THE IRRIGATION CONGRESS PROGRAM

Gathering Will be the Most Important Ever Held for Arid Land Reclamation.

WARM WELCOME FOR VISITORS.

Conference Will be Honored by a Special Message on Irrigation From The President.

Ogden, Utah, Aug. 24.—The Eleventh National Irrigation Congress, convening at Ogden, Utah, Sept. 15-18, without question will be the most important convention ever held in America as to irrigation and forestry, and as to agriculture and horticulture under irrigation. It will be remarkably representative of the best thought and practical experience of the west.

The convention will begin its first session, (after an invocation), by the singing of the prize ode to irrigation, written by Mrs. Gilbert McClurg, of Colorado Springs, and sung by the Tabernacle choir of over 200 voices.

FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

The president of the United States has signally honored the National Irrigation Congress by a special message, pronouncing its work and aims as of vital concern to the nation. Members of President Roosevelt's cabinet endorse this congress, and a special message will be read to the delegates at the convention assembled, from Hon. E. A. Hitchcock, secretary of the interior; and the cabinet will be personally represented by Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, who will address the convention on questions of agriculture, of horticulture, and forestry, of the semi-arid region. The governor of Utah, the mayor of Ogden, and ex-Senator Frank J. Cannon, will welcome the delegates to Utah and to Ogden, and the president of the congress, Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, will have returned from Europe in season to preside over the deliberations of the convention and fittingly to respond to the words of "welcome and of God-speed uttered."

MEXICO WILL BE THERE.

Newell, chief of government irrigation surveys, and addresses will be delivered in this section of the program, of which Mr. Newell will act as chairman, by various engineers of the government, who will describe and report on the various irrigation works planned and completed as feasible for the future, and building by the federal government, under the reclamation law. Short (10 minute) addresses will be the general rule so as to permit lively discussion after each address.

SUBJECTS OF DISCUSSION.

In the department of irrigation investigations of the government at another session of the congress, short addresses will be presented by experts and scientists of prominent reputation, on "Irrigation Investigation," "Economic Phases of Irrigation," "Drainage Investigations," "The Value of the Study of the Duty of Water," and kindred topics. Among speakers in this section will be Dr. W. H. Beal and Clarence T. Johnson, Dr. Richard T. Ely, Prof. V. E. F. Smith, J. S. Haney, Prof. Samuel Fortier, C. G. Elliott and Thos. H. Means.

CONGRESSIONAL MOTTO.

One of the mottoes of the congress is that "Colonization is Progress," and it has been epigrammatically expressed, "Let us make an inland empire in America through irrigation and intensive cultivation of the soil, for land without population is a wilderness, population without land is a mob."

SALVATION ARMY LEADER.

Commander Frederick Booth-Tucker, the national leader of the Salvation Army, is coming from New York to attend the congress, and to speak on "Colonization," of which he has had valuable, practical experience. Mr. Wandland of Denver acts as chairman of this section of the program and will present a brilliant number of speakers composed of railroad presidents and prominent officials, governors, senators and congressmen, and prominent men of affairs well known throughout the west. "Colonization" will be the subject of the day.

There are to be important addresses given by the National Irrigation Law, its Adaptability to the Conditions and Needs of the Several States and Territories in which it is to be operated and its Relationship to the Local Laws and Customs. "On the Water Right, Its Functions and the Source of Water Supply; Its Relation to Water Users and How It Should be Managed to Effect the Greatest Possible Good." Another important topic will be "The Primary Needs of Present Day Irrigation and How They May be Provided."

The president of the American Forestry association, and the secretary of that organization, will attend the congress as will Mr. Tardif H. Bean, the chief of the department of forestry of the St. Louis universal exposition, and from the exposition will also be present Mr. Frederick W. Taylor, chief of agriculture.

When a doctor calls for certain ingredients in a prescription and the druggist substitutes some other drugs than those called for, then that pharmacist should be liable to incarceration in prison.
