AN ERA OF CHEAPER MONEY IN UTAH.

Business Conditions That Will Probably Result in a Lower Savings Bank Interest as Well as Lower Rates in Other Lines.

It appears that an era of cheaper money for the people of Utah, is about to be ushered in. Low rates of interest on all edged security have, of course, obtained for the last year or two, but the practice, in the minds of leading financiers must now necessarily be extended. It is this condition that is causing the savings bank directors of this city to consider the question of reducing prevailing rates on safety deposits from 4 to 3 per cent.

It is a subject that has received considerable attention informally by the officers of these institutions and a number of meetings have already been held.

As already stated in the Deseret News the directors of Zion's Savings Bank & Trust company met yesterday afternoon and had this matter directly before them.

Definite action will be taken at a meeting to be held next week. In the meantime the question is being widely spread among banking and business men to say nothing of the thought which is being applied to it by savings bank depositors and other persons having money for investment purposes.

In order to obtain the views of bankers whose institutions are of a strictly commercial and not a savings character, the "News" today interviewed a number of them with the following result: Mr. L. S. Hill of the Deseret National Bank expressing himself said: "The only wonder to me is that the 4 per cent rate on savings deposits has prevailed as long as it has in Utah. I am satisfied that a change must come. The great plethora of money now in circulation will force the adoption of that practice within a very short time. Nearly all the savings banks in the east have been compelled to reduce their rate of interest and Salt Lake savings banks will have to fall in line. The general tendency is in that direction. But there should be no occasion for alarm, as the movement will have a good effect over the State. It will cause a decrease in all classes of interest before it has been in force a great while. It may cause some people to turn their money from the savings bank and loan it in the open markets and will probably increase the price of stocks."

W. S. McCormick said: "It is hardly the thing for a commercial banker to express himself upon. Still the natural trend of the money market is lower and sooner or later we must have cheaper interest here. As to whether this is the opportune time to act, that is for the savings bank people to determine. If the object sought for is attained, there will certainly be cheaper money over the State and people with money will seek other investments."

James H. Dill of the Commercial National Bank said: "Are we entering upon an era of cheaper money? No. We have already entered upon such an era. As to what I think of the proposed reduction of interest on savings deposits, I have this to say: It is in the interest of good, conservative banking. The banks are full of money and they cannot make loans at a sufficient interest to justify a continuance of the 4 per cent basis. Interest is gradually going lower. Take United States bonds that a few years ago sold for 4 per cent, they are now on the market at 2 and even 1 1/2 per cent. Two per cent United States bonds are selling at a premium of about 6 per cent. The net income on them per annum is 1 and 1/2, all of which goes to show that people are willing by reason of the great amount of money they have to put into absolutely safe propositions when they bring even a very low rate of interest."

Mr. George M. Cannon, cashier of Zion's Savings Bank, did not care to discuss the question directly, but said: "Savings banks are not designed as depositories for capitalists, but for the accumulation of the wage earner and the thrifty who desire to accumulate a little fund for future use. The main advantage to the depositor over an investment in stocks is that the deposit in the bank is drawn in cash at the times provided by the rules of the bank without discount, and in this way the depositor is always sure of the principal as well as the interest, small as the latter may be. Many people prefer to know that their money is thus secure with small profits rather than take the risk incident to an investment in fluctuating stocks, the best of which rise and fall with the market. Another advantage offered by savings banks is that the depositor can make a deposit of one dollar or over, and that he is not compelled to accumulate large sums before making his deposit. The effect of this is that many depositors whose wages are very small have by frequent additions increased the original deposit until it now amounts to hundreds and in some cases even to thousands of dollars. Another advantage is that if it becomes necessary to use part of the deposit, the exact amount needed can be withdrawn without in any way disturbing the remainder of the deposit."

The directors of the Utah Savings and Loan company met at a meeting at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and today gave out the statement that a resolution was passed declaring that the bank would adhere to the 4 per cent rate in respect of the action of the other savings banks of the city.

ly with a poison that has the peculiar power of being able to prevent smallpox?

As far as is known vaccination is a fact, with nothing else for its foundation than a possible mental impression. This fact was started in 1786 by Dr. Jenner of Gloucestershire, England, who substituted cowpox for virus taken direct from a smallpox patient as practiced by the Chinese for centuries prior to the English doctor's venture. It might also be news to a great many people that even Dr. Jenner never gave a reasonable explanation regarding vaccination and that most of his experiments were failures.

Jenner never discovered or explained anything concerning either smallpox or vaccination and the only thing he did do was the substituting of one evil for another, by using the corruption from a cowpox ulcer instead of the virus direct from the disease.

A drowning man will catch at a straw, and so do people grasp for anything that is offered as a preventive or cure for a serious disease. And so it has been with vaccination. The fact is a terrible disease and people have made every possible effort to shield themselves from its attacks. But as far as vaccination is concerned, it is a deplorable, but well known fact, that even this extreme measure does about as little in preventing smallpox as the straw can be of service in preventing a human being from drowning.

Vaccination is a brutal operation on children and one that is especially dangerous to persons of mature years. This fact has been demonstrated in almost innumerable instances where vaccine virus has been employed.

Again, as regards Dr. Jenner, it must also be remembered that in 1786 he was an ambitious young man and just that about as cowpox vaccination not only for the good he imagined it might do, but also for the distinction, advertisement and position the new departure offered for himself.

Supreme courts of several States have decided that local boards of health should not enforce compulsory vaccination, Illinois and Wisconsin taking the lead in this matter. For the reasons stated and many others that may be added, it is a question that is not of importance to public health.

First—We direct thought to the fact that the imagined preventive power of vaccination has never been explained or demonstrated.

Second—Attention is called to medical books and other authorities that do not even make attempts to explain the effects of vaccination.

Third—We refer to decisions of high courts unfavorable to forced inoculation.

Fourth—That vaccination is a useless, cruel and dangerous operation without any scientific or common sense explanation for its foundation.

Fifth—That statistics show that vaccination does not even ameliorate an attack of smallpox.

So, with these facts before us, why should we indulge in a brutal and dangerous operation which has not even a sensible theory for its foundation?—G. Emil Dargatz, M. D.

BAD STABBING CASE IN SALOON.

Filipe Pattella, Italian Laborer, Probably Fatally Wounded.

CONDITION VERY CRITICAL.

Man Who Did the Cutting Has Disappeared and Cannot be Found—Particulars of the Battle.

During a fight last night in an Italian saloon on State street between First and Second South, Filipe Pattella, a laborer, was stabbed and will very likely die from the wound. The man who did the stabbing is Virgilio Decaro, also Italian. Pattella is now at the Holy Cross hospital with his life unevenly poised between this world and the next, with the chances strongly in favor of the latter. Decaro has either left the city or is in hiding with friends, at all events the police, after diligent search, have not succeeded in locating the man.

HOW THE FIGHT BEGAN.

The two men entered the saloon shortly before midnight, and began to talk in a loud and boisterous manner. They called each other vile names and it is said that Pattella struck Decaro in the face. A few more epithets were exchanged, and they started to use their fists instead of names. The fight did not last long, for Decaro suddenly drew a knife from his pocket and stabbed Pattella in the abdomen, and rushed out of the saloon. Pattella uttered a groan and staggered back against the bar. He pressed his hand against his side and it was noticed that he was bleeding. His friends immediately caught him in their arms and tore away his clothing. They were horrified to find a large gaping wound.

TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL.

The wounded man was at once taken to the Parlor drug store and Dr. Pinkerton summoned. Dr. Pinkerton ordered the man removed to the Holy Cross hospital, which was done.

As soon as the police were notified of the affair, they instituted a vigorous search for Decaro, and have been looking for him ever since, but without success. The Italians who are supposed to know where Decaro is manifest a wonderful ignorance of the whole affair and decline to give the officers any information whatever.

CONDITION OF PATELLA.

Upon inquiry at the hospital this afternoon, it was learned that the condition of the wounded man was anything but favorable, and it is thought that he will die. Pattella's father stated today that he would accept a $10,000 reward to see that Decaro, at once, but he will probably wait to see what the fate of his son will be. It is impossible to obtain any information from the Italians, and it is quite evident that friends are doing all in their power to shield Decaro.

SAM MOSER'S TRIAL.

Officer Palmer is Sent For by Illinois Authorities.

Today Chief of Police Hilton received the following telegram from Sheriff John D. Mount, of Pekin, Ill. It is dated February 8: "Will you send police officer that arrested Sam Moser, Monday February 11th. If we pay all expenses?" Chief Hilton has replied that Officer Palmer would leave Monday morning.

"News" readers will doubtless remember that on the morning of May 19, 1899, Sam Moser, a certain mortgagee, was shot and killed by Officer Palmer, and that Moser told the officer that he had just come from Tremont, Tazewell county, Illinois, where he, on the Sunday previous, had murdered his wife and the little child.

The officer at that time, of course, believed that Moser was insane, and it is said that his defense will be that of insanity.

VARIOUS COURT CASES.

Thomas Watkins commenced suit in the district court yesterday afternoon against the Home Investment company, and Glen Miller, to compel defendants to release a certain mortgage on a part of lot 1, block 23, plat D, Salt Lake City survey. Plaintiff alleges that he gave the mortgage on said premises to secure the payment of $500, which he borrowed of defendants, but that he paid the amount on February 1st, and the defendants now refuse to release the mortgage referred to, which he asks the court to order done, and also award him $100 attorney's fees for bringing the action.

Wants It Reinstated.

In the case of W. J. Bogan vs W. A. Neiden, which was tried before Justice of the Peace John H. Harris, of the Second precinct, in the year 1897, re-trial was ordered in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $137.35, which was afterwards appealed to the district court, and on motion of defendant to dismiss the case on the ground that Judge Harris was not legally elected, and while the case was on appeal from the State the court dismissed the case. The plaintiff today filed an affidavit and motion for reinstatement, claiming he made arrangements for his attorney to look after the case while he was away but he failed to do so, and that the action is a meritorious one.

Wants An Allowance.

Mary E. Curtis petitioned the district court today asking that an allowance be made out of the estate of Thomas J. Curtis, deceased, for support of herself and minor children, at $75 per month. Mrs. Curtis is the widow of the deceased and administratrix of his estate.

Defendants John M. Fling, Chloe S. Young, his wife, Lydia Ann Young, Merrill, Sarah Milton Young and Ann Oliver Young have filed their answer in the suit of Andrew Gebhart vs Martin
