

said that he and the old man had had some words over the tending of the garden, and that the stepfather had said that he would send him away if he did not attend to the chores that he wished him to attend to. "I went to bed," he said, "and brooded over the matter all night and in the morning about 6 o'clock I got up, rushed for the ax, and entered the old man's room, with the ax behead me." He asked the old man if he still adhered to what he had said the night previous, and receiving an affirmative reply dealt him a blow which caused instant death. This testimony was given in such a complacent manner as to make one believe that the defendant was really not aware of the serious charge which was hanging over him.

John H. Blood and Thomas Brynton, a step-brother of the deceased, each testified to the particulars of the case as given in last evening's NEWS.

Dr. Rich, who was called to the scene of the tragedy shortly after it occurred, gave expert testimony regarding the case, after which the defendant was bound over to appear before a higher tribunal.

BRIEF LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

ERASTUS, Apache County, Arizona, July 6th, 1895.

Our little settlement had a sad bereavement last Monday, as we were informed that a son of David Pumphrey, a good young man, had died from his injuries, having about two weeks previous been hurt by a horse falling over with him, whereby an artery was broken, and he was otherwise badly hurt, so that he suffered greatly.

Our little place is otherwise prospering. Your Brother,
CHRISTOPHER I. KEMPE.

MAMMOTH, July 8, 1895.—Meltier Hatch died at his home in this place today, at 5:17 p.m., of paralysis. He had a stroke in December last, on his right side, and partly recovered from it; but on the first of the present month his left side was paralyzed, from which he died.

If Brother Hatch had lived till the 15th of the present month, he would have been 70 years old. He was a member of the Mormon Battalion, and has lived a life of usefulness, being called to locate and build up several new places. He has filled many responsible positions in the Church, and was universally respected by all who knew him. He leaves a large family of mostly grown-up children, who, except one daughter who lives in Idaho, were all present at his bedside during his last sickness. Besides his relatives he leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.

The funeral took place at the Mammoth ward meeting house, July 9th, between 2 and 4 o'clock.

C. WORKMAN.

SCOTFIELD, July 10th, 1895.—Everything is very quiet in these parts. The mines are working only one and two days a week.

Dr. Smith says the measles at Winter Quarters is abating; one death occurred last week, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edwards.

Brother John H. Davis, who was hurt in the rock tunnel a few days ago, is improving nicely.

Joseph Pringle, of Cleveland, Emery county, and his wife passed through here last Sunday en route to Almy, Wyoming. They are going to bring away their brother-in-law John Locke and family, who lost their son in the explosion in No. 5 mine. We bid Brother and Sister Pringle God speed on their mission of love. They will stop at Coalville for a few days where they have relatives.

Alex Wilson went over the hills fishing on Monday. He got separated from his partner and lost himself, but found a sheep camp where he stayed overnight. He got home next morning all right. He says he saw a bear on his way home, but he didn't want him.

MORMON BOY.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 6.—A special to the Courier Journal from Ashland, Ky., say: A horrible story of outrage and murder comes from the upper Blaine Creek district of Elliott county. A country girl named Jordan, while crossing a stretch of woods, en route to the house of a neighbor, was forcibly taken to a deserted house in the mountains and repeatedly assaulted by three young men, all recognized as tough citizens. The fiends then choked the girl until they supposed her dead, according to the report received, and, placing her against the wall of the hut, with her arms extended, nailed her hands to the log. The girl was discovered some time later by a searching party, and recovered sufficiently to tell the names of her assailants. She died later, and the enraged people are hunting the murderers, who escaped to the mountains.

QUEBEC, July 9.—A very large pilgrimage from Sherbrooke, Windsor Mills and Richmond left the last named town at 10 o'clock last evening for the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre. There were two sections of the train, one running a few minutes behind the other. The first section was standing at Craig's Road station at 3 a.m. to day, taking water, when the second section, passing Semaphore, dashing into the rear Pullman coach of the first section, smashing it to kindling wood, and killing, it is said, everybody in that car except the Pullman conductor who jumped. Engineer McLeod and Fireman Perkins of the second section were both killed outright. The Pullman coach was telescoped into the first class cars of the first section, killing a number of passengers. Among the killed are three priests. The number of killed is now placed at twenty-five and injured at thirty-four.

MONTREAL, July 9.—The officials of the Grand Trunk report the number killed in the Craig road disaster but 13 and the injured 29.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Yesterday afternoon Allen Fowler, a prominent young attorney, started for a sail with the yacht Bowery, taking with him Miss Emma Gibson, James Dalton and servant. About 10:30, near Lincoln park, a gust caught the yacht and it capsized. Miss Gibson was swept clear off the deck, but was rescued by Mr. Fowler, and the four, by the aid of oars, succeeded in clinging to the overturned hull. Chilled and almost helpless they drifted about until the daylight revealed their plight to fishermen, who rescued them, so exhausted that they were unable to tell their names. Miss Gibson is in a critical condition, but recovery is expected.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., July 9.—Arrangements are being made for the holding of a carnival of sports, of which a genuine bull fight is to be the principal feature. It will be held at Gillette, one of the towns in the Cripple Creek district, and while no date has yet been announced, it will occur early in the fall.

DENVER, July 9.—A special to the News from Greeley, Colo., says: Miss M. E. Langan, the teacher in the Little Thompson school district, recently sued Mrs. Anna Worrell for $2,000 damages, charging slander and alleging that Mrs. Worrell had charged the schoolma'am with undue intimacy with a prominent ranchman, at whose home she boarded. Tonight, after being out five hours, the jury awarded Miss Langan a verdict for $360 and costs. The defense made a motion for a new trial.

NEW YORK, July 9.—A dispatch to the World from Paris says:

Delegate Fogeiro passed the latter part of last week with M. Gardoff and Count Mirbach Arendt, endeavoring to reach an agreement. After much discussion, Gardoff abandoned the idea of gradual rehabilitation of silver by a system of seigniorage rights, and with the Germans signed the French proposal, which provides for the convocation of an international bimetallic conference, which shall fix the relations of silver and gold at 15½ to 1.

The international congress closed today. The general feeling among American delegates was that much valuable time had been wasted in banquets and receptions which might have been better employed. France cannot take the initiative in proposals of international arbitration. Her alliance with Russia is now an accomplished fact.

ST. PAUL, July 10.—Two weeping women were found at 64 East Seventh street last night, Mrs. Helen Mitchell, a trance medium, and Mrs. Charles Gorman, the latter having lost her husband and baby boy within twenty-four hours. In the afternoon Mrs. Gorman buried her baby, a child of three months, and later learned that the desperado killed in Chicago Monday night was her husband, Charles Gorman. She said she had not seen her husband for several months.

NEW YORK, July 9.—An American gentleman just returned from the Orient brings information of the arrest and death of an American citizen in eastern Turkey early in April. The arrest was made without a warrant, and death, induced by the hardships endured, occurred within a Turkish prison.

The victim was J. Weber, who possessed a passport issued at the United States legation in Constantinople. At the time of his arrest he was on a railway train at Eskishir. Being unable to make himself understood, the local officers affected to discredit his passport.

The prisoner was forced to walk from Eskishir to Bruza, a five days' journey, becoming very ill. At Bruza he was thrust into jail and in a few hours died.
