

NEWS OF THE WEST.

Indians of British Columbia causing trouble.

A SERIES OF FATAL ACCIDENTS.

Miners die away from home and friends—a lesson taught—other news.

Wally Clarence Meeker, aged 12 years, was hunting in the mountains near Los Angeles, Calif., Saturday, the most rugged and the boy was lost.

Wives and grandchildren were never present in the mountains as this accident, the Dugout, Wash., miners, miners died two hours after they had eaten dinner.

John James, the alleged polygamist, has been released by the U.S. Marshal and his wife, according to the Rawlins, Wyoming, Advertiser. James was arrested at Hailey a short time ago as a suspect in the killing of Judge James, who was dependent on him. He has three wives and three children, and it was his intention to return to New Mexico, where he would have to leave his jail for four months awaiting trial.

Silver City, New Mexico, was the scene of a fatal drowning accident Wednesday evening. A Mexican woman was washing clothes in the water outside the 15-mile post office when she was struck by the waves of the ledge and fell into the water. She was pulled ashore, but no alarm given, but when she was rescued, she was unconscious. The hole was over twelve feet in depth, and has been filled with water ever since the flood began.

The Great Northern railroad passenger train, which ran Sunday night, ran off the track at the 15-mile post office between the 15-mile post office and the 15-mile post office. The engine and tender were derailed, the two tracks of the bridge were broken, and the bridge was washed away. The train had many passengers, and McKinley, in the face of danger, remained at the post and succeeded in saving lives of those he helped, only to narrowly escape himself.

Mr. James, Arizona, Arizona, a criminal story is given the name of Mr. James, who is a certain young married couple, who, dissatisfied with the host of the house, decided to pass the night in a large covered wagon standing in front of the house. Some wagons, however, are also used for sleeping, and when the horses were loaded and drew them to another part of the town. The ludicrous part of the performance was the frantic effort of the young husband to find a horse in the dead of night to pull the cart back to the original place.

A young man, a well-known native of San Jose, was found a few days ago on the ground dead with a rope around his body and his horse grazing some distance away. He is supposed to have been drunk, and when he reached the dead man, having made an appointment with him to judge the horse's condition, and not finding him as agreed upon, started to see what was wrong. Hander and his son were called up to inspect and the horse was taken into custody, and the main body of the outfit was arrested.

Mr. Holman, a farmer residing on the river, Cal., and his two sons, Oliver and Tom, aged 15 and 12 years, were drowned in Hammon's Bay Saturday afternoon by the upsetting of a boat. The two sons, who were in the boat with their father, and the older and other son struggled for some time in a vain effort to reach the boat, finally going in the bottom. Fackenmire was more fortunate. He was able to swim to the boat after several attempts succeeded in righting and getting in it. Then, with one last effort, he paddled ashore. Holman was a widower, a native of Sweden, aged 61, and leaves five children.

It is said the Indians of British Columbia are exacting their authority over the country in consequence of the recent shooting of a number of Indians, who were overrunning in which killed them for them by various whites. Some ago the strident Military band in the middle of Vancouver left the city for this city. An Indian who had been captured and forced to clean an unfortunate traveler who had injured him, had for the right. Now an Indian named "Uncle Jimmy" is awaiting the result, to life or death, of his trial before him by him with an ax on his head and teeth. American Indian named "Uncle Tom," Douglas, near Radium Hill.

Harrison P. Bridge, a young millionaire of Boston, Mass., was in San Francisco, Sunday evening, after an illness of three weeks. He had been enjoying good health for some months past, but the climatic change and the heat was a cold which he contracted while in California. You will forget on blood pressure, and the attending physician found it impossible to cope with this new ailment. Two days ago it became evident that he could not survive much longer. He died on July 1st. He had just made a tour of the Orient, which was an incident of an extended tour of the world. He passed away owing to his heart trouble, but, when he now lies in the East, his heart, which was present at his bedside when he died, was removed by the physicians and a young man who has been employed by the family of a nurse. The relatives of the deceased are all in the East. They were examined by a physician before service, but before they came to leave for California the young man was dead.

Horses Kick

In self-defense. In the year 1870 Captain George Washington, of the U.S. Cavalry, was shot in the leg by a horse which had kicked him. This is the reason why we have the saying, "A horse kicks."
