THE WONDERFUL SEED.

BY KATE PUTNAM OSGOOD.

It was a wild, neglected ground,
That should have been a garden fair,
No hope of ripening fruit was found
In the rank briers that hedged it round,
No song-bird nested there.

The winding ways were overgrown,
The flowers were choked in vase and plot,
Foul weeds and venomous vines, alone,
Hung festering on the moldered stone
About the dreary spot.

It seemed a soil unfit to feed
The growth of any wholesome thing—
Yet, under the press of thorn and weed,
Slow waxing, was a wondrous seed,
Waiting its time to spring!

The dews of evening filtered through;
The morning sunbeams leat their prime;
And, even and morn, in sun and dew,
In secret ever the good seed grew,
Biding its perfect time.

At length the final hour was found,
Through weary seasons long delayed:
The rain had loosened the stubborn ground,
And, through the matted weeds around,
There peeped a slender blade.

Only a thread of green at first,
Scarce visible amidst the gloom:
But still unfolding, sunshine nurst,
Fresh leaf and twig and branch, it burst
At last in glorious bloom.

No growth of mortal lanes or leas
Had ever blossom half so fair!
It brought the birds, it brought the bees,
It brought the eternal summer breeze
To make new music there.

And springing, spreading, day by day,
So full it filled the garden bound,
The tangled weeds uprooted lay,
The barren briers dropped away
And withered on the ground.

And when the moldered stone lay bare
And blistering in the summer noon,
It wound about it, everywhere,
Deep garlands, where the searching air
Dropped into sweetest swoon:

When every stone a blossom seemed,
And every gap a hidden nest:
Green nooks where secret music streamed,
And scattered dews and petals gleamed
About some fluttering breast.

Oh, blessed miracle, indeed!
The desert quickening into flower;
The stubborn growth of thorn and weed
Uprooted by a little seed
Fostered in sun and shower!

Oh, miracle still wrought anew,
While hearts one germ of Heaven retain!
Where barren briers and nettles grew,
Let fall the kindly sun and dew,
And Eden blooms again!

A twelvemonth ago, when the undersigned announced their intention of issuing such a work, another Directory was presented to the public, and they immediately withdrew their advertisement. There being no proposition to publish a Directory from any other quarter at present, and the importance of Salt Lake with the growing industries of the Territory calling for one, they propose issuing, on or before the 1st of April, a

A General Directory of Salt Lake City; a Business Directory of Salt Lake City;

A Business Directory of Ogden, Provo, Corinne, Alta, Bingham and Ophir; with ☞ Canvassers soliciting Subscriptions and Advertisements will call upon business men and others in a few days.

[It is respectfully requested that every facility be extended to the canvassers for the general and business directory, by furnishing them correct information as to names and residences.]
