One of the principal objects in dispatching a British fleet to the Red Sea s to prevent the Mahdi and his followers from getting to Mecca. Over there he would doubtless proclaim himself to the Mohammedan world as the successor of Mohammed.

The Norristown Herald says: Victor Hugo, it is said, retires to his bedroom at 9 o'clock and walks up and down until midnight thinking about what he is to write next morning. If some of his readers were to retire to their bedroom at sunset and walk up and down the room until sunrise trying to under-stand what he has written about, they would not succeed.

What is commonly taken for fat is therefore largely wind.

An exchange truly says: "How many live a stingy and niggardly life with regard to their richest inward treasures! They live with those they love dearly, whom a few more words and deeds expressive of their love would make so much happier, richer, and better, and they cannot, will not alter and do them. People who in their very souls really do love, esteem, reverence, almost worship each other, live a barren, chilly life side by side, busy, anxious, preoccupied, letting their love go by as a matter of course, a last year's growth, with no present buds and Says the Evanston, Wyoming, Chieftain: "Josiah Eardley, of this city, I not wealthy, is indeed an exceptionally lucky man. He enlisted in the U. S. Army in Salt Lake City, Utah, on August 30th, 1862, and not until one day this week did he receive his papers mustering him out of the service. His discharge papers are dated January 16th, 1884, thus entitling him to pay of 16th, 1884, thus entitling him to pay of $13 per month for twenty-one years, and about six months, which amounts to the snug little sum of $3,354. Mr. E., it is proper to add, saw only a few months of active service, since which time he has been pursuing the even tenor of his way, ignorant of the accumulation of this handsome nest egg.

The copyright bil now before Congress merely provides that an author shall be defended in the possession of his property, just as any other owner shall require such person to subscribe of property is in his. If that property of property is in his. If that property is stolen all that this bill proposes is to serve the thief as a chicken-stealer or a horse-stealer is served. Certain publishers ask to be protected against this bill. Their petition or request is simply one to protect them in theft. In the case of any other property they would not dare to ask for such protection. Then let this bill stand upon its merits, chief among which are that it is a bill for the suppression of downright robbery.

A lynching case occurred at Tombstone, Arizona, on Friday last, the victim being John Heith, who. 24 hours previous had been convicted of being accessory to the murder of four persons at Bisbee, Arizona. He was taken from the jall by a committee of vigilantes and hung from a telegraph pole. After the body was cut down an inquest was held, the jury returning the following peculiar verdict:—"We the jury of inquest duly impaneled and sworn by the Coroner of Cochise county to inquire whose body was submited to our inspection, when, where, and by what means it came to death, after viewing the body and hearing such testimony as has been brought us, find that his name was Heith, his age 32 years, that he was a native of Texas, and that his death occurred in Tombstone, February 22, 1884, from the effects of emphysema, which might have been caused by strangulation, self-inflicted or otherwise, as in accordance with medical evidence." A placard was placed on the telegraph pole on party which was in the majority at the lowing inscription: 'John Helth was | political party that was in the minority hanged to this pole by the citizens of at the last previous election, if any Cochise county for participation in the Bisbee massacre, in which he was proved accessory, at 8.20 a. m., February 22, 1884, Washington's Birthday, to and altogether the new bill is a step advance Arizona."

THE PROPOSED ELECTION

COUNCIL File No. 33, which has passed the Council and has been reported to the House, recommending its passage by the Committee on Elections, is a bill prescribing qualifications for electors and office holders, providing for the registration of voters and regulating the manner of conducting elections. The necessity for its enactment arises from certain provisions of the Act of Congress known as the Ed-munds law. That law vacated all the egistration and election offices in this Territory, provided for their temporary occupation by persons appointed by the Utah Commission, and left it to the Legislature of this Territory to make provisions to supersede the ap-pointments of that Commission. The Edmunds law also established a new qualification for voters and office hold-

The Registration Act passed at the ession of 1878 was as good an election lew as could be found in any statute book. It protected the citizens in the lawful exercise of their privileges as voters, and preserved the purity of the ballot box, the secrecy of the ballot and the rights of candidates and opposing parties. Wherein that law could be improved, changes have been made in the new bill, and provisions have been incorporated to harmonize with the Edmunds Act. But the main features of the law of 1878 have been necessarily retained, and parts of other existing laws pertaining to elections have been embodied in the present measure, so as to cover all the ground in one enactment.

The chief changes that have been made in the bill are as follows:

Section eight provides that, "No person shall be eligible to be elected or appointed to any territorial, district, county, or precinct office, nor shall hold any office of public trust, honor, or emolument in this Territory, unless he is qualified to register as a voter, and shall have been a resident in this Territory during at least one year next preceding such election or appointment."

Sections ten to twelve provide as

Sec. 10. Every person; male or fe-male, over the age of twenty-one years, who is a citizen of the United States, or who has declared on oath before a competent court of record, his or her intention to become such, and taken an oath to support the Constitution and Government of the United States; who has been a resident in ed States; who has been a resident in the Territory six months, and a resident of the precinct where his or her vote is to be cast, for thirty days prior to the date of registration, who has not been convicted of felony or treason, and is not idlotic or insane, or otherwise disqualified as a voter by any law of the United States or of this Territory, and who has been or may be registered as hereinafter provided, shall be a qualified elector, and entitled to vote at any election in this Territory.

are required to appoint a resident deputy in each precinct to assist in carrying out the provisions of this Act. The assessor of each county in person or by deputy, shall hereafter revise and correct the registration lists of voters it the times and in the manner provided in this Act, and if any person whose name is not on the list of voters

In case the name of any person claiming the right to vote, is erased from the registration list of his precinct under the next Section, the name of such person shall be restored to said list, by the registration officer, at any time prior to or during the week commencing the last Monday in June of each year, upon such person taking the foregoing oath, and if such person offers to take said oath it shall be the duty of such registration officer to administer it, and restore the name of such person and restore the name of such person as aforesaid; and after the week commencing the last Monday in June in each year, it shall be unlawful for any registration officer to erase the mane of any person from the registration

The construction of the old law is improved in several minor particulars, sity for any persons being misled by such statements, however, as "the proof of the pudding is in the eating." As a contra statement to that which has been industriously circulated we will express the conviction that the practical test of using the flour proluced at the new mill will dispel all idea of its inferiority. Having used it we are enabled to say unhesitatingly that it is not surpassed by any flour we have ever met with either here or in any other part of the world. It is only a question of time when this fact will be generally admitted, as the reputation of the product is bound to grow on its intrinsic merits. In fact it is now growing, new ground being gained dally, but the reports which have been spread to the detriment of the enterprise make its progress less rapid than might be reasonably expected. We have said so much for this enterprise, which is a credit to this part of the country, because we are cognizant of the fact that it has not been treated in accordance with the principles of

A LESSON DERIVED. THE circumstances connected with the White-Steed case at Farmington, are still more or less fresh upon the public mind. The verdict of the jury in acquitting Mr. Steed, charged with shooting and wounding, with intent to kill, the seducer of his wife will be generally endorsed by the public. The act was done under circumstances of the strongest aggravation, including, besides the violation of the purity of his marriage bed, threats by White to take his life on sight.

The whole case should teach a potent lesson to people liable to be tempted to take tramps or other doubtful characters into the bosoms of their families, exposing the latter to a fearful danger from which they should be vigilantly shielded by those whose duty it is to cherish and shelter them. No inducement should be sufficiently strong to lead men to commit such an egregious error. It may be done because tramplabor can be occasionally obtained cheaper than that performed by more rellable people, but, as in the case of Mr. Steed, what a terrible price is sometimes paid for it after all. Nothing can place a family into which such a fearful inroad has been made, upon their former footing.

Even the promptings of benevolence should not induce men to take people of doubtful character into the bosom of their families. If they are disposed to render assistance to distressed humanity the aid they tender should take some less confidential form than that,

THROWING bread on the waters is good business, but a Texas woman has found another place to throw biscuit. Mrs. McCov fixed some poisoned biscuit for a woman whom she suspected as her husband's mistress. The mistress, however, was generous enough to divide the tempting morsel between Mrs. McCoy's two children, one of whom died.
