His Cross Examination by Defense in Haywood Trial Is Finished.

CONSISTENT ALL THROUGH.

Aucupt to Show That He Was Coached Utterly Failed - McParland Says Testimony and Confession Agree.

Boise, Ida., June 13 .- The men who are battling to save the life of William D. Haywood and the good name of the Western Federation of Miners made their greatest assault upon Harry Orchard today when, carrying the review by cross-examination of his life of erime down to his oufession, they bitterity associed his guiding motives. Six days they spent in stipping him before the jury of every shred of morality or character, and then suddenly turning upon him in final florce attack they fought with every means known to the legal craft to convince the jury that Or-chard was committing a crime in fals-by swearing away the lives of funccent men. In the hope of saying his own. They carried their attack to the very language with which the witness an-swered their questions, and everywhere they alleged by forceful implication that it was put into his mouth by men controlling him. The series of quickly delivered at-tacks gave to the trial amid the scenes centering around the witness chair in Judge Wood's court a depth of dramm-tion thet situes a compelling buman interly assailed his guiding motives. Six centering around the witness char in Judge Wood's court a depth of drima-lie intensity, a compelling human in-terest that gripped and held every man and woman who watched and listened. Orchard failed when they recited to him the tale of King David and Uriah that Detective McPariand related to him when he came socking a confes-sion. He fought to save himself, but the toars filled his eyes and he rocked unevenly like a fainting woman. His voice lowered to huskiness and he hid his face in a handkerchief. Then he steadied himself and went on strongly to the end. He defended his motives by saying that he hed finally found the conversion and in penitehce had re-solved to make all possible reparation by freely confessing all. McParkand had told him that he was doing a great service for the state, and that states were kind to men who served them; there was no other promise.

Orchard is to return to the witness chair later because the defense must lay the formal lines for impeach-ing him, and the state must still have the redirect examination.

And here it was that Orchard gave a And here it was that Orchard gave a remarkable explanation of the motives that impelled him to confess. His voice fell to a low tone, but there was no other show of emotion. Complete si-lence gave every word to the entire room. "He was thrown into the next cell?" "No, sir," "Where was he?" "In the same cell with me." "He was put in with you, then " "Yes, sir." Orchard said he promised McParland and the penitentiary warden to do what he could to make Adams tell all he knew-to tell the truth. "I told Steve that I thought of mak-ing a confession, that he had better do the same thing-that the truth had to come out some day." "So after making your confession you

"Yes, sir." "And this was because of what Mc-Parland had told you?" "No, sir; I don't know that I had any

"No, sir; I don't know that I had any hope." When McPariand came to the peni-tentiary after the arrest of Adams, Or-chard told the detective he had done what he could to get Adams to tell the truth. Since Adams left the penitenti-ary Orchard said he had not been placed in a cell and had the freedom of the building and grounds. He insisted that McParland had made him no promise of immunity.

NO PROMISE MADE ORCHARD.

"He said he couldn't make me any promise," said Orchard, "and if he did he couldn't keep it. He said once he would have the prosecuting attorney come out and see me. I told him he needn't, for when I made up my mind to confess f would tell everything of my own free will." 'So McParland said he would send

MRS. SWAN CROSS-EXAMINED.

MRS. SWAN CROSS-EXAMINED. Atty. Clarence S. Darrow undertook the cross-examination of Mrs. Swan. He asked her if Mrs. Crow, the cook, whom Orchard is said to have taken to the theater, had been brought to Bolse. She said she didn't think she had been. She gave Mr. Darrow Mrs. Crow's ad-dress in San Francisco. Mrs. Swaz could not recall the day of the week the explosion occurred or the day of the bitter milk episode. The witness did not remember who was serving milk at the house at this time, but thought it might have been Mr Crook.

Mr Crook Mrs. Swan said she got the morning

Mrs. Swan said she got the morning paper from the f int door about 20 min-utes before the explosion occurred. The next witness called was O. Crook, the milkmain. Crook's name appeared on the witness list as "D. Crook," ac-cording to Atty. Richardson, who ob-jected to Crook's testimony being tak-en. The objection was overruled. Crook said he was called to the Bradley home. Nov. 16, 1904, on complaint that the milk that morning was bad and bitter. He took a quart of the milk to the city chemist of San Francisco. He ascer-tained from the chemist later what the trouble was. He was not allowed to say what the chemist told him. Crook said the Bradley milk was the only milk complained of on the morn-ing indicated. A motion to strike out Crook's testi-mony on the same errounds as used anony on the same grounds as urged against Mrs. Swan was also denied by Judge Wood. There was but a brief cross-examination. Next on the stand came P. L. Cleary

The usual motion to strike out the testimony as immaterial and not con-necting Haywood with the offense charged was denied. A few questions were put of cross-examination and as the witness was excussed court ad-journed until Friday at 9:30 a. m.
