BREVITIES.

High society—The Artio Circle.
The tune of the old ocean—Nep-tune.
The popular form just now—platform.
A full band—a dress with many tangles.
The highways of Japan are being Mikado-mised.
An old maid is like an old boot—no without a fellow.
(Geographical) says that the river Nile, in its infancy, was called Juve-nile.
The Chicagoans encourage races between milk wagons, and call them milk sports.
Monuments are poor investments—the bad don't deserve them, and the good don't need them.
An Irish editor says he can see no earthly reason why women should not be allowed to become medical men.
Bishop Meade, of Virginia, once said:
"Our girls are poorly educated, but our boys will never find it out." The highest mine in the world is a silver mine, and is that of Potosi, in the Andes of Peru. It is said to be situated 11,075 feet above the surface of the ocean. The deepest mine in the world is a salt mine. It is the so-called salt mine in Westphalia, and is 2,050 feet below the surface of the ocean.
Many are the bon mots attributed to Auber, the most popular and genial of composers. Here is the last: He was at a funeral recently; and his great age, he thinks, permits him a certain freedom of expression on all occasions. "This," he said to a friend at his side, "is probably the last funeral I shall attend as an amateur."
Marriage is like a silk purse, most agreeable to bear when there is plenty of money in it. Marriage is like a house-trap—once get into it and you are in for it, with a very slim chance for getting out. Marriage is like a roast leg of mutton on Sunday, served up on Monday, ditto, with pickles, on Tuesday, and hashed up on Wednesday.
Israelites, it has been calculated, bear the following proportions to the inhabitants of the different countries where they reside: One Israelite to 7 inhabitants in Poland; to 23 in Austria; to 42 in Russia; to 22 in Holland; to 61 in Turkey; to 195 in Germany; to 333 in Belgium; to 412 in Italy; to 446 in England; to 463 in France; to 595 in Switzerland; and to 664 in Scandinavia.
To remove a mote from the eye: Take a horse hair and double it, leaving a loop. If the mote can be seen, lay the loop over it, close the eye, and the mote will come out as the hair is withdrawn. If the irritating object cannot be seen, raise the lid of the eye as far as possible, and place the loop as far in as you can, close the eye and roll the ball around a few times, then draw out the hair; the substance which causes so much pain will be sure to come with it.
This method is practiced by axemakers and other workers in steel.
While a lad was at work in a corn field he was struck in the foot by a large snake of the species known as the copperhead. An angle of the lad immediately killed the snake, cut open its body, and applied a portion of it to the wound. Though the foot began to swell rapidly, the effect of the application was soon apparent. This is the mode of treatment which the Indians of this country used to adopt in cases of bite by rattlesnake—to kill the reptile and immediately apply a portion of the dead to the wound. It is said to never fail to effect a cure.—Athens (Tenn.) A gentleman called upon some lady friends, and was shown into the parlor by a servant girl. She asked him what name she should announce, and he, wishing to take them by surprise, replied, "Amicus," (a friend.) The girl smiled at first a little puzzled, and in the kindest manner possible, observed "What kind of a cue did you say?" The visitor was embarrassed for a moment, but recovering, he handed her his card, and vowed never to speak again to servant girls.
True happiness is a tender plant; it requires insects ever hovering around it, and a gentle breath of life. Man is apparently a gardener, and has for his wages these insects. But how few there are that understand their business; how many themselves introduce into the close cup of the flower that flower's deadliest foe; how many look on unconcerned, or even amused, while hurtful insects settle, gnaw, and fret, and the blossom fades! Happy he who looks up in time, and with ready hand saves the blossom and kills the foe; he preserves his heart's peace and saves his soul alive—thus hanging together the body and spirit, this world and the next.
A bit of shrubbery in the yard, a vine climbing by a trellis, a strip of refreshing green stretching from the door, are here to make a place of greater marketable value; which, when many, is a consideration to be thought of before any other. Such need no further appeal to their sense of neatness. But all those who really love the suggestions of beauty for their own sake will not omit the turf patch, the shrubbery, and the hedge and vine, because they make almost any home more attractive and lovely, and cause the sentiments to sprout like the very leaves and buds themselves. How few stop to consider what a powerful association lies lurking in every simple but familiar object, like a bush, a tree, a bit of grass, or a border of flowers! They are objects that hold almost as steadily to home as wife and children; they are closely associated with these, in fact, and can with difficulty be separated. Therefore we say to all, "Brush up about the door, and plant near by an object of simple beauty. It will bear fruit in the heart a hundred fold.
