Many women behold with joy the little hat that may be worn with so much comfort on windy autumn days. One's veil then has some chance of remaining in one whole piece rather than being torn by the four winds of heaven. This practical little model in blue felt is simply trimmed with a band of gold and high bow of satin ribbon. The slight rolling brim is seen even in the small hat. The checked suit with which this is worn has a long tie of blue satin ribbon at the throat.
