

engines. The officials of the road were compelled to man the switches and towers.

The Illinois Central suburban service is completely tied up. The engineers and firemen today refused to take out the engines.

The employes of the Fort Wayne road quit in the suburban district today. Several trains were manned by the officers of the road and kept in service but traffic was practically suspended.

MILWAUKEE, June 30.—The Northwestern officials have posted a notice that all men who have quit duty can never enter the service again.

St. LOUIS, June 30.—The American Union director, George O. Kern, has been arrested on complaint of General Manager Ramsey, of the Terminal association, on a charge of disturbing the peace. This is thought to presage a graver charge. The Terminal association employes, who do all the switching, refused today to handle the Pullman cars. The Mobile and Ohio has, it is understood, yielded and will resume services without the Pullmans.

WADENA, Minn., June 30.—A passenger train on the Northern Pacific went through here at 5:12 o'clock bound for Winnipeg. Superintendent Sovereign was engineer and Roadmaster McGuire fireman. At Naples no one could be found to take the train out. The only passengers were deputy marshals.

CAIRO, June 30.—A riot was narrowly averted here today. A deputy sheriff attempted to board a Pullman car and arrest a special detective. The detective kicked the deputy in the mouth. A mob of 5,000 people swarmed in the vicinity making threats. The detective was arrested. Superintendent Horace Baker, of the Illinois Central, has been arrested on a state warrant charging him with bringing armed men into the county and inciting to riot.

BERLIN, June 30.—In connection with the anarchist movement, a startling rumor has reached here from St. Petersburg. It says that the czar recently found upon his table a document which set forth that sentence of death had been pronounced upon him, and that the sentence would be carried out within twenty-four hours. This document was signed "The Society for the Liberation of Russians." The Czar found upon the dressing table in his dressing room a skull with the word "Alexander" inscribed upon the frontal bone.

RICHFORD, Vt., June 30.—Mrs. Mary Baker, of Montgomery, hanged her four children today. Mrs. Baker and her husband had trouble and they separated this morning, after which she hanged the children. Mrs. Baker has escaped, and search is being made for her.

CHICAGO, July 1.—In Chicago and vicinity today was spent by the two contending forces in the great railway strike in playing a waiting game, each side narrowly watching the next move of the other.

At a number of vantage points throughout the city efforts were made to move freight trains, which were promptly frustrated by strikers and their sympathizers, who pounced upon the trains, carried off the links and pins, set brakes and chased away the men, retiring whenever a superior force of police appeared on the scene. Barring a few minor scimmages, in which no damage was done, the day was fairly quiet.

About 6 p. m. a gang of about thirty strikers broke into the Pan Handle switch tower at West Pullman, and with threats and abusive epithets, chased the telegraph operator out of it, declaring they would have his life if he ever returned.

Six persons today were given authority to tie up every Chicago industry. By a resolution adopted by the Trade and Labor assembly, the members of the executive committee were given absolute power to act in support of the American Railway union until the boycott on the Pullman strike is settled.

PARIS, July 1.—Count Von Munster, the German ambassador, informed Prime Minister Dupuy and M. Monna-teux, the minister of foreign affairs, that upon the occasion of M. Carnot's obsequies, Emperor William had granted a pardon to Lieutenant Dagon and Lieutenant Mhevaa, the two French officers who were convicted in December last at Leipzig of being spies.

LEGHORN, July 1.—A crime somewhat resembling the murdering of President Carnot was committed in this city today. As Signor Bandi, director of the Gazetta Livornese, was entering his carriage at 8 o'clock, he was set upon by a man whom it was subsequently learned was an anarchist, who drew a knife and stabbed him in the abdomen.

Signor Bandi was at once attended by physicians, who decided the only hope of saving his life was to perform the operation of laparotomy. This was done, but Signor Bandi died a short time afterwards.

PARIS, July 1.—The remains of the late President Sadi Carnot, the murdered chief magistrate of France struck down by the hand of Cesario Santo, the anarchist, at Lyons, on Sunday last, were deposited in the Pantheon by the side of the remains of his grandfather, Lazare Carnot, the "organizer of the victory."

By 3 o'clock this morning the streets along the route were already crowded, and by 6 o'clock the Place de la Concord was black with people. The housetops, windows and balconies of every house along the line of march and every other point of vantage was occupied, fabulous sums of money having been paid for the use of houses, windows and balconies, from which to view the funeral procession.

At exactly 10:20 a. m. the procession began its march towards the cathedral of Notre Dame. A squadron of Republican guards emerged from the grounds of the palace and proceeded slowly down Avenue Marignini toward the avenue Gabriel and the Champs Elysee, the band of the guards playing a funeral march. All the troops presented arms, and the people uncovered their heads in spite of the blazing sun.

Following the band of the Guards Republicaine came four of the principal attendants of the Elysee, with the tri-colored cockade in their hats and bearing Casimer-Perier's splendid wreath of roses and palms across two poles. Then came two carriages containing the priests who were to escorte the body to Notre Dame. After the clergy came the six-horse funeral car, which had been used at the funerals of Presidents Thiers and McMahon. The trappings of the car and horses were richly embroidered with silver, and angels with outstretched wings surmounted each corner. The casket was covered with the tri-color of France and was heavily draped with crepe. There was no flowers on the funeral car.

Two infantry captains bearing a large velvet cushion upon which rested President Carnot's various orders, marched after the funeral car. They were followed by the officers composing the civil household of the late president. Behind these were the three sons of the dead man. The other members of the family, excepting the widow, came next, and preceded Casimer-Perier, who followed them bare-headed, with the cordon of grand master of the legion of honor across his breast.

A panic occurred at the Arcades of the Rue de La Rivoli, near the Cambon. As the end of the procession passed, an officer's horse shied and backed into the crowd. Those behind the first few lines of the crowd were not aware of the cause of the disturbance and some foolish person shouted: "A bomb!" The affrighted sight-seers made a desperate rush in their effort to escape what they believed to be an impending explosion. Stands and benches packed with people were overturned and some persons fell to the ground and were trampled under foot.

The procession reached the Cathedral of Notre Dame at noon where a most impressive scene was witnessed. As the casket was taken from the funeral car the officers all saluted together, the troops presented arms, the trumpets rang out a grand salute, the muffled drums rolled and the bells tolled mournfully, the whole filling the air with a strange wailing sound which echoed far and wide.

The clergy, headed by the archbishop of Paris, preceded the bier up the aisle to a monumental catafalque, displacing the altar which usually stands at that spot.

The religious ceremony in the Cathedral was concluded at 2 p. m., when the procession re-formed and proceeded across the river to the Pantheon.

Mme. Carnot remained at the Elysee Palace with her daughter and the wives of the members of the military household after the funeral procession had started, and at noon, when the body was arranged to arrive at Notre Dame, mass was celebrated in the chapel in the palace for the repose of the late president's soul. The chapel was draped with black and the widow manifested the greatest anguish as the Abbe Kosina officiated at the sacred ceremony.

EVANSTON, Wyo., July 2.—The strike is completely broken here. Nearly every railroad man in Evanston has signed to go to work when called.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—United States Marshal Baldwin, who went into office yesterday, spent Sunday morning swearing in thirty-eight special deputy marshals. A dozen deputies were sent out on local trains, but the majority are held in readiness
