EVENING NEWS.

Friday, - April 4, 1884.

BEAVER STAKE CONFERENCE.

The Twenty-third Quarterly Conference of the Beaver Stake was preceded by a meeting of the Presidency and members of the several quorums of the Priesthood, which convened on Friday the 28th inst., at which a very profitable time was spent, being occupied in listening to a very able discourse and instructions delivered by Apostle Geo. Teasdale, who occupied most of the time. Apostle Erastus Snow, who was also present in person, but being somewhat fatigued from traveling, did not address the meeting.

The regular Conference convened at 10 a. m., Saturday, March 29, 1884, in the Latter-day Saints' meeting house in Beaver City. The house was well filled, and on the stand were representatives from the several wards, consisting of Bishops, Counselors and of the presidency of the different quorums of Priesthood.

10 a. m.

The choir sang.

Prayer was offered by Bishop McKnight.

The assemblage was addressed by President Murdock, who made some opening remarks.

All the wards were represented orally by their Bishops. The reports were fully satisfactory.

Apostle Snow said: President Murdock gives me liberty to report my labors. Am much pleased with the reports of the Bishops that have spoken, giving evidence of improvement among the people. He gave instruction respecting further improvements in various ways. Counselled the people to observe and do according to the teachings of those whom God had placed in the Church for that purpose, and cautioned them not to follow the doings of those who are evil. He portrayed those who are sure of the reward as faithful rulers in God's kingdom, and also those who are the reverse.

2 p.m.

After the usual opening exercises, Bishop Fotheringham made a report of the tithing matters which showed a marked increase. His report as Superintendent of Sabbath Schools was also interesting, as it showed an improvement. The speaker made several suggestions for the benefit of this institution, with a special view of educating the youth in theology.

President J. Robinson reported the Elders Quorum much more favorably than heretofore.

Apostle Teasdale expressed himself as being very much interested in the reports given, because he is interested in the gospel of the kingdom of God on the earth. He spoke on the philosophy of establishing the principles of righteousness, and explained the difference between salvation and exaltation; also the great contrast between the results of monogamy and the benefits to be derived from the celestial order of marriage, contrasting the laws of God with the precepts and doings of men.

President Taylor reported the High Priests Quorum in a flourishing condition and fully up to the times, with few exceptions.

Adjourned until 10 a. m. to-morrow.

Sunday, 10 a. m.

Meeting opened with singing and prayer.

Historical report of the Stake was presented by the clerk, also a financial report of donations to the Manti Temple, which were very satisfactory.

Bishop Joseph reported the Adamsville Ward.

Apostle Teasdale then occupied the time in an excellent discourse in which he portrayed the difference between the religion that included the worship of the true and Living God, in whose image and likeness the inhabitants of the earth were created, and the idolatrous worship of a God without body, parts and passions, as believed in and worshiped by many of the religious denominations of Christendom.

After the opening ceremonies and the administration of the sacrament, the clerk presented the general church authorities, those of the Stake, and officers of the various quorums of the Priesthood, all of whom were unanimously sustained by the full vote of the congregation.

Apostle Snow made remarks on church government and the duties of the Priesthood, embracing in his discourse every grade thereof, from the deacon to the First Presidency, quoting and reading many passages from the book of Covenants. He recommended the enlargement of the meeting-house or the erection of a tabernacle suitable for holding conferences and transacting business wherein the bulk of the people of the Stake are interested, offering to all an opportunity to take part in the erection and furnishing in a suitable manner such a building.

After a few closing remarks from Prest. Murdock, Conference adjourned for three months.

W. G. NOWERS, Stake Clerk.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

SHE KEEPS IN SUBMISSION TWO HUNDRED UNRULY CONVICTS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

A magazine writer of the last generation once told the story of a boarding school full of big, unruly boys, the head master of which fell suddenly and seriously ill. Disorganization ruled in the establishment; the terrified ushers were unable to maintain order; mutiny and barring out seemed imminent, when the doctor's daughter, a little maiden of sixteen, resolutely seized the reins of authority, seated herself at her papa's desk, scrupled not to use the wand of chastisement, coerced to submission the biggest and unruliest of the boys, infused fresh confidence into the assistants, and kept the school going, a model of good discipline, until her papa got well.

Truth is stranger than fiction, and a heroine of a type far more exalted than that imagined by the magazine writer has been found in the wife—now unhappily the widow—of M. de Roenstorff, a gentleman of Danish extraction, belonging to the Uncovenated Civil Service, lately the superintendent in charge of the convict settlement of Camorta, the capital of the Nicoba Islands in the Bay of Bengal. There are 200 native desperadoes of the very worst type at Camorta, with only 30 soldiers of the Madras Native Infantry and a like number of police to guard them. A havildar, or native soldier of the contingent of soldiers had a grudge against M. de Roepstorff, in consequence of a dubious accusation which had been brought against him by a native watchman. The vindictive havildar lay im ambush for the superintendent, and as the unfortunate gentleman was riding past the barracks, the havildar fired at him and shot him dead. The murderer at once blew out his own brains.

The hapless Mme. de Roepstorff, who had been riding a few yards behind her husband, found herself a widow, 300 miles by sea from anyone to speak to, and with 200 convicts virtually at large to deal with. To complicate the agonizing difficulty of her position, the native soldiery and the native police were on the worst of terms. But the heroism of the "Mem Sahib" made her mistress of the situation. She had her husband's body carried to his bungalow, and afterward buried: she dispatched a native craft to Fort Blair, the capital of the adamans, with two constables to report the tragedy which had occurred; she took command of the station, she ordered all reports to be made to herself; and she kept her ferocious flock in perfect order until, seven days afterward, the acting commandant at Fort Blair, with some officers and the chaplain, arrived at Camorta. Then, but not till then, the brave heroine broke down; and when the chaplain read the burial service over her husband's tomb, she flung herself on the grave and had to be removed by force. Here was the story of the school master's daughter over again, but it was most tragically large.—London Telegraph.

THE LIVER AND ITS FUNCTIONS.

IT has become a well established fact that the larger portion of diseases to which the human family is subject originate in the first place from some derangement of the Liver. This organ is not only the largest, but at the same time one of the most important. The vessels bleed, on its return to the heart, passes through this organ, and it is the passage the impurities, as also the secretions which are necessary for digestion as well as for a cathartic to assist in the removal of waste matter &c. are attended. From this it is easily seen that the Liver is liable to get out of order to a greater or less extent, and when this occurs it is impossible for it to properly fulfil its office of removing all objectionable matter from the blood, but allows it to pass through, carrying with it the poisonous matter which should have been relieved. With Impure blood the whole system becomes deranged, and no organ can perform its proper functions. The Stomach is supplied with poor, weak blood (instead of strength, &c.) the liver becomes affected, the kidneys, bowels, &c. are clogged, and the whole machinery for the digestion of food is deranged.
