STEALS MARCH ON RIVAL ROAD.

Salt Lake & Ogden People Lay Track on Lincoln Avenue Saturday Night.

BAMBERGER MEANS BUSINESS

Will Have Line Between Ogden and Salt Lake Completed by July 1, and To Ogden Canyon Later.

Ogden, April 8.—The Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company sprung a surprise on the people of Ogden Sunday morning by laying a double track from twenty-fifth street along Lincoln avenue to thirty-third street, thus blocking the Ogden Rapid Transit company, who also had a franchise to build along the same street, from carrying out its plans of laying a track along Lincoln avenue in the very near future. Simon Bamberger, owner of the Salt Lake & Ogden line, was personally in Ogden to supervise the operations of the large force of men and teams employed to put down the ties and rails.

While the people of Ogden slept, Mr. Bamberger and his men were busy, and when daylight dawned yesterday morning it was no little surprise to the people to find a very crooked track laid along Lincoln avenue, and the remark of Mr. Bamberger early yesterday morning that "he would soon have the track straightened out, would indicate that he means business."

Mr. Bamberger had laid his plans carefully and kept them an absolute secret from the Ogden Rapid Transit company. He had shipped into Ogden during the past week large quantities of ties and rails, which he stored in the Rio Grande freight yards, until shortly after midnight Saturday night, when the large force of men and teams were put to work and soon had the material on the grounds. By the Salt Lake & Ogden company getting its double track along Lincoln avenue, it has secured possession of one of the very best thoroughfares of the city, as it runs through an important residential district, and heretofore has not had any street car service, and Lincoln avenue is the best street in the city for the new line to gain entrance to Ogden from the south. The Ogden Rapid Transit company learned of the Bamberger people's workings about an hour after the work had been commenced, and Assistant Superintendent J. W. Bailey was soon on the scene. He immediately took in the situation and had cars brought from the powerhouse and placed on the track along Twenty-fifth street, thus preventing the Bamberger interests from putting their track across Twenty-fifth street. Later, however, Mr. Bailey learned that Mr. Bamberger did not intend putting his track further along Lincoln avenue, but that Twenty-fifth street, at the present time at least, and therefore removed the cars, and yesterday morning cars were running along Twenty-fifth street as usual.

The Salt Lake and Ogden company expects to have its cars running into Ogden not later than July 1, and may build to the mouth of Ogden canyon before the summer is past.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.
Richard Smith, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. C. Smith of North Ogden, was accidentally shot Saturday in the abdomen with a .22 caliber rifle. The boy was at a neighbor's place playing with several boys, who were shooting the rifle. One of the boys nine years of age, accidentally pulled the trigger when the rifle was pointed towards young Smith, and the bullet penetrated the abdomen, piercing the liver. The boy was removed to his home and physicians were quickly summoned from Ogden. They performed an operation, removing the bullet. The wound is considered serious, but every hope is entertained for his recovery, as he was in a very healthy condition, and there is little chance of blood poisoning or serious complications setting in. The boy's father is a wealthy sheep owner.

BIG THEATRICAL EVENT.
"The Witch of the Woods" for Benefit of W. S. Academy.

Ogden, April 8.—The season's greatest theatrical event, "The Witch of the Woods," a grand spectacular operatic extravaganza by Mrs. L. Brooks Vincent, will appear in the Grand Opera House Friday and Saturday evenings, April 20 and 21 and Saturday matinee. The production presents 300 people on the stage in song choruses and special effects with life and nature, with romance and burlesque, with climax in spectacular effects and under beautiful calcium lights.

The newspapers give unequalled praise of the acting, singing, ensemble and spectacular effects, pronouncing it an unequalled and grand success, even praising the complete training and acting of those in the smallest parts. The Weber State academy announcement has given to its patrons many rare treats during the season, and the last event will be a crowning success.

The proceeds derived from this great theatrical event will go to the building fund of the proposed new Weber State academy.

DRILLING FOR OIL.
H. H. Gidden, president of the LaSalle Mineral company, accompanied by George P. Mills, secretary of the company, both of Chicago, were in Ogden yesterday on business in connection with the oil property located on the Roselle flats on the north shore of the Great Salt Lake west of the Promontory range. They succeeded in putting matters in shape whereby they will continue their drilling for oil. The work has been shut down for some time on account of waiting for drive pipes, this material has now been secured and at the present time is in the local railroad yards. As soon as it can be transported to the field work will be resumed. The company is now prepared to go to a depth of 3,000 feet if necessary. This was the first trip to the fields by President Gidden, who is president of the well satisfied with the prospects for securing oil. The company determined to investigate the field thoroughly in an effort to disprove or prove that there is oil in any quantity upon it.

UTAH PRESBYTERY.
The Utah Presbytery, which has been in session in Ogden during the past three days, completed its work yesterday, and adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock on August 22 at Salt Lake City. The reports of the various ministers show the congregations in several of the cities to be growing slowly. There are, however, only three of the churches in Utah that are self-sustaining. They are the First Presbyterian of Ogden, the Westminster and First Presbyterian churches of Salt Lake City, all of the other churches receive some support from the church mission. The sessions in Ogden have been largely attended and many matters pertaining to the work in the state were discussed. There are over 150 members of the Presbytery in Utah.

The commissioned ministers to work in Utah are: Newton S. Clemenson, Logan; Chas. N. Hamilton, Smithfield; J. C. Wagner, Mendon; Hyrum and Wells; A. T. Rankin, Brigham and Corinne; J. E. Thompson, Central Park and Ogden; H. H. Davis, Kayaville; J. McLean, Salt Lake City; William Murphy, American Fork; T. C. Smith, Springville; J. C. Nelson, Payson; J. D. Sturges, Monticello; E. M. Landis, Cedar City; C. M. Kilpatrick, St. George; J. W. Martin, Mant and Ephraim; J. H. Melrose, Richfield and Salina; E. J. Hanks, Fort and Joseph; K. F. Fancher.

Rev. Samuel F. Wisland handed in his resignation as synodical superintendent. The same was accepted with regret and will be effective June 1. Rev. Josiah McClain was appointed to the vacancy.

plied in various combinations may be filed. After fertilizer is applied to the soil and thoroughly mixed with it, the right quantity of water is added, and the soil is ready to be put in the basket which has been previously prepared.

The baskets are made of 4-inch mesh, galvanized iron wire and are about three inches in diameter and three inches deep. These are held inside down and dipped in melted paraffin so that the top inch of the basket is thoroughly coated. The soil is now put in the basket and pressed down so that some of it is forced out through the meshes. This is well brushed off from the outside and put into the basket. The basket containing the soil is then dipped in melted paraffin and completely sealed up except on top.

When the soil pots have been thus prepared they are ready for the crop. The crop is not planted in the pot, but is germinated between layers of damp cloth. Wheat is commonly used in all of the tests. From among a large number of germinated seedlings six specimens for each pot are selected and planted in a row through the center of the pot. The uniform selected plants are grown under each fertilizer treatment. After planting the seedlings, the surface of the soil is covered with a thin layer of washed quartz sand to prevent any cracking of the surface.

When the seedlings become thoroughly rooted each pot is carefully sealed. This is done by the use of a circular disc of paraffined paper, which has a narrow slit cut along its diameter through which the six seedling plants are grown. Each pot is now carefully weighed, and the weight is recorded. The plants are allowed to grow in the various pots for about three weeks. Each is weighed once in two days, and the water that has been lost by transpiration is replaced. Each plant having received the same amount of sunlight, heat and moisture the difference in growth must be attributed solely to the use of the various fertilizing materials. The second record is made, and the completion of the experiment, which takes about three weeks.

This method, being very simple and effective, bids fair to be of much value to the individual farmer in adding him to determine the fertilizers that can be most economically and effectively applied to his particular soil.

He is well known throughout the state, and is one of the best informed men on fish industry in Utah, having been engaged in fishing and teaching the art of fishing for many years. TELEPHONE VS POWER CO.
Saturday evening William M. Winter, local manager of the Independent Telephone company, went before Justice Noon and swore to a complaint charging L. L. Nunn, A. L. Woodhouse, Fred Stelmeyer, Wm. Twelves, Orson Twelves, Wm. Hays and Jack Honan with malicious mischief. Mr. Nunn is the manager of the Telluride Power company. Mr. Woodhouse is the local manager, and Mr. Stelmeyer is one of the company's attorneys. The other defendants are employees of the company. In the afternoon of Saturday the Telluride company, by its employees cut down two poles of the line now being erected by the Independent company on the county road through Pleasant View, going towards Provo canyon. Both companies have franchises to construct and maintain pole lines along the county road, and the Telluride company has had its line in operation for the transmission of electricity for years. The officers of the Telluride company claim the Independent company was constructing its line so that it would cut through the operation of the Telluride company's line, but this is denied by Mr. Winter. The case will come up before Justice Noon today.

BURGLARIES IN SPRINGVILLE.
Sheriff Harmon was in Springville yesterday, investigating two burglaries which took place there Saturday night. CRUELTY TO AN ANIMAL.
Friday evening a man drove some horses into Provo and one of them fell into the street near D. D. Houtz's residence. Before he could get out of the street it was unable to walk. The fellow gave it an unmerciful beating in order to get it to walk but was unsuccessful, and then cut away and left it. Mrs. Houtz telephoned to the police, and after some search they succeeded in locating the owner of the animal. Yesterday morning he reported it; but whether he killed it or not is not known, although the officers will investigate the matter and will probably bring a charge of cruelty to animals against the man. After the horse was left Friday night it was fed and watered by Mrs. Houtz and some other children of the neighborhood.

SOIL TESTING EXPERIMENTS.

Conducted by the B. Y. University—Nucleus of Art Gallery.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, April 8.—The students of the agricultural department at the Brigham Young university are engaged in making a series of tests to determine the fertility of the soils of Utah and other western states.

Just as a chain is measured by its weakest link, so the fertility of a soil is determined by its weakest constituent necessary to plant growth. If this weak point can be found and made strong, the fertility of the entire soil will be increased.

The farmers of the United States use about $35,000,000 worth of fertilizers in a year, so it is important that they do not work blindly in the matter. For instance, if a certain soil happened to be rich in phosphoric acid and potash, but deficient in nitric acid, it would be a waste to add more phosphoric acid or potash. The thing the farmer should know is what is the weakest part of his soil, and he can at once strengthen the weak link.

It is with this in view that these experiments in the Brigham Young university are being made. What is known as the "basket method" is employed in the tests. It is a new method, this being the first time it has been tried by any institution.

It is carried on in the following manner: About 300 pounds of a typical soil is obtained, together with as much information regarding it as it is possible to get. This soil, which has been thoroughly dried and mixed before being shipped to the school, is taken into the laboratory, where a portion of it is carefully sifted to remove all clods, rocks and sticks. Amounts of 300 grams each of the dry soil are then weighed and taken in series of five each. This number of samples makes an effective check.

The first series is not treated. Nitrate of soda in the proportion of 200 pounds per acre is added to the second, sulphate of potash to the third, sodium acid phosphate to the fourth, while the fifth series receives lime in the proportion of 1,000 pounds per acre. In a similar manner, other fertilizers are
