BREVITIES.

The State of New York has prohibited the disfiguring of rocks and other scenery by painted advertisements.

A quack doctor in Wisconsin has been arrested for poisoning three wives in succession—probably in experiments.

The Sultan is about to raise a Jewish regiment. Up to this time Jews have been rigidly excluded from the Turkish army.

The Princess Louise has executed a marble bust of her mother, Queen Victoria. It is said to be a work full of truth and genius.

The social evil of Cincinnati had a grand moonlight excursion the other evening, from beginning to end, a disgusting and drunken orgie.

A young man who was crossed in love attempted suicide recently by taking a dose of yeast powder. He immediately rose above his troubles.

A New Orleans blind beggar appeared in court the other day and gave security for a friend, and swore to $20,000 worth of property.

There are supposed to be 40,000 Christians in Japan, who have to practice their religion in the profoundest secrecy, or be either crucified or decapitated.

On a gravestone in Maine appeared the following inscription: "Our little Jacob has been taken away from this earthly garden, to bloom in a superior flower-pot above."

The dames d'honneur of the French court receive each a salary of about £480 per annum. They are not lodged in the palace, but apartments are assigned to them in Paris.

Madame Methua Scheller was very successful at Denver City lately. One of her admirers presented her with a silver cuirass, when she was playing the part of Joan of Arc.

The last case of notoriety: A person was heard energetically declaring his fixed purpose to take his girl to see the picture of "Crossington washing the Delaware!"

The most noted Parisian demi-mondaines appear now in public with their hair dyed green, or with the color of fresh butter. The latter shade is considered to be the most fashionable.

The son of King Theodore, of Abyssinia, who is about nine years old, has been residing for the last year in the Isle of Wight, making very decided progress in his English studies.

A wonderful horse, which rides through flames, from the stage to the rafters, with a young woman on its back, is to be a forthcoming attraction at one of the London theatres.

A cat with eight perfect legs, two tails, two upper and two lower jaws, two tongues and four eyes, challenges the attention of the wonder-loving of Simpson county, Ky.

"Why will you persist in wearing another woman's hair on your head?" asked Acid of his wife. She retorted, "Why will you persist in wearing another sheep's wool on your back?"

A grindstone, which was sent to England in a bale of foreign cotton, has come back to the old plantation in a cask of sugar. One good turn (of a grindstone) deserves another.

Isaac Pitman, of Bath, England, the inventor of phonography, has published a complete edition of the Bible in phonographic characters. This is by far the most extensive work ever produced in any system of short-hand.

In Vermont, some admirers of Ayrshire cattle have challenged an advocate of Durhams to test the milk-producing qualities of the respective kinds, during the month of June—the cows to be fed in the same pasture—for a wager of $500 a side.

It is unlawful for the soldiers stationed at Sitka to purchase liquor. They accordingly send the little Russian children to the stores to purchase it for them. From this practice, it is said, the children are becoming habitual drunkards.

Mark Twain says Horace Greeley once tried to make a living as writing master, and failed. His copy was: Virtue is its own reward," and the scholars got it: "Washing with soap is wholly absurd."

The Indiana penitentiary is a pleasant place. Murderers are allowed to go fishing, convicts take tea with the warden in his house, and when a guard "speaks harshly" to a criminal the offending officer is discharged.

An echo in Woodstock Park, Oxfordshire, England, repeats seventeen syllables by day and twenty by night; but the most remarkable echo known is one on the north side of Shipley Church, in Sussex, which distinctly repeats twenty-one syllables.

It is computed that the total number of persons employed in getting coal in Europe is 700,000. In Great Britain, 360,000; in Belgium and France, 120,000; in Prussia, 80,000, and the remaining 200,000 elsewhere.

A lady went to law in one of the Western courts to get damages for a nice skirt that was trodden upon in the street. She claimed that the dress cost three hundred dollars, and that it was ruined by a lout treading upon it. The ungallant jury brought in a verdict for defendant, and on the atrocious ground that a woman had no right to leave her dress round on the sidewalks and other public places.

The fact that there are no Hebrew, as there are no Quaker, beggars, is owing to the peculiar and systematic arrangements made by those sects for taking care of their poor. Each Jewish synagogue has a committee of the most respectable members, whose business it is to become acquainted with the condition of every Hebrew in their district, and if necessary, to afford assistance.
