Time and again he has shown himself to be a very clever and even sagicious beast. It is cruelly libelous to regard the pig as a stupid, brutal, gluttonous, and uncleanly quadruped, grovelling and repulsive in all its habits, and in-tractable and obstinate in temper. He may often seem to be endowed with these disagreeable attributes, because. The leaves to be employed are those of cabbage, turnip, lettucz or clover; a tablespoonful of Paris green is mixed with a pail of water and kept well stirred. In this the leaves are dipped and then distributed over the ground; or the leaves can be moistened and then dusted with Paris green mixed with the poison to twenty of flour. Two such applications, three or four days apart, will clear the field of cut-worms. these disagreeable attributes, because, as a rule, there is nothing in the life of

as a rule, there is nothing in the fife of a pig in his domesticated state to call for any exercise of his reasoning facul-tles. His sole business is to eat, drink, sleep, and get fat; all his wants are anticipated, and his mental horizon is bounded by the fence which guards his sty. Whep, however, it is the interest or whim of his possessor to teach the pig to fordle him, he can be without much difficulty converted into a doclle worms. The cabbage worm, Pierls rape, the common green worm that feeds on the leaves of the growing plants, can be easily destroyed, and at little cost by the use of bubach, or Persian Insect Powder, or a particular preparation of it which is sold in the trade under the name of Insect Exterminator. This is applied in the dry form, blown on with a bellows adapted to the purpose. The letter closed by begging me to ex-ercise my will to live in response to the supplications of the people of the whole State, who were praying for me night and day in every household. When I heard the letter read I prom-ised my sister that I would heed the kind, loving words of the man of God, and arouse my will to live.
