President's day was fittingly observed by members of the Utah Sorosis Wednesday afternoon at the rooms of Mrs. D. D. Houtz. At request of the member came prepared with one of the many beautiful poems written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. The members present were Mrs. Cordelia Beck, Mrs. Jacob Evans, Mrs. J. E. Houtz, Mrs. Ida L. Allen, Mrs. Hannah Tucker, Mrs. Grant C. Bayley, Mrs. R. R. Irving, Jr., Mrs. Philip Sprockart, Mrs. J. E. Yates, Mrs. S. A. King, Mrs. D. D. Houtz, Miss Florence Pond, Miss Allie Smoot, Mrs. Ida S. Dusenberry, Mrs. Arthur Stanton, invited guests were Mrs. D. J. Williams, Mrs. David John, Jr., Mrs. Ernest Partridge, Mrs. W. M. McKendrick and Mrs. C. A. Stain.

Miss Zula Houtz will spend the holidays with her aunt, Mr. P. W. Dunton at Tooele.

Mr. C. A. Stain has gone to Salt Lake City for a week, and left Mrs. Stain as hostess at the Commercial Hotel.

The following resolutions were passed by the students of the Brigham Young Academy Monday morning at the close of Elder David McKenney's lecture, inasmuch as we realize partially at least the great value of Elder McKenney's course of lectures, which he has been kindly given with no other remuneration than the thought of being an instrument in the hand of God, of strengthening and fortifying the faith of the members of this school. Be it resolved that we, the students of the Brigham Young Academy, express our appreciation of his labors as a slight testimonial of the benefit we have derived from his lectures.

Miss Veda Beeby is the guest of Miss Vera Hards, during the holidays. Mrs. W. H. Berry has gone to Salt Lake City on business for several days. Miss May Alexander entertained a large number of friends Thursday evening.

Miss Arvilla Clark returned to Salt Lake City, after several days spent with her parents and brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Louisa McBride, assisted by her daughter, Allie, entertained a very large number of ladies at a Reception at her elegant home on K street, Thursday afternoon. Refreshments were served. Those present were, Mrs. L. Holbrook, Mrs. J. George, Mrs. Lucian Noyes, Mrs. Laura Poole, Mrs. Gilbert Webb of Los Angeles, Mrs. Hannah Tucker, Mrs. Ernest Partridge, Mrs. Robt. Anderson, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Dr. Snyder, Mrs. G. S. Taylor, Mrs. Myron Newns, Mrs. Fannie Elliot, Mrs. O. Young, Miss Young, Mrs. Snow, Mrs. Benj. Cliff, Mrs. R. E. Knowlton, Mrs. Neff, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. J. E. Yates, Mrs. Jacob Evans, Mrs. Jessie Crosby, Mrs. M. Alexander, Mrs. J. C. Clayton, Mrs. Rawlings, Mrs. Theret, Mrs. Emily Cliff, Mrs. Mamie Henry, Mrs. Celestia Strong, Mrs. D. D. Houtz, Mrs. Joe Keeler.

Judge A. C. Hatch was a visitor in Provo from Heber Wednesday.

Prof. Earnest Partridge returned Friday morning from Beaver, where he has charge of the branch of the B. Y. Academy.

Miss Leonora Beck and W. B. Ward were married at the Salt Lake Temple Wednesday, at high noon. Miss Beck is one of Provo's most beautiful young women, and Mr. Ward is well known belonging to the firm of Ward & Sons. The young people go immediately to housekeeping in their elegant new cottage, and will be at home to their friends after Jan. 1st, 1901.

CLUB CHAT.

A coming notable event in club circles will be a lecture to be given by Prof. Blanchard of the University of Illinois, in this city on Jan. 5th. Prof. Blanchard is to come under the auspices of the Author's club, and plans are being made to render his stay enjoyable both to himself and to Salt Lake.

The Author's club is continuing its study of American literature, and will special attention to a review of Emerson's works.

Mrs. F. S. Richards has received a letter from Mrs. Gilmer, who had charge of the Utah booth at the recent Bazaar held in New York, in which she states that all articles contributed by Utah were sold.

The history section of the Ladies' Literary club will meet at the club house on Thursday morning next, December 22nd, at 10 o'clock. The battles of Blenheim and Ramillies will be Mrs. Douglas's subject, and Mrs. Bantz will speak on the battles of Oudenarde and Malplaquet. The minutes of the club will be on Addison, "Steele, Swift and Defoe."

The Round Table club meets on the last day of the old year with Mrs. Rachel S. Miller at the home for the day being James Whitcomb Riley, Mrs. L. C. Karrick will act as chairman.

The Cleofan met last Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. Oscar Mayle. The program consisted of a biography of Sir Walter Scott, and a review of "Waverley." Miss Emeline B. Wells had charge of the program. The club adjourned for the holidays, and will meet two weeks at the home of Mrs. Clara H. Peit, in Canyon Road.

The music section of the Ladies' Literary club will meet on Wednesday at 10 a. m. The program will be of a musical nature. All who are interested are cordially invited.

The Council of Jewish Women has a membership of 38 women in this city, and has for its object the study of the Bible and Jewish history and literature; the study and practice of the newest and best methods of philanthropy and work in religious schools. The section here has donated a case for the traveling library, consisting of upwards of 30 books, to be sent to the adjoining towns, and has also contributed liberally to the free kindergarten.

The Bible class meets every second Wednesday afternoon of the month at the E. B. rooms in the Auerbach building, and is conducted by Rabbi Reynolds. A business meeting is held on the fourth Wednesday afternoon at which time a program of one paper on a subject of general interest, or pertaining to Jewish life, a current topic paper and discussion; also a musical number follow the regular business of the month. The officers of the present year are: President, Mrs. Simon Bamberger, vice president, Mrs. S. Moore; secretary, Mrs. H. E. Schuler; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Hirschman.

The idea of the Red Cross celebration on New Year's eve is explained in the contents of the following circular sent out by the committees having it in charge:

The parting of the centuries on the night of the 31st of the coming December will have a celebration of world-wide import and interest in the unique watch meeting to be held in this country under the auspices of The American National Red Cross. The specially organized Twentieth Century Department of the Red Cross, is now preparing to hold watch meetings as far as practicable, in every city, town and village of the United States. Many watch meetings are already arranged for in New York and other leading cities, in Madison Square Garden and other great auditoriums, to see the old century out and the new century in. At Madison Square Garden Sousa's famous band will furnish the music and a grand chorus of one thousand

CHINCHILLA NECKPIECE.

This becoming neckpiece of exquisitely shaded chinchilla consists of a large standing collar and reverses. Clusters of gray satin ribbon loops are set at the junction of the collar and the reverses.

Voices will be heard in song until midnight, interspersed with speeches and greetings.

Such a grouping of crystallized thought from the master minds of all the earth on a subject of such universal interest was never before made. The contributions pledged to the service of the American Red Cross branch will form a most inspiring and impressive memorial. So important and significant are these "Greetings" that the originals are to be preserved for the nation in the congressional library at Washington.

The Red Cross watch meeting in city or village throughout the land there will be opened simultaneously a sealed packet containing these "Greetings" from the Old World to the New on the close of a century so unprecedented in achievement and the coming of another so transcendent in promise.

In the noble memorial address by Miss Barton to Congress some twelve years ago, she recalled the fact that probably no sign or figure in the secular world is sacred to so many eyes as the Red Cross of Geneva. It is the insignia of a humanity that knows no foe. In the fiercest conflict of arms it passes unchallenged on its mission of mercy. Its international organization is founded on the welcome and authorization of the united governments of the civilized world. Its chief directors abroad are men of the foremost standing, and the crowned heads of Europe are its patrons. It is eminently natural and fitting that it should be the medium for bearing messages of cheer and fraternity that will inspire and delight all America in these great watch meetings.

The subject of these meetings is to raise funds for the American National Red Cross, and to signalize the dawn of another century by giving worldwide prominence to that fraternity between nations which tends to ameliorate the horrors of war, and to bring peace and brotherhood to the world. The Red Cross in other countries has been endowed by various means, but in the United States it has worked from one national emergency to another without an endowment or sustaining fund, and it is believed that at the dawn of a new century, the people of the United States will gladly gather together in mass meetings to watch the old century out and the new century in, and at the same time to aid in the national and international work which has for its watchword "Humanity."

The program at the Woman's club on Tuesday comprised an interesting lecture by R. W. Sloan entitled "Altruism, Communism and Socialism."

The following poem apropos of the "color line" problem in the Federation of Women's clubs, appeared recently in a New York exchange:

The General Federation kept, Subject to many a thrust, Its old ideas and backward step Into the centuries' dust. And called itself, while it slept, An intellectual trust.

Oh, General Federation, go Burn up your rusty creeds, You meant great bugle blasts to blow, For pipe, but ancient reeds of Your march of progress is too slow: You need the "stars for steeds."

Juggling with things that were divine, Go bludge the bludge of shame—Have you forgotten there is no line When souls aspire the same? Have you forgotten what lustres shine Round Abraham Lincoln's name?

—C. E. Whitton-Stone.

FEMINE FLOTSAM.

The World's Ideal of a Wife.

Some women who are to marry professional men study medicine or law, or even theology, in order to be able to sympathize intelligently and helpfully with the spiritual or intellectual pursuits of the husband-to-be, and in a way supplement the gyrations of his brain with her own, and thus lay broad and deep the foundation for a super-abundant married life. To be wholly absorbed in him, even to making self-effacement the stepping-stone and highway for his success, stands everywhere and for all time the world's ideal of a wife. But when a man so devotes himself to his wife he is nobody's ideal of a husband. While women are proud to be known as the wife of a distinguished man, no man is pleased to be noticed or accepted on the ground of being the husband of a distinguished woman.

The "Good Mother" Often Bad. The so-called "good mother" is too frequently really a bad one. She makes of her children monsters of selfishness, and never ends her voluntary slavery to them. So far as she is concerned, as a more distant past, to make a stepping-stone of its "dead self" it has always been, truly, to reach "higher things."

The outdoor life of Vassar is so important a part of a college course there that one might say it is fully half of it. The beauty of the extensive grounds, and of the surrounding country, is a constant call to outside activity. The athletic contests, for which much preparation in the open air as well as in the gymnasium is necessary, are only one of its phases. Golfing, rowing on the lake, or skating on it in winter, and always the long, delightful walks possible in every direction, tempt the girls continually and make the obligatory daily exercise a chief recreation. A favorite pilgrimage on some mellow autumn day or tender spring morning when the soft wind and tremulous haze means bursting life, it is to the hot-house of John Jay's conservatory. The venerable naturalist is a valued friend to the Vassar girl, who marks the day she spends with him in his woodland cottage, or rather out of it, for neither almost nor lost will stay in-doors, with a white stone. The river, too, offers its all-around opportunities; the Hudson is sleepy and quiet at this point, and though rowing on the river is not allowed, there are little tramp steam-tugs in it had for the gathering throngs, in which companies of girls go happily on the stream in the bright days of fall and early summer. More extended trips on larger steamers are taken on formal occasions, when a class entertains class. —Harper's Bazar.

The Motherly Girl.

Everyone knows her, for she is always trying to do some little thing for some one. She is the girl that wants to fix your tie if it is on crooked; to tell the young lady stranger that her hat is not on straight and such little favors. She got into trouble down in Colorado, Texas, the other day, according to the Stockman of that place. It was in church Sunday evening. In front of her was a handsome looking gentleman, immaculately dressed, but a white thread hung down over his collar and on his black coat glared at her. Of course she couldn't stand it, and gently reached over to pull it off. She got a hold of it and gave a little pull, but only got about a foot of it. There were more of them. Well, she had started and would have to finish anyhow, so she gave a good yank and this time got about a yard of it. The people in the neighborhood took track of the sermon and became interested. The young lady blushed but she was built of the right metal and began to pull in hand over hand, determined to get it all if possible. But there was no end, apparently, and it was only when the gentleman turned around to see what was tugging his back that she finally realized that she was unraveling his undershirt. It certainly was discouraging.

Winter Skirts.

Fanne velvet bands and folds, often stitched, appear on many of the new gowns; indeed, the touch of velvet is almost as inevitable as the touch of gold. Velvet is also used on the skirts of the new gowns. The people in the neighborhood took track of the sermon and became interested. The young lady blushed but she was built of the right metal and began to pull in hand over hand, determined to get it all if possible. But there was no end, apparently, and it was only when the gentleman turned around to see what was tugging his back that she finally realized that she was unraveling his undershirt. It certainly was discouraging.

The Cuisine.

Milk will clean ink from carpet if used immediately and generously. Butter will come off by churning small quantities of cream in a fryer can by shaking the can to and fro. Whipping cream may be done in a pint fruit can, taking care not to whip too long, as it would turn to butter in that case. Keep a small bottle of shot for the purpose of cleaning stoves. Rubbing papered walls with bread is a proper way of disinfecting them after contagious diseases.

Keep a small tin dish for boiling the burners of lamps in soap suds once a month and you will be astonished at the bright line you will have. To kill grease spots before painting wash over smoky or greasy parts with saltwater or very thin lime whitewash. If soap suds are used they must be washed off thoroughly, as they prevent the paint from drying hard.

WALKER'S STORE.

An Avalanche of Handsome Silks, Dress Goods and Trimmings to Choose from at 50c a Yard.

This is a splendid before Christmas chance if you've a friend, mother or sister you'd like to remember with a handsome dress or waist pattern and the trimmings to suit. It's the week before inventory with us and there's to be a most drastic cleanup of these stocks. Every broken line—you know what we mean by broken lines, they are not remnants, but short bolts, where a dress or two, or maybe only a waist pattern has been taken off; well these will all be culled from the stock and put on center aisle tables to sell at 50c a yard. Just to give you a brief idea of kinds, the following few are told of; all could not be printed here. Elegant silks, in black and colored taffeta, fancy silks, all over laces, nets, chiffons, muslins, panne velvets—of course the trimmings are in short lengths—priced from $1.00 up to $5.00, a yard and dress goods in golfings, chevrons, zibelenes, crepons, mixtures, plain tailor suitings, fine plaids, corduroys, silk stripe challoes, with many others; none priced less than $1.00 and up to $2.00 a yard, commencing Monday, Dec. 24, to last the week—
