

Correspondence.

ST. GEORGE, May 4, 1873.

Editor Deseret News:

Our Conference is just closed. There was a general good attendance for the three days, but to-day the New Tabernacle was crowded. The presidents and bishops in the various towns, cities and wards were present, and gave report of prosperity in their various localities. There was speaking by a large number of elders, and very interesting discourses were delivered by Bishop Roundy, delineating his trip of explorations south, and by Jacob Gates on "general principles." Prest. Joseph W. Young lies very sick and was not able to be in attendance at any of the meetings.

Our fruit is not as badly used up by frost as we feared. We shall have a fair crop of peaches, apples, pears and plums, and some apricots.

Our flower gardens are in all their beauty of bloom—roses, lilies and many other flowers are in "loveliest beauty drest."

The weather has been unusually unpleasant, cloudy and windy, and cold for a month, but it seems to promise better now, and Sol in his brightest splendor shines to-day. Crops are looking splendid, and bees are characteristically "busy bees." We noticed to-day the apiary of Bro. J. E. Johnson, of eighty stand, in their highest glory of foraging the floral gardens, hills and glens for the choice sweets of nature there garnered.

All is peace, harmony and quiet, except the noisy tools of workmen, who are overtaxed with labor. "My kingdom for a" man!

Yours, CACTI.

Are we a Nation of Thieves?

The American people are rapidly acquiring the reputation of being the greatest rascals, as a forty-million mass, on the face of the earth, and we cannot doubt that they deserve the unenviable notoriety. An American goes to England, and by a well-laid scheme of villainy carries away hundreds of thousands of dollars belonging to the London banks. Congressmen devise wholesale plans to enrich themselves at the expense of the Government. Commissioners appointed to superintend the display of American industry at a world's fair in Europe, coolly sell their services to the highest bidder, and sit down unblushing among the peoples of the earth and submit to a trial of a crime worse than grand larceny. California sharpers "salt" diamond fields in two or three Territories. Utah speculators rob London capitalists to the tune of millions by selling them worthless mines. Fremont robs the French in a railroad operation, and the capitalists of Frankfort admit a loss of over forty million dollars in American railroad stocks. Whole lines of railroad are stolen, and Indian tribes are manufactured on paper by agents to secure annuities for themselves from the Government. They rob each other, rob foreigners, rob the Government and rob churches.

And so we go—stealing, stealing, stealing. Europeans will soon acquire the habit of buttoning up their pockets when Americans visit them.—Territorial Enterprise.
