SHOCKING DEATH ON THE RAIL.

James McGovern, a Brakeman, Crushed to Death at Wells, Nevada.

EXPERT INSPECTS CANYON ROAD

Pioneer Committee Thanks the "News"—Divorce Suit—Six Couples Made Happy—Briests and Personals.

The remains of James McGovern, the unfortunate Southern Pacific brakeman, who met his death at Wells, Nev., yesterday were brought to Ogden yesterday afternoon. Mr. McGovern was employed by the Southern Pacific as freight brakeman, and was engaged in doing some switching at Wells. He went between two cars to uncouple them when the slack was taken up and he was caught between the bumpers and terribly crushed about the abdomen. When the cars slackened up again the unfortunate fell between them with a scream. The trainmen heard him and rushed to his assistance. They removed him to the station where Dr. Cleveland injected morphine to deaden the pain. The eastbound passenger train soon came along and Mr. McGovern was placed on it to be brought to Ogden, but died in about a half hour after the train started. The remains were brought to Ogden and taken to his home, 2323 Quincy avenue. The parents and brothers and sisters are grief-stricken over the sad affair. The deceased was a bright, energetic young man, of 23 years.

The trainmen are unable to account for the sad accident as the young man was always considered very careful in the performance of his duty. The only way they can account for the accident is that he went between the cars and was working on the coupling when the engine not knowing he was working between the cars, took up the slack, catching him between the drawheads.

CARD OF THANKS.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 23, 1903.—Dear Sir:—The members of the Pioneer committee of the Eleventh National Irrigation Congress, just held in this city, tender the Deseret News Publishing company their sincere and heartfelt thanks for the efficient and timely aid rendered by publishing free of charge in the Daily and Semi-Weekly "News," the committee's notice to the pioneers of 1891, and others who are deeply interested in the upbuilding of our beloved state, and upholding its fame and fair name.

Through the wide publicity given our section through excellent journalism, the committee have been able to reach scores of persons whom we otherwise could not have found. In response to our call we have received about 130 letters from pioneers, early irrigators and other persons who have actively participated in the colonization of various parts of Utah, in early times. They have furnished us much valuable data, which, but for them, would have been buried in oblivion.

The immense circulation of the "News" and with which its contents are devoured by its readers, renders it a valuable advertising medium to merchants, business men and others. Besides, it is an excellent educator, and an able and ready defender of the rights of all.

Wishing the Deseret News longevities and continued success in all its journalistic enterprises, we remain, respectfully yours,

ROBERT MCQUARRIE,
Chairman.

CANYON ROAD INSPECTED.

Commissioner W. G. Wilson took J. W. Abbott, head of the government department on good roads, through Ogden canyon yesterday for the purpose of showing the gentleman what can be done with rough roads, through the careful expenditure of money in making and keeping up roads. The gentleman gathered considerable data which will be used by the government in its reports on good roads and how to build them. Mr. Abbott took a number of pictures of different parts of the canyon and road to be used in illustrating. The gentleman stated that the Ogden canyon road is one of the finest he has ever visited and only has one suggestion to make, and that is to have small drains along the road to take up the seepage water so it will not run down the road and keep it wet.

VISITED IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Many of our people were down to Ogden to attend the irrigation congress and see the fruit exhibit. It did them good to be there and see the difference between clean fruit and that raised without applying those modern scientific pest destroyers so well known. Utah took the prize for the highest test of sugar beets (she should have taken everything). By the way those beets were raised in Boxelder county where there are thousands of acres of unclaimed land. The congress was a great success.

DEATH OF HANDCART VETERAN.

Another old pioneer has gone to her final rest. The mortal remains of Ann Howarth Mayhew were laid away yesterday; the funeral services being held in the tabernacle. She died of general paralysis, at the age of 81 years. Sister Mayhew received the Gospel, in connection with her husband, in Lancashire, England, and came to Utah with the last hand-cart company that crossed the plains; the trip was an exceedingly hard one and caused many of the Saints to lose their lives. Brother Mayhew vaded the Platt river some 13 times assisting women and children to cross that treacherous stream. They came to Wasatch valley in 1863, since that time they have been prominently connected with its growth and development. Sister Mayhew survived her husband some 11 years.
