Lockjaw Cured by Tobacco.—In view of the number of deaths that have occurred in this locality from lockjaw, superinduced by wounds from toy-pistols, the following may not only prove interesting but useful:

A writer in the Scientific American gives an instance of the cure of lockjaw, by an application of tobacco on the pit of the stomach. A soldier had been wounded in the foot, and having taken the cold in the leg, was unable to move. The cold in the leg was caused by the wound in the foot.

The soldier of the Tenth Indiana cavalry, of whose regiment the soldier was a member, casually learned his condition, and as it was a case of lockjaw, he resolved to try an experiment and save him if possible. The man had the lockjaw more than forty hours; they had no medicine along (unless if they had), and the Major's only resource was a plug of navy tobacco. He cut off a piece of it about three inches square, put it in a muslin bag with boiling water until it was not through and saturated with the water, taking it out he allowed it to cool, so as not to blister, then, flattening it out, he placed it on the pit of the man's stomach. In about five minutes the patient turned white around the lips, which also began to twitch—the man was getting very sick—and in nine or ten minutes the rigid muscles relaxed and his jaws fell open. Indeed, it seemed as if the patient would fall all apart and go to pieces, so utterly was his entire muscular system relaxed. The tobacco was immediately removed and some whiskey given to stimulate him. Next day the man was taken along in an ambulance, and in a few days mounted his horse all right, as bold a "sugar boy" as any. So much for a dead man.

It seems necessary in this disease to produce nausea, or sickness of the stomach, to cause the rigid muscles to relax. It is very difficult, or almost impossible to administer medicine, and some external application becomes necessary to produce nausea, and this is furnished by the tobacco. The Major found afterward that damp tobacco applied to any part of the body would produce sickness, but much more quickly, of course, when applied to the stomach.

The editor of the Scientific American, in commenting on the above case, remarks that the remedy proposed is one of great power, and would need to be used with extreme caution, to avoid fatally intoxicating the patient.

Distilled Meanness.—The following appeared in a sheet which makes a profession of villification:

The Dearest (Mormon) Hospital, of this city, is in receipt of clothing and food from Gentile merchants and doctors. The Twelfth Ward boys use up the clothing, and the sick must fall back on the Gentiles.

The contemptible meanness of the spirit that dictated that venomous squib is so despicably low as to savor of diabolism. The hospital is a benevolent institution whose benefits are not confined to any creed or party, and the small-souled individual who penned that paragraph has gone out of his way to insult a few generous gentlemen who, without solicitation, made contributions for the furtherance of a worthy object in the same unsectarian spirit in which the hospital is conducted. The meanest man is found.

Coasting Accident.—The danger of "coasting" engaged in by boys in this city, was illustrated in the 18th Ward yesterday. A little six-year-old boy was passing the corner of a block, on her way home, when a boy came sweeping down the sidewalk on a "schooner." The little girl was struck on the legs, thrown over the side, alighting upon the frozen ground on her head and left shoulder. She lay upon the snow for some time, and the little Simon and Russell Greive, like little men, put her upon a sled, one pulling and the other holding her in position, and in this way conveyed her home. It is thought no bones were broken, but the little girl received a severe shock, and her bruised shoulder is exceedingly painful.

A Poisoning Case.—This afternoon a prominent surgeon was summoned by telephone to go to his office. The call was accompanied by something about a man being poisoned. He sped home expecting to have to attend to a case of unusual emergency to find a man awaiting his arrival who had been suffering for three years from the effects of contact with poison ivy. The unfortunate fellow had met with his mishap while working with Mr. Hammond's gang on the Denver & Rio Grande R. R. He had been treated in Colorado for the complaint but without effect.

Juvenile Party.—There will be a party given Friday afternoon in the 20th Ward School House for the children of the 18th and 20th Wards under 15 years of age. Through the kindness of Mr. T. W. Jennings the party will be free, the gentleman having generously made arrangements to that effect. The committee who have managed the series being given by the two wards, the third of which takes place Friday night, will also conduct the affair for the young folks, furnishing in addition to the ball other enjoyments for the children.

Ogden Central School.—Professor Carl Linn has accepted a call to take charge of the musical department of the Central School of Ogden City. He purposes retaining his pupils in Salt Lake, however, as he will be in this city on Friday evenings and all day on Saturdays of each week. He has thirty-four musical pupils in the school, in which there are a piano and three organs. It is in other branches, as well as musical, an excellent and thorough educational institution. The pupils in the district number 700, under the supervision of Prof. I. F. Moneh, the Principal.

Dangerously Ill.—We regret to learn that Capt. W. H. Hooper is again very low. He has been insensible during the whole of to-day, and hopes of his recovery are not strong.

Theatre To-morrow.—To-morrow night those who attend the Theatre will have an opportunity of witnessing a new piece, original in every sense. "His Amber Witch" is a drama of the most intense and thrilling description, the leading role being admirably adapted to the rare ability of Miss Adams. This excellent actor will be supported by the Dramatic Combination and a selected company. Go and see the "Amber Witch."

Correct.—The Missing Link (Laramie) says: It would be not unlike M. E. Post to say that he believed that he received the democratic Mormon vote. Mormons of Wyoming are citizens of the United States, entitled to certain rights before the law, and as yet have not been outlawed. Their number is small, and as a factor in politics they are not of much value save in a close election. It is possible that, in answer to one of them, asking that they be not regarded as beyond the pale of humanity and beneath the consideration of the Wyoming Delegate in Congress, M. E. Post did write a letter saying the Mormons should not be the objects of unrestrained hatred and that they, as citizens of our country, are entitled to consideration by our lawmakers. A public man animated by other motives is unworthy of his place.

A Hard Field.—We learn by letter written at Covington, Ind., by Elder M. W. Pratt, that the members of the Church in that State are nearly all preparing to emigrate to Utah next spring. The Elders are making but little headway owing to the prejudice of the people. Elder Pratt, in company with other Elders, had visited thirty-two counties, and met with but little other feeling than cool indifference.

A fellow calling himself "Utah Jack" drew large houses in one section of the State. He pretended to be able to speak the Indian language and to give imitations of war dances and other ceremonies. He was a fraud, as he had never been to Utah and had no knowledge of the Indian language. While he filled the school-houses, the public halls were closed against the Elders, showing that the people preferred falsehood to truth.

The patient had all the symptoms of consumption—cough, night sweats, hectic fever, harassing cough, etc. He commenced immediately to get better and was soon restored to his usual health.
