EDITORIAL NOTE.

San Francisco put up, last year, the aggregate cost of which was about $3,000,000.

A Canada cheese factory has turned out a cheese weighing 7,000 pounds. Thirty-five tons of milk were used in its composition. "Good things are done up in small parcels."

New York city has passed an ordinance imposing a fine of ten dollars, or in default, imprisonment for ten days, for carrying concealed weapons without a permit. The permit can be obtained by respectable persons on showing to the police authorities that it is necessary for self-protection. But persons who are not respectable, keep on carrying concealed weapons, all the same.

Why is profanity that is inadmissible in respectable society permitted and tolerated on the stage? People who would be shocked at such language in a parlor, laugh and applaud it in the theatre. There is no more excuse for rendering to the profanity of theatrical authors than for allowing it to be frowned down in the street as well as in private.

Some ladies who were sitting engaged in sewing, on the second floor of a dwelling, in New York a few days ago, were "somewhat surprised" by hearing an explosion and the falling of some blasting in an adjacent lot, and damaged the house and furniture to the value of $1,500. The hole in the wall measured six feet by three feet. No one was hurt.

French butchers have adopted the Brunson system of slaughtering animals. It is a great improvement over the old methods. A butcher makes with an iron plate, 1 1/2 over the mid-forehead a strap and over the animal's face. In the centre of the plate is a round hole in which a bolt or spike is inserted. A smart blow with a wooden mallet drives the bolt into the brain and immediate death follows. A improvement on the bolt is a following of the lower and which enough air is conveyed to the brain to produce instantaneous insensibility. Painless death is produced in half a minute. The blinding renders a pitiful animal quiet, and a six pound mallet is of sufficient weight.

A celebrated physician explains the practice of round dancing, particularly the waltz, by young people, as conducing to a premature development of the system. After describing its effects, he says: "The effect of dancing in this respect may be altogether different when practiced in the home circle between members of the family, but even here there may be a danger in the young that is capable of an absorbing fascination, which soon seeks gratification in some public place. No greater misfortune can befall a boy or girl than to be subjected to such a seductive process. It causes them to become developed in advance of their age, and being naturally impetuous, they are easily led beyond the bounds of propriety and into vice."

The Supreme Court of North Carolina has recently decided a singular case. A man named Shaft was sentenced to six months imprisonment for marital infidelity. The term of the State penitentiary, the hiring out of prisoners, etc., after being in jail two months, he was hired out to his wife for five dollars a month, and was kept just before sunrise, being required by the land to return just after sunset, every evening. Complaint was made to the County Judge, who remanded Shaft to prison for the remainder of his term on the ground that the hiring was a practical evasion of the sentence. That the Supreme Court has decided that the County Commissioners had the right to decide the question of the hiring and that they probably intended to punish the culprit more by hiring him to the woman whom he had offended so grievously, than by keeping him in jail. The Court uttered this sentence with the utmost gravity, and the erring Shaft was sent home.

THE VETO.

The President of the United States in vetoing the bill to change the coinage of the silver dollar, and to restore its legal tender character, offers nothing new by way of argument to sustain his position. The subject has been fully discussed in both Houses, and the decision of Congress was the will of the great bulk of the people.

In identifying himself with the bondholders and gold speculators, Hayes has damaged his influence without accomplishing any good. The measure was called for by the public voice, it is strictly constitutional, it was thoroughly debated, and it was not crowded through Congress at the close of the session, but was passed with the thorough consideration of a large majority both of Senators and Representatives. The veto, then, was in bad taste, and worse judgment, for the veto is the expression of the certainty of the becoming a law, notwithstanding the opposition of the Executive.

In passing the bill over the veto the vote stood, in the House 184 to 73, and in the Senate 46 to 13, a slenderly in excess of the necessary two-thirds majority. It was done without debate or delay.

This Constitutional power possessed by Congress is a wise endowment and is strictly republican in its character. Contrast it with the despotic system forced upon the people of this Territory. Here, a Governor appointed without any regard to the wishes of the people, nominated by a President and confirmed by a Senate in whose election the people most interested by the appointment have no voice, can veto the Acts of the Legislative Assembly elected by popular suffrage, or destroy their labors during a whole session, by simply taking no notice of the bills they pass, and even the unanimous vote of both Houses of the Legislature would have no effect against the single voice of this one official. Indeed his silence is more potent than their united speech. And yet this is called "a republican form of government."

The power of absolute veto is in utter antagonism to the spirit of American institutions; it is a worse form of despotism than prevails in any constitutional monarchy. It is a country that professes to be the home of liberty, the asylum of the oppressed and the freest nation that the sun shines on. It should be swept away as a relic of tyranny and barbaric rule that ought never to have been imposed upon any section of the United States.

The Passage of the Silver Bill.

NEW YORK, 1.—The silver bill means the all important measure with to-day's papers. The journals generally praise the President for his courage in vetoing, and moderately deplore the action of Congress. The Herald says on the subject: The silver agitation has alarmed many prudent people here, and we happen to know, on the best authority, that the movement has been going on of capital, drawn out here and sent to Europe to be invested there. We do not know how considerable is the amount thus transferred and lost to productive industry here, but we have reason to believe that if the silver movement were to succeed it would startle thoughtful men.

There were 69 failures in this city in February. Aggregate liabilities $2,558,565; assets placed at $604,000. Yesterday the failure was announced of Whitlock & Anderson, importers and jobbers in woolen goods. Liabilities $175,000; assets $100,000.

The United States assay office here shipped $255,445 in silver bars to-day, to the Philadelphia mint.

The Paris Exposition. Commissioner-General McCormick says of the proposition that a delegation of American workmen visit the Paris Exposition, the spirit in which the French manufacturers extend the invitation and the advantages to be derived from the country cannot be too highly estimated.
