BREVITIES.

It is purposed to establish in Chicago a mission for the conversion of the Jews.

A printing press has been established in Siam under the auspices of the Government. The printers are Englishmen.

A thief's apology, when caught in the act, was, that he had a mind so large that he thought everything belonged to him.

True courage is cool and calm. The bravest of men have the least of a brutal, bullying insolence, and in the very time of danger are found the most serene and free.

Bismarck says that if he were a Chinese, an Abyssinian or an Indian, he would probably care a great deal about England, but being a simple European, he don't care at all.

A miserable old bachelor, who knows that the present is leap year, says:

"If you meet a young lady who is not very shy, you had better be a little shy yourself."

At Klasenburg, Transylvania, a woman offered for sale her child, a year old, for 500. She had not tasted food for three days, and she could think of no other way of saving her child from starvation.

Any business is more respectable than what is termed loafing. A young man had better sell potatoes by the pailful than hang around public resorts, murdering time and his own reputation.

The largest blocks of stone in the pyramids of Egypt would not weigh more than two and a half tons each, while the greater mass are much lighter.

A boy having complained to his father that his brother Bill had thrown the Bible at him, and hurt him on the head, the father replied:

"Well, you are the only member of my family on whom the Bible ever made any impression."

A clergyman happening to get wet, was standing over the fire to dry his clothes, and when his colleague came in he asked him to preach for him, as he was wet. "No, sir," was the prompt reply "preach yourself; you will be dry enough in the pulpit."

The Revolution publishes the following dilemma:

The hearers perplexed
'Twixt the two to determine,
"Watch and pray" says the text;
"Go to sleep," says the sermon.

When the first schooner ever built on the coast of Massachusetts slid from her stocks and floated gracefully on the water, the chance exclamation of a bystander, "Oh, how she scoons!" drew from her contriver and builder the answer: "A schooner let her be, then!" and made a new English word.

A child in an English Sunday school, being called upon to say her text, promptly delivered herself of the following. "He that hatched me, hatched my Father also." After some questioning it was discovered that the passage which the little innocent intended to repeat was "He that hateth me, hateth my Father also."

Caster oil, half a pint; alkanet root, half an ounce; oil of bergamot, ten minims; oil of cloves, ten minims; civit, one and a half grains. The castor oil must be gently heated, when sufficiently hot, it should be poured upon the alkanet root, which communicates its color. It must then be strained, and, when cold, the other ingredients are to be stirred into it. This oil will not only promote the growth of the beard, whiskers, and mustaches in youths, but will also strengthen and improve the hair.

Dr. Collenette, one of the most eminent physicians of Germany, says: "For twenty-one years I have banished all intoxicants from my practice; and during that period I have made no fewer than one hundred and eighty thousand medical visits. And I hesitate not to say that the recoveries have been more numerous and more rapid than they were during the years I followed the usual practice and administered brandy, wine and beer."

Bishop Whitman, in a letter to the Nashville Advocate, says: "A stranger is struck with the comparative quiet of Baltimore on Sunday. The stores and shops are all closed, an air of order and composure prevails, and the more than two hundred churches of the city are filled with worshipers. The best singing I ever heard in any part of the country, I have heard in Baltimore."

An Ohio paper tells a story of Colonel Washburne, of Marietta, who has survived a remarkable wound received in the late war. In one of Sheridan's battles in the Shenandoah Valley he was shot through the head. The ball entered the bottom of one of his eyes, destroying it, and passed out just under the back of the opposite ear. His face became distorted and he has a glass eye, but from first to last he never experienced the slightest pain.

When quite a youth, Franklin went to London, entered a printing office, and inquired if he could get employment as a printer. "Where are you from?" inquired the man. "America," was the reply. "Ah! from America! a lad from America seeking employment as a printer! Well, do you really understand the art of printing? Can you set type?" Franklin stepped to one of the cases, and in a very brief space set up the following passage from the first chapter of the Gospel by Saint John: "Nathaniel said unto him, can any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, come and see." It was done so quick, so accurate, and contained a delicate reproof so appropriate and powerful, that it at once gave him character and standing with all in the office.
