WEDDING BELLS

An elaborate bridal affair of the week in which many Salt Lakeers are interested was the marriage of C. C. Squires of this city and Miss Elva Eliason of Logan, the event taking place on Wednesday at the bride's home. The ceremony was solemnized in the temple there and in the evening a brilliant reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, the rooms and grounds being beautifully lit and decorated and about 75 guests being present. The bride was attended by Miss Veda Thatcher, and the groom by Mr. George Barrett and the party stood under a bower of ferns and flowers, festoons of smilax being brought from the chandelier and added with pink and white asters while the same flowers were all about the room. The dining room was especially pretty with its large table in the center and small ones surrounding it, streamers of pink tulle reaching from the chandelier to the four corners of the large table, while in the center was a bed of pink and white asters surrounding a vase of the same flowers, and candlesticks were at each end. Pink ribbon streamers were stretched from the chandeliers to the corners of the room, and on each of the smaller tables were vases of the same flowers. In the library festoons of smilax mingled with white flowers extended from the chandeliers to the corners, and sunflowers were

HOW ONE FRENCH MAKER DEVELOPS THE PRINCESS.

This model is by Lehouvier, and has many novel points in its details. It is a shadowy stripe English moirai, so fine and soft as to be readily mistaken for silk. In color it is a brilliant violet. The costume is cut on princess lines, the skirt having a straight back seam that at the waist curves in to a bias interferring, from which point it extends to hostile shaped pieces over the shoulders and to the waist line in front. The seams are laid in a stitched pleat set with covered buttons. The bodice proper is of chiffon of a shade matching the fabric, and it is laid in such tucks and accordion pleated, giving a full and graceful effect. There is a flat collar of violet velvet, and an inner facing of white satin striped with velvet outlines the lace vest. The sleeves are quite three quarters length, and have full capes of chiffon and velvet over the undersleeves. A rosette of the velvet, with a buckle, is set just above the waist line in front. It is noticed that the skirt of this costume is faced up to a depth of 14 to 16 inches with a soft silk, a way the Paris dressmakers have of giving their costumes the proper "hang."

In the presence of about 60 friends and relatives, the bride attended by her sister, Miss Strong, and the groom by his brother, Elbert Kneidel, while Mr. T. W. Brown rendered appropriate bridal music, Mr. and Mrs. Kneidel are at home at 332 west Second North street.

Padon officiating, Miss Lydia Benz acting as maid of honor, Miss Louise Benz and Miss Anna Sorensen bridesmaids, and Mr. Henry Wellings best man. Mr. Roberts and Mr. Elmer were ushers, while the bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. Christine Benz. A large reception followed at the paragonage, which was prettily decorated in the church colors, pink and white. Rev. and Mrs. Bussard are at home at 336 south Fourth East street.

One of Wednesday's many bridal couples was that of Miss Dora Stringfellow and J. N. Taggart, who were married at the bride's home by Bishop Easley, a large reception following. The rooms were decorated in pink and white asters and sweet peas, and a number of intimate friends assisted. Mr. and Mrs. Taggart will reside at York street, Waterloo.

WHERE HE'D HAVE BEEN.

A Detroit woman said of the late Gen. Russell A. Alger:

"In company with a half dozen other women—a committee, in fact—I once waited on General Alger to try to influence him in woman suffrage. 'He was interested. He admitted the truth of many of our arguments. But in the matter of supporting us, he would not go as far as we wanted him to go. 'One of the ladies got, I am afraid, a little overexcited. In her address to the general she alluded to women more virtuous than any merely human creature could possess. At the height of her eloquence General Alger, chuckling, interrupted her and said: 'The general said, ended a striking climax with the question: 'Where would man be if it had not been for woman?' 'She looked around the crowded hall. The silence was intense. She raised her hand and cried again, impressively: 'I repeat, where would man be if it had not been for woman?' 'Then a coarse voice from the rear replied: 'In Paradise, ma'am.'"

She writes as follows to the Herpicide Co.:

"For the past two years I played a part that necessitated the wearing of a wig. My scalp would perspire under the wig and it was not long until dandruff made its appearance and constantly grew worse. I used every remedy I could find to rid my head of it, but all to no avail. I finally decided to give Newbro's Herpicide a thorough trial.

I cleaned and dried my hair before applying Herpicide and after three or four applications I was delighted to see the dandruff disappear and my hair is now as nice as ever."

I could not be without Herpicide and I can recommend it most highly and believe it will do all that is claimed for it."

Respectfully, (Signed) ELLA H. TORRES, 376 Madison Court, Detroit, Mich.

Barber Gibson of Salt Lake City writes that Herpicide Removes Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair.

"I use Herpicide continuously in my shop and can say that it does my customers more good than any other preparation that I have ever used. It stops falling hair and removes dandruff."

(Signed) O. W. Gilman, Salt Lake City, Utah.

More men and women have gotten positive results from the use of Newbro's Herpicide than from all other hair remedies combined.
