed and much suffering was thereby obviated. When picked up, his hand was clenched tightly around his whip stock, just as it was when he fell, which probably would not have been the case had he lived long enough to make any effort to rescue himself.

The funeral was largely attended, all the family of the deceased were present, and Counsellor George Omond, of the Stake presidency, and other local authorities, conducted the services.

Our informant speaks in glowing terms of the progress made by the people of Bloomington, in the past few years. The outlook is very encouraging also. One thing he deprecates (and we heartily concur) is the burning of the timber in the mountains, and would impress the people to be more careful in the future with fire, lest they deprive themselves of one of the most valuable of their natural resources.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY, OCT. 23.

Indictments.—The Grand Jury returned five new indictments this morning; four under the laws of the Territory and the remaining one under the laws of the United States.

Improving.—Brother James Anderson, of the Sixth Ward, whose eyes were so seriously injured Monday afternoon, while pouring molten brass into a mould, is improving gradually, and so far, retains his eye sight. If inflammation can be prevented, and every effort is being made to this end, he will not lose his vision. We trust we will soon be able to report his entire restoration.

David Fullmer Dead.—Elder David Fullmer, of the 6th Ward, one of Utah's early settlers and a survivor of the Haun's Mill massacre, died last night, at his residence, at 20 minutes after 11 o'clock. He was born July 7th, 1803, in Chillisquaque Township, Northumberland County, Pennsylvania; was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in September, 1836; and the following winter went to Kirtland. He moved to Caldwell County, Mo., in September, 1837, and afterwards to Davis County. The next day after the massacre at Haun's Mill, he with four or five others buried those who were killed there. Was driven out of Missouri with the Saints, and reached Nauvoo in 1839. Was electioneering for President Joseph Smith at the time of the latter's death. He came to Utah in 1848; was for several years a member of the High Council of this Stake of Zion; was counselor to President Spencer, and acting President of this Stake several years, while Brother Daniel Spencer was on a mission to Europe. He was also a patriarch for several years; at the time of his decease was in full fellowship, beloved and respected by all his associates, and after a long and eventful life has departed for a brighter and better sphere, to await the morning of the resurrection of the just.

FROM THURSDAY'S DAILY, OCT. 23.

One More Unfortunate.—The Grand Jury, this morning, reported one more indictment found under the laws of the United States.

Work Resumed.—A new and larger engine has been put in place and work resumed on the artesian well, above the cemetery on the north bench of the city.

Information Wanted.—Ann Knowles would like to learn of the whereabouts of her brother, William Knowles, who emigrated from Preston to Utah, in March, 1854. Address—Ann Knowles, care of Wm. J. Blackburn, 34 Barlow Fold, Rawtenstall, near Manchester, England.—Millennial Star.

Crushed to Death.—A drunken man named Baker, on Monday evening, fell off the C. P. east bound emigrant train, near Wells, Nevada, and was instantly killed by the train passing over him. He was seated on top of the caboose, talking to some of the hands, when a sudden lurch of the train precipitated him down between the cars. Both legs were cut off and his head so mutilated as to be beyond all recognition.

Tumor Removed.—On Monday, October 20th, 1879, at his residence in Logan City, Dr. Groesbeck removed from the neck and shoulder of Mrs. Mary Willey Richards, wife of Joseph Richards, of St. Joseph, Arizona, a tumor weighing seven ounces, from which she had suffered twelve years. During the past year the tumor had grown very fast. The lady, who is stopping with Brother Rick's family, is doing finely and hopes soon to return to her southern home.

The Wig Case.—The case of the young man, charged with profanity, disturbance and resisting an officer, was up before Justice Pyper yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and as the defendant wished a jury trial, the case was not ready to be submitted until late last evening. It was after 8 o'clock when a verdict of guilty was rendered, and the defendant fined $25 and costs, which, including future fees, made the whole sum amount to $43.50. An appeal is to be taken to the District Court.

Funeral of David Fullmer.—The funeral of the late Elder David Fullmer, was held this afternoon in the Sixth Ward Meeting House. The assembly was addressed, consecutively, by Elder Orson Pratt, Bishop Edward Hunter, Bishop L. W. Hardy, and Bishop W. H. Hickenlooper, of the 6th Ward. The remarks were instructive and consoling, and of a character naturally suggested by the long and eventful life of the departed veteran, and the circumstances attending his demise.

Dangerous Bridges.—We are frequently called upon to notice the bad condition of the bridges crossing streams and water courses in various parts of this city. A new complaint is now lodged. Mr. George Spiers, of Tooele, while coming to town yesterday, met a Mr. Craner, of his place, just beyond Brighton, with his loaded wagon broken down while crossing a dilapidated bridge. One of his mules had taken fright at a bad opening in the boards, and by suddenly jerking the load off the bridge had smashed a wheel, thus compelling the owner to return to town for assistance and delaying his journey several hours. Mr. Spiers, himself, while going over the bridge across the canal in the Sixth Ward, came very near meeting with a worse accident, through a cause exactly similar. His animal, seeing two ugly holes in the bridge, swerved to one side and almost tipped the wagon into the canal. Such crossings should be repaired immediately and kept in good order, lest serious accident and perhaps death, results from their present condition.

An Exciting Voyage.—Sister Elizabeth H. Goddard, wife of Elder George Goddard, of this city, returned Tuesday evening from a five months trip to Great Britain, whither she went for the purpose of visiting her relatives. The steamship Montana, of the Guion Line, on which Sister Goddard returned, left Liverpool on Saturday, the 4th inst., and had a pleasant voyage until the following Saturday, when a terrific gale struck the vessel in mid ocean, sweeping away two young men, one a sailor, the other a steerage passenger, destroying all the boats on the vessel, and tearing the rigging into shreds. The two men were never recovered. The bravery of the captain and his men in this trying scene is spoken of by our informant in glowing terms. Several days before the storm, the Montana, encountering a sailing vessel in distress, whose crew had been subsisting on stale bread and brackish water for 14 days, imparted of their substance in the shape of potatoes, bread, pork, tea, beef, etc., to the sufferers. Elders George M. Ottinger and Chas. R. Savage were also aboard the Montana, the former of whom sketched the distressed vessel, and presented the drawing to the captain of his steamship. Thus, our Salt Lake friends had an excellent opportunity of witnessing, in several of its exciting phases, "A life on the Ocean Wave."

Showing Its Horns.—Following is the style in which the Ogden Dispatch, which up to this time we have supposed was what it professed to be, an independent exponent of the truth, blackens its own character and inscribes its own epitaph. Angry at not obtaining "Mormon encouragement and support," to the extent it allowed itself to hope, it now turns its coat, which it seems is "one of many colors," with the expectation of pleasing its "Gentile" patrons.

"It would have been impossible for any other journal, (but the Dispatch) published in the west, to have entered into Mormonism without dabbling in or expressing opinions on the degrading systems which are in daily practice in our midst, or without, in some way, treading on the toes of some finely discriminating individual, whose religious ideas it might conflict with. Notwithstanding this well-known fact, and the boast of the leaders of the religious organization to which we have direct reference, that they are always ready to encourage a free press, and all that assists in the enlightenment and civilization of their woefully benighted adherents, it has not been our fortune as yet to experience the demonstration of these principles, at least, in the matter of support, encouragement, or in fact, any patronage worthy the name. Now it may not be to the advantage of this organization to have a free press in their midst, that does not have to do with the most important issues of the day and of the section in which it is permanently located, but it would surely be to its disadvantage if the said press were to take cognizance of these matters, and present them in their true light."

Such sentiments will, of course, be appreciated by the "woefully benighted adherents," whose "civilization" and "enlightenment" have been so remarkably promoted by this slangy, sensational sheet, and whose patronage is solicited, and it is thought, will be obtained by means of threats and insults. The Dispatch has sealed its own doom.

The women of Fredericktown, Ohio, have a way of their own of dealing with Sunday liquor dealers. Yesterday, they broke into a saloon and destroyed the entire stock of liquors, and warned the druggists of the town that they would be treated in the same way if they did not remove their liquors today.

The scarcity of Diamonds, Gold and Silver, and the difficulties met with in securing them, is a sure indication of their value.

Thus it is with a valuable medicine: Dr. Aug. Kaiser's Celebrated German Pulmonic Elixir, through the jealousy of rivals, has met with the most bitter opposition, and apparently almost insurmountable obstacles have been thrown in its way; but its opponents might as well try to change the course of the sun, sweep back the ocean with a broom or put out a prairie fire with a tear.

For the cure of Throat and Lung diseases, such as Coughs, Colds, Consumption and Bronchial Affections, it is unequalled. Its cures are truly magical. Ask your Druggist for it. The genuine bears the Prussian Coat of Arms, the facsimile signature of Dr. Aug. Kaiser, and has his name blown on every 75 cent bottle. Trial bottle, 25 cents.
