The Woman's Republican club held an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Hines this week, a delightful program following the regular business. The rooms were prettily decorated and refreshments were served.

Most interesting reports come from Mrs. May Wright Sewall, president of the International Council of Women, of the successful work which is being done by various national councils and the encouraging progress in the preparations for the great Quinquennial Congress which will take place in Berlin next year. The one held in London in 1899 is still fresh in mind, the most representative and significant convocation of women ever held, with delegates present from most of the civilized countries of the world. The labor of preparing for such a meeting is tremendous. Mrs. Sewall is keeping three secretaries constantly employed and during the first week of this year hundreds of individual letters were sent out in addition to the official bulletin. She has long cherished the hope, which is not yet wholly abandoned, that she might make a trip around the world and visit personally all the councils before the next congress. Such action would greatly stimulate interest and increase the attendance. The president is elected for five years and is not eligible for re-election until a term has intervened. The Countess of Aberdeen was Mrs. Sewall's predecessor and indications are that she will be her successor.

The International body is composed at present of 17 national councils representing as many countries. Three entered last year—those of Victoria, South Australia and Austria, and several more will be organized this year. Mrs. Sewall will preside in the summer of 1904 over the most eminent body of women ever assembled, and it is doubtful if even her command of English, German and French will be sufficient to meet the needs. Practically every department of work in which women are engaged will have its most prominent representatives there as speakers. Much curiosity is felt as to the attitude which Emperor William will take toward the congress. Its members will have departed far from the three spheres which he assigns to women—the kitchen, the nursery and the church, but his august grandmamma gave it her royal sanction and the nobility of England honored it with their presence. His majesty could learn a great deal by attending these meetings and Germany should not allow herself to be outdone in diplomatic courtesy, even though her women will probably get some advance ideas which their lords and masters will never be able to eradicate. American women especially are likely to leave a trail of strong-minded battle which it would puzzle even a Virchow to find an antidote for.

At the meeting of the National Young Men's Christian association in Washington quite recently President Roosevelt said in the course of his speech: "We see all around us people who say, 'Oh, well things will come out all right.' So they will, but they will come out all right not because there are men who are content to say they will, but because there is a sufficient number of earnest men, with the root of righteousness in them, who are bound to see that they come out right."

This sentiment is especially applicable to the cause of woman suffrage. There are thousands of men and women who believe in it thoroughly and hope to see it obtained and yet they never put a feather's weight of money or influence in the balance against the opposition which stands consciously for both. "It's bound to come," they say, and do not lift a finger to hasten the day. On the 15th of February Susan B. Anthony reached the eighty-third anniversary of her birth. Sixty-five of these years have been consecrated to work for humanity—absolutely unselfish work as ever was done by any human being. Learning that her friends are proposing to celebrate this day and bring their offerings of love and gratitude, she is now begging that every dollar which may be presented to her shall be given with the understanding that it may be applied on the campaign that is to be made for the suffrage amendment in New Hampshire. # WALKER'S STORE.

A "NEW-OLD" STORE IS PRESENTED.

PROGRESS is the law of mercantile life, as of all life. The store that sinneth by omission to march onward, it shall die. The best of yesterday must be bettered tomorrow. On each of the forty-two mile posts as they tell of past efforts of the Walker Store, is found emblazoned strong and broad the word—"Excelsior." And ever will it be "Excelsior" till ambition finds rest in perfect mercantiling. Two years ago a large annex was added to this building. A year later the annex was enlarged to double its capacity. In the last few months the entire interior has gone through a complete transformation. One so splendid that if beauty alone had been the consideration, a full satisfaction would now be the recompense. Other things, though, were thought of, too, in planning it all. Making buying for you more comfortable. Giving a quicker, better service. The finding of departments the easiest possible. And so a broadening of aisles. Lowered shelving. Newer show cases and handsome wood work everywhere to make an harmonious whole. Now from the main entrance you may see almost every store within this store. Yet all this is but the surface showing. The machinery at the heart of it, will, in a hundred ways, work good to keep you mindful always that "progression" is the day by day labor of the

Choice Platte Val. and Imitation Torchon Laces, 8½c and 4c yard.

When the choicest of new Platte val., and imitation Torchon laces, all to be plentifully trimmed, are to be had at such wonderful prices it certainly is time to consider whether the coming season needs, with its gingham, lawn, muslin and so on, better not now be supplied. A few weeks ago we told you of a great under-price purchase. Over half were taken away then, but now pieces have since been added, so there is quite as good selection now as then.

Platte val. insertions and edgings, two to five inches wide, to sell at $1-5c a yard, worth more than double this price.

Imitation Torchon laces, edgings and insertions, one to four inches wide, 16c and 12½c grades for 4c a yard.

Pure Linen Table Damask
$1.00 a Yard.

Cream bleached, but the purest of linen that will not need many launderings to make it white as snow. A grade most suitable for breakfast cloth or hotel service. Seventy-two inch damask, in different pattern designs, sold under regular market price at $1.25 a yard, now—$1.00.

Short Bolts of Carpets at Quick Clean-up Prices,

Not remnants, are they, better than that, for in some kinds there's quite enough for several rooms, others of course not so much. All have borders to match and can only be sold together. But to make the little discrepancies worth while to you, in addition to the wonderfully lowered prices, every carpet will be sewed, lined and laid on your floor without any extra charge. Monday and Tuesday will clean up all.

One pattern Lowell Axminster carpet, red, Empire design, with border, $2.50 a yard quality reduced to—$1.55.

Two patterns of Bigelow-Axminster, one red, one Oriental design, $2.00 grade for—$1.50 a yard.

Two patterns of Body Brussels, one in blue, one terra cotta, $1.40 a yard kind for—$1.15.

Two patterns of best 10 wire tapestry Brussels, one dark blue the other tan, $1 a yard regular—75c.

is the first one during all the years in which I have not been able to take part," she says, "and it is fitting that those who stay at home should help those who go into the field."

So this is to be the birthday offering to this noble woman, and every one who reads these lines and feels an interest in this cause should send a contribution to Rochester, N. Y., in order that she may have the supreme happiness of helping in this way the cause for which she can no longer speak from the platform. It may be a dollar, it may be a hundred, but let the suffragists of the country respond to this appeal. Speakers must be sent into New Hampshire, literature distributed and the legitimate work of a campaign carried on. At best the opposition will have dollars where the advocates have cents, but, whether it be in the hope of success or simply for the purpose of education, a thorough campaign should be made. Here's to a happy birthday realization for Miss Anthony!

ELEVATOR ETIQUETTE.
A safe rule to follow declares that men shall stand uncovered only in apartment house and hotel elevators, where the nature of the place is that of a home. But in business, office and store elevators, which partake of the nature of the stairway, the corridor and the street, a man may leave his hat on without offence. Of course, a man like a right to take his hat off if he pleases. But where such an action involves the insinuation that other men in the crowd are lacking in good breeding, the hatless man deserves the scorn he always gets.—Newark News.
