And it is further decreed by the court that Joseph Rosborough be and he is hereby appointed a special examiner and commissioner of this court in said cause to examine said report of said receiver and all reports by him made as such receiver, and all vouchers, contracts, transactions, actings and doings relating to his duties as receiver herein; and for such purpose he is hereby authorized and empowered to examine said receiver under oath, and such witnesses as he may deem necessary in making such investigation, and he is hereby ordered to make a full report to this court of his conclusions of fact and law relating thereto, and also the evidence taken by him.

And for the purposes aforesaid, the said reports of said receiver made and to be made when filed, and all matters relating thereto, are hereby referred to said examiner and commissioner. And it is further ordered by the court that said examiner and commissioner, when he shall have completed his examination and investigation as aforesaid, report to this court as aforesaid.

THE KIMBALL CEMETERY.

Today, June 14th, is the birthday of the late President Heber C. Kimball. Visitors to the sacred spot, where sleeps the silent dust of that great and noble man, will be pleased to see the handsome improvements recently made in and around the old deceased members of the Kimball family were buried. It is located immediately in the rear of the old homestead, on the hill, near the head of Main Street.

A spot of ground, 42 by 5 rods, including but not confined to the original cemetery, has been set apart under a perpetual grant from the City Council, who have allowed its use for the purpose indicated on condition that no more interments be made there. This spot is now sur-rounded, in lieu of the old picket fence of former years, with a hand-somely ornamented fence of somely ornamented fence of wrought iron, on a coping of cut Kyune stone, and the soil inside Kyune stone, and the soil sown to grass and planted with shade trees. A row of poplars ex-tends all around the interior of the enclosure the one entrance to which is by a gate on the south.

In the centre of the lot stands the monument of President Kimball, an huposing shaft of sandstone and marble, on a base of granite. the only object of its kind, or in the nature of a tembstone, left standing in the cemetery, all other stones and boards having been removed, with many of the bodies once buried there, the grave mounds obliterated, and the ground on all sides leveled to a lawn, the grass of which is coming up nicely. On the faces of the monument are inscribed the names, with birth and death dates, of the principal persons whose remains lie beneath, most of which have long since crumbled to dust. The names are those of President Kimball, his wives, Vilate Murray, Laura Pitkin, Sarah Noon, Sarah Ann Whitney, Anna Gheen, Ellen Sanders, Theresa Morley; and Bish-op Newel K. Whitney

No more work will be done upon the cemetery this year, as the season is so far advanced, but it is the design to complete it next spring, when a walk will be laid out, leading from the gate to and around the monument, to be bordered with choice shrubbery and flowers, and the lawn platted with pines and evergreens; thus making the old burial ground "a thing of beauty" and a place suggestive of sweet re-

The Kimball family hold the deeds to the new cemetery and a right of way thereto through a lane running from Maln street between the old homestead and the G. F.

Culmer residence.

The work so far done is due to the commendable energy of a commit-tee consisting of five of the elder sons of President Kimball, namely, William H., Abram A., Solomon F Joseph H. and Jonathan G., who were appointed by the family at the Kimball reunion, June 14th, 1887, to undertake the duty of publishing their father's life, and beautifying his last resting-place. Their noble mission is about completed. The his last resting-place. Their noble mission is about completed. The Life of Heber C. Kimball, written by his grandson, Bishop O. F. Whitney, has been published, and from the proceeds of the sales, which have been extensive, the improvements have been made to the cemetery, and three fine portraits of President Kimball, procured and presented to the Logan, St. George and Manti Temples. Moneys still to be derived from the same source will be devoted to further improve ments in the cemetery, the purchase of a life-size portrait of "Brother Heber" for the Salt Lake Temple when completed, and the interest on any balance remaining applied, as may be needed, to keep the burialground in repair.

The Kimball family and their committee are to be commended and congratulated on the good work so well performed in honor of their revered and beloved dead.

CACHE COUNTY NOTES

Albert Lewis, of Richmond, was riding a spirited horse last Friday, when the animal suddenly became frightened at some object and became un manageable; rearing. threw the young man off, and fall-ing on him, inflicted a fracture of the leg, and bruised him up in a painful manner. The horse continued his flight, leaving the young man stunned on the ground, where the intention of the company hut he was found soon after by some it has not yet been fully declared by passers by and carried to his home in an insensible condition. Dr. Parkinson was sent for and attended the aufferer.

A rumor comes from Idaho that there is to be an organization formed to take out the waters of Bear River. in the Territory on the north for the purpose of watering large tracts of land. It is asserted that this venture will interfere materially with the plans and prospects of the big canal in Box Elder Valley, though how far is not stated. At any rate it seems that a huge effort is to be made to secure for the use of the people of Idalio a portion of the waters flowing through that Territory.

Last Saturday evening a mystery in the shape of a baby boy about two weeks old was left ou the doorstep in front of the People's Hotel. It was discovered by two gentlemen about 10:30 p. m, and was immediately rescued by Mrs. Brown. No note or other information accompanied the little waif, and there is no clue whatever as to the parties who left it, although among some of the hotel guests suspicion attaches to an apparently married couple from Evanston, it is supposed, who were at the hotel the latter part of the week. It is claimed that the woman borrowed a shawl, which was found to be the identical shawl which was wrapped around the infant. It is further maintained by parties who happened to become acquainted with the couple, that their actions were very suspicious. The baby seems to be a healthy one, and eats heartily from a bottle. Mrs. Brown states the little one is very welcome. and every effort is being made to rear it.—Logan Journal.

THE SIOUX CITY AIR LINE.

Away back in last December articles of incorporation were filed in the State House for the Colorado and Utah Pacific Railway. Through an arrangement made with the officials the fact that this important document was deposited in the archives was carefully kept from the reporters, and the company proceeded to carry out its plans without any hint having been given to the world. Surveybeen given to the world. Surveying parties were put in the field. Of course it was not long before the men of sines and cosines attracted a great deal of curious attention. They were observed prowling around the mountains north of Denver and near Boulder. Rumors of all kinds have grown out of their operations, most of which connected the Rurlington which connected the Burlington with the evident preparations to run another line across the backbone of the continent. The surveyors kept their own counsel and none of the guessers had anything to go on. Some of the shrewder ones surmised that the Sioux City Short Line had a finger in the pie, and that it contemplated building an ex-tension or more properly a branch from a point on its line through Nebraska. This is very probably the intention of the company hut
