BREVITIES.

Alaska has 55,000 inhabitants.

There are 50,000 office-seekers in Washington.

Nearly 4,000 persons starved to death in London last year.

Illinois promises a very large peach crop.

Charles Welsey wrote about seven thousand hymns.

The London Times is to be made a two-penny paper.

St. Petersburg has been troubled with snow twelve feet deep.

Codfish skin, dried and ground, is the latest fertilizer.

"A tale of tart, eggs, love and jealousy," is running in a Cincinatti sheet.

Great Britain consumes upwards of $1,000,000,000 worth of intoxicating liquors annually.

The navy of the Sandwich Islands, it is said, consists of two fishing smacks and a raft.

Melbourne, Australia, though but thirty years old, has a quarter of a million of inhabitants.

A New Orleans Judge fined a lawyer because he presented a brief written on less than half a sheet of note paper.

The Grand Trunk railway of Canada lost $1,000,000 by snow interruptions in February.

The daily business of the gambling places in Helena, Montana, averages $250,000 in golddust and greenbacks.

Housekeepers should not use kerosene oil to light their kindling wood, as it is very dangerous.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company has constructed within the last year 545 miles of track.

There is an astronomer in Paris who exhibits the moon and the stars in the streets, with music and songs.

On the keystone of the arch under Solomon's Temple, the Masonic compass is found deeply cut in the stone.

The Queen of Hanover is a monomaniac on the subject of spiritualism, and declares that God appears to her every Friday.

Will asked an old "ten-per-cent." what he wanted to accumulate so much money for. Says he: "You can't take it with you when you die, and if you could it would melt."

A Vienna editor has been fined for publishing the following advertisement: "A young man of prepossessing appearance desires to get acquainted with a handsome married lady."

Austria prohibits the killing of singing birds altogether. Maine once passed a similar law and included the tuneful woodpecker among the protected birds.

A lady of Richmond Va., recently gave birth to twins, thirteen days elapsing between the births. Physicians speak of this as one of the most remarkable cases of this age.

The White House is to be adorned with works of art. Among them are full-sized Indian figures in bronze, beautiful statuettes of Washington and his hatchet, Franklin and his whistle, William Tell and his son, Napoleon at confirmation, Abraham Lincoln, and one representative freedman, by Rosetti.

A Madrid telegram says Don Carlos, the Pretender, has contracted a loan of nearly two million dollars, for the purpose of carrying on civil war on a large scale in Spain. The war will not, however, commence until the opening of spring, or as soon as the temperature will permit mountain warfare.

An animal, about two feet tall, shaped like a child, and with a human voice, but covered with a silvery gray hair six inches long, has been frequently seen in the woods near Unionville, Ky. It burrows in the earth, is very fleet of foot, and although several times pursued, has easily made its escape.

Whales are believed to live 1,000 years; elephants have been known to live 400; swans 300, ravens 130, and horses 52. The nine lives of a cat entitle it to last fifteen years. Hogs seldom reach 20, although a neighbor of ours, who was a "hog all his life," died a short time since at the advanced age of 95.—Ex.

An Ohio Congressman received a petition signed by three hundred names, asking the appointment of a female postmiss. Three days afterwards he had received twenty-five confidential letters from the signers informing them that she was not fit for the place, but they had not the courage to refuse to sign her papers. He declares he will have the appointment made.

The conductor of a night express train on the Vermont Central Railroad discovered a house in flames near the track, a few nights ago. He stopped the train, and awakened the inmates, three ladies, by a vigorous use of the locomotive whistle. Without this warning they would have been burned to death. The fire was extinguished by the train hands, assisted by a few of the passengers, who carried water from the tender in buckets.

To make fruit plentiful, a society in London contemplates planting fruit-trees in every hedge and on every highway in England, that every traveler and all the young ones may eat and be healthy. Their theory is, that for want of fruit in its season, the poor of England, and the middle class as well, are sensibly losing their constitutional vigor, and scrofula is alarmingly on the increase. The Ornithological Society, through similar public spirit, has stocked the waters of every public park in London with every variety of water fowl.
