DESERET EVENING NEWS MONDAY JUNE 1 1908

We do."

binion. The feeling that France was Britain's hereditary foe, natural after Waterloo, was long kept alive by habit and want of tact. Even when French and English were allies in the Crimea Lord Ragian used always to refer to his Russian enemies as "the French." When after Sedan Napoleon III fied to England Queen Victoria visited him at cruise, the scientist is said to have un-bent a triffe in communicating the news to his personal attendant. "Henry," said he, "how would you like to go with me around the world?" "Do we go from east to west, sir?" "sked the man. "Yes," "And we lose a day going that way, do we not atr?"

"Then, sir, I should like very much to go. It would give me a day off."-Syracuse Journal.

The Difference.

When a girl tells her friends that she is engaged they become gleefully ex-cited. When a young man tells his bachelor friends that he is about to be married they want to fill him with wine so that he can forget it.—Chicago Re-cord-Herald. 25

How It Happened.

TE

17

1

Tel

No.

SULVER.

N/A

"True, the night was dark, but he ap-peared to jump deliberately in front of the automobile." "Force of habit. The poor fellow was an actor, and naturally dived for the spotlight."—Kansas City Journal.

Beezlubots Bad as Dialect.

Southern people have much to bear. The articles in the magazines, for ex-ample, in which Northern contributors try to put out negro dialect! It's enough to give one the beezlumbots.— Galveston News.

Mutual Reluctance.

"Here is my seat, madam, but can-dor compels me to say that I think you are as well able to stand as I am." "Politeness compels me to say 'Thank you, sir!'"—Chicago Tribune.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

The illustrations alone would make the June McClure's a notable num-ber. Besides the St. Gaudens frontis-plece there are two color reproductions of Gilbert Stuart's portraits of Dou Josef de Jaudenes y Nebot and his young American wife with a short ar-ticle on them by Samuel Isham. Miss Terry's monthly instalment, "My First Appearance in America," affords an opportunity for unusually interesting illustration. "A land of sunshine and light, of happiness, of faith in the fu-ture," is the English actress' enthusi-astic summing up of America. George Kennan contributes a very interesting article on "The Problems of Suiede," giving some startling statistics, least The illustrations alone would make article on "The Problems of Suicide," giving some startling statistics, least surprising is the fact that the "rare day in June" is the real "suicide breed-er." Carl Schurz' article on President Johnson and his war on Congress is an interesting bit of history. "The Life of Mrs. Eddy" ends in this number with a study of this remarkable woman's book and doctrine. There is an abund-ance of good faction-chiefly stories of the comedy and tragedy of married life. "The Decree Made Absolute," by Marie Belloe Lowndes shows a rather life. "The Decree Made Absolute," by Marie Belloe Lowndes shows a rather unusual literary gift. "The Key to the Door," by Fielding Ball, is a near trag-edy which turns out happily. "The Doings of the Devil," by Harvey J. O'Higgins, is a bit of comedy in low life. "Young Henry and the Oid Man" is a Cherokee Indian story by John M. O'Higgins, is a bit of child man" life. "Young Henry and the Old Man" is a Cherokee Indian story by John M. Oskison. "The Crystal Gazer," by Mary S. Watts, is a story of love and adventure, and "Bob, Debutant" a cap-ital boy story. There are poems by Willa Sibert Cather and Mary Eleanor Roberts.—44-60 East Twenty-third St., New York.

The June number of the American The June number of the American Magazine contains humor, stories, and an abundance of interesting and im-portant information. "Mr. Dooley," who is "writing for nobody but the American Magazine, contributes an ar-ticle on "Diplomacy." William J. Locke, author of "The Beloved Vaga-bond," is just beginning his new serial, "Simple Septimus." Lincoln Steffens contributes "An Apology for Graft." Ray Stannard Baker writes of "The Negro in Politics." Ada and Julian Street contribute a translation of se-Ray Stannard Haker writes of The Negro in Politics." Ada and Julian Street contribute a translation of se-lections from "La 628 E 8" by Octave Mirbeau--the experiences of an auto-mobilist on the road, the speed of an automobile, the story of a chauffeur, and so on. "Keeping a "Stiff Upper Lip" through the Panic" is an exchange of interesting letters (grouping and unedit-

COMMENCES TODAY

Beautiful and appropriate fabrics in the most delicate color tones and WHY REALESS mixtures. The choicest materials for dressy summer wear will be sold this week at Z. C. M. I. at HALF PRICE.

SILK MULLS, in floral effects and solid colors, 27 in. wide. Regular price 50c a yard, sale 25c tractive floral effects, 27 Regular price 65c a yard, 32tc sale price ..... SHADOW DOT SILK MULLS, very stylish and attractive, 27 in. wide. Regular price 75c a yard, 371c

ZANZIBAR SILK WAISTINGS, beautiful stripe effects, 27 in. wide. Reg-ular price 75c a yard. 371c sale price ..... 371c

SILK ORGANDIE, in shadow dots and floral effects. Regular price 75c and 85c a yard, Halt Price

Remnant Sale Continued

Owing to the inclemency of the weather last week we will continue our Remnant Sale. Many short lengths of all classes of goods—White Goods, Persian Lawns, Swisses, Walstings, Sheetings, Bleached Muslin and many other white fabrics, Colored Goods, Ginghams, Seersuckers, Lawns, Volles, Silkolines, Batistes, Mulls, Madras, Bed Ticking, Outing Flannel, Cotton Plaid Dress Goods, Wool Dress Goods and Half Price a great variety of other fabrics at.....

OUR DRUG STORE IS AT 112-114 SOUTH MAIN STREET.

CUTLER'S $16<sup>35</sup> Suit Specia P35 C SALT PALACE 36 MAIN ST. THE ORIGINAL The dressiest combination for sum-WESTERN CONEY ISLAND ! ! KNIT GOODS mer wear is a Blue Serge Coat Free Attractions Daily. HOUSE OF UTAH. and Vest with Light Trousers. Balloon Ascension, Parachute jump, Slide for Life, Aerial Wiz-Features-Scenic Railway, Old always "correct." This week we sell Mill, Ocean Wave, Halle's Tour, Minlature Railway, Nature's Monstrosity, Dance Hall, Held's A BLUE SERGE SUIT, with your choice Bicycle Races every Tuesday and Friday, Holiday's evenings. Best riders in the world. ADMISSION 25c and 50c. Free admission to grounds. Take Salt Palace, Murray and State Street cars.

this Latter-day Israel took up the fearful journey toward the West, praising the Lord in song and dance. And yet they knew not what the end of that hegira would be; but they were inspired with confidence, by the faith of their leaders. The character of Brigham Young is portrayed in that historic journey. His paternal care was extended to each family in the camps of Israel, as far as possible. Even the animals were the objects of his solicitude, and many a time his eye would detect that a horse had a too tight collar, and he would see to it that it was relieved. The journey proceeded with music and song. It was an exodus. But it was also a jubilee. The Saints rejoiced at the prospect of leaving the mobs behind and obtaining their full rights under the American flag.

their harps, as their eyes filled with tears when they remembered Zion, but

The career of Brigham Young is a continuous chain of manifestations of the great qualities that sustained him during the trials of apostasy and the exodus. Consider the firm, and yet loyal, stand he took during the stormy period in the history of Utah when the Territory was threatened with war, owing to the false representations by unscrupulous anti-"Mormons." There can be little doubt that the plans laid by him and the earnest words he addressed to the Peace commissioners, decided the controversy at that time President Young thanked them for the proffered "pardon" but stated that he was conscious of no offense. He stated that the Saints were loyal, and had ever been law-abiding. He reminded the Comissioners that the Government had permitted mobs to plunder and burn the houses of the Saints, and to drive them from one place to an other, without ever sending any troops for their protection. He protested against sending any armed mobs into the midst of the Territory, and boldly told them that the Saints would defend themselves as best they could, if they were molested. He told the Commissioners that the Saints would leave their homes, lay their cities in ashes and reduce the valley to a desert, rather than once more relinquishing their houses and gardens and fields to a mob. "If you want war," he said, "you can nave it; but. If you wish peace, peace it is; we shall be glad of

This was not the language of deflance; it was no idle boast; it was the expression of faith in God and the invincible strength of innocence. And the outcome justified the address. The Commisioners recommended peace.

Brigham Young, like all true Latterday Saints, was loyal to his country He remained true in circumstances in which his traducers of today, with their small souls, would have become rebels and traitors. Not an act of disloyalty has ever been found or recordad against him. During the exciting times of the past, he, like other public speakers in times of excitement, | Church member. But if ever that day west that is soon to be.

paring to take a fitting place in a r state the center

THE PROOFS ARE NUMEROUS.

of the great

The daily spokesman for the anti-Church demagogues vehemently denies our assertion that the assault upon Senator Smoot was but a preliminary to a general attack upon the rights of Church members to hold any office, or even to vote. But that denial counts for nothing against the proofs they, themselves, have furnished to the contrary.

In the first place, the charges against Senator Smoot were so formulated that, if they had been sustained by the Senate, they would necessarily have resulted in the general disfranchisement of the Church members. The accusers said: "We accuse him of no. offense cognizable by law," and yet they urged that he be deprived of the rights to exercise the civil duties imposed upon him by his State. It is easy to see that if they had succeeded in this first attempt the next would have beet directed against others whom they would have desired to have punished though they could not accuse them of any "offense cognizable by law." When that rule prevails, there is no telling to what extreme consequences it may lead. In the second place, the effort was actually made in Idaho to oust from office an excellent official of the highest moral standing in the state, for no other reason than his membership in the Church, and that dastardly assault upon free American institutions was warmly applauded in the columns of the Tribune. If straws indicate the lirection of the wind, this effort to deprive Judge Alfred Budge of the office to which he was duly elected and which he fills with ability and honor, proves conclusively what the ultimate object of the conspirators was.

Senator Dubois, in his oratorical effort before the Senate, Dec. 13, 1906, offered the following cheap grandiloquence: "Mormon domination and American Commonwealths can not exist together under our system of gov-One or the other must be ernment. destroyed." But as there is no such thing as "Mormon domination," the speaker unquestionably had in mind the destruction of the civil rights and privileges of Church members, such as attempted in the demand of the expulsion of Senator Smoot from the Senate and the suit against Judge Budge in Idaho. From the general designs and plots of the anti-American conspirators it is plain that the great battle waged to a finish by Senator Smoot was not for personal interests, but for principles of very far-reaching consequences. If he had lost, a precedent would have been established on which it would have become possible to disfranchise every when after Sedan Napoleon III fied to England Queen Victoria visited him at Chiselhurst, "paying honor to our mas-fortunes," as M. Gavard wrote, "by saluting their author." The affair of Fashoda, triffing in itself, kept Extred alive five years. But Great Britain was reminded of the weakness of her splen-did isolation when during the Beer way Kaiser Wilhelm sent his telegram of sympathy to President Kruger and Europe generally sympathized with the Boers. When Russia collapsed in the Japanese war France found that Dual Alliance a more pron The Moreceo Alliance a poor prop. The Morocoo conference of Emperor William's inter-ference brought France and England together. Only a few months ago Baron von Achrenthal's scheme of extending the Austrian railroad from Bosnia through the Sandjak of Novibazar to Salonica suddenly throw Great Britain with Russia in support of the counter-proposal of a Servian railroad to the Adriatic and brought out Lord Grey's demand for Macedonian reforms. FAILURE IS NOT RUIN. Louisville Herald.

Louisville Herald. One of the most pitiful things in the world is the man who has failed in fousiness, but who, still having prime and health, lies down in despair and says he is "ruined." Ruined? How is he ruined when he has larger means for winning success than he had when he first started in business? Then, perhaps, he had no capital but his mental and bodily gifts; now he has, besides these, all the invaluable experi-ence which adversity teaches botter than success. Shipwreck, is he? Well, the very wreckage of an honest ent the very wreckage of an honest en-terprise is fine material out of which to construct a raft that will bear him above the billows. There is a capital in the heads of men, in their acquired experience and skill, which remains un-impaired even in the worst failures.

SELLING FLOUR IN AFRICA.

American Flour and Feed Journal. The method of doing business is to sell the goods on credit to women, who are the principal traders of the coun-try, and who in turn resell it in smaller quantities. For instance, the woman trader will come along and purchase one barrel or ten barrels of flour. This will be taken to her hut, where she will peddle out the flour in smaller quanti-ties, her principal customers being the ties, her principal customers being the native bakers, who are also women. The principal foods of the country are native corn, sweet potatoes, yams, plan-tains and bananas. It is through the education of the trader that these West Africans are coming to use and appre modifies which are the ne saries of life in this country.

JUST FOR FUN.

The Campaign On.

"Got any babies around your place?" inquired the candidate. "Nope," answered the farmer. "Babies is all growed up an' married off. How'd you like to put in the forenoon ploughin'?"-Louisville Courier-Journal

Wanted a Day Off.

A certain scientist in the government service is said to be a hard taskmaster to both his official and his domestic Being detailed once to accompany a scientific expedition on an extended

1 2

