Gold pen lost; see advt.

John Jones was up from Provo today.

MARSHAL DRY has not yet returned from Washington, but may reach home tonight.

The Fourth Quorum of Seventies met tonight in the Twenty-first Ward meeting house, at half past 7 o'clock.

CHIEF JUSTICE SANDFORD has returned from his eastern trip, and occupied the bench of the Third District Court today.

W. H. BENNETT has been elected City Marshal of Park City. Mr. Bennett has served that city well for some time as policeman.

The benefit concert in aid of St. Mary's Church, which will be given in the Theatre on Monday night, the 15th inst. A fine vocal and instrumental programme has been arranged for the occasion.

AN aged lady, who is somewhat demoralized by the loss of her friends about 7:30 last night and has not been seen since. She had on a black hat, red skirt, and shoes. Anyone learning of her whereabouts will confer a favor by reporting to No. 21 W. Third South Street, or to the City Hall.

THERE was a narrow escape from fire on Saturday night, during the time of the parade, in the Goode, Co.'s drug store. Chief Engineer O'Connell, who was passing in the vicinity, and noticing an unusual smoke, investigated. He found that some chemicals which had been stored under the stairs, had become overheated. The flames were quickly extinguished. Had the fire gained headway at such a time the consequences might have been disastrous.

No Cessation.

The enforcement of the Edmunds law is still crowded to its utmost in the prosecution of "Mormons" suspected of having more wives than one. On Thursday night another raid was made at Lehi, Utah County, and three persons were arrested and required to give bonds to await trial on the charge of unlawful cohabitation. Those taken into custody were Isaac W. Fox, Michael Vaughan and James Swain.

Funeral Services.

The funeral obsequies of the late Elder Vincent M. Bugmore were held at the St. Charles meeting-house last Monday, commencing at 11:30 a.m. The house was crowded with a sympathetic and attentive audience, and every evidence was manifested of the high respect and esteem in which our lamented brother was held by the community. Appropriate addresses were made by James H. Hart and others, who bore testimony to the integrity and excellent qualities of Brother Vincent. A very large concourse of people and a long line of vehicles followed the remains to the grave. —Southern Idaho Independent.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral service over the remains of the late Sister Mary Ann Timms, was conducted at the First Ward meeting-house yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large congregation. The opening prayer was offered by Elder M. S. Woodley. The speakers were Elders Wm. Wheeler, H. J. Fowler and Bishop William L. N. Allen. The benediction was pronounced by Elder D. L. Davis.

The deceased had been identified with the Church for many years, and was well and favorably known by many of the Elders who labored in the Birmingham Conference, she having been noted for her kindness of heart and her hospitality.

Murder in Elkhorn.

Scant news has been received at Butte of a murder which took place at Elkhorn Tuesday night in a dispute over the election. The name of the murdered man is not learned but the murderer is one Fred Van Eyck. The row started in a saloon about 10 o'clock at night, when Van Eyck drew out a pistol, and shot his opponent in the bowels, and he died shortly afterwards. The murderer has fled, but a posse is in pursuit. It is not known what direction he took. The telegraph is being diligently used in sending his description throughout the territory. He is light complexioned, about 30 years of age, and weighs about 150 pounds; height about 5 feet 10 inches. Part of one finger is cut off. The posse for him is being actively made, and it is probable that he will be captured. —Butte Inter-Mountain, Nov. 6.

Police Items.

Wm. Burton, a well-known sporting character, got drunk on Sunday evening, and was arrested. He was fined $10 this morning.

In the Police Court today Thomas McGeech was fined $10 for getting drunk and using profane language. Another individual answered to the same charges and was assessed a similar amount. He refused to give his name.

John Brown, for having been drunk, paid $10.

W. H. Brady and J. Wittenberg were fined $5 each for having been drunk.

Dan Kennedy was also assessed $5 for having been intoxicated. As soon as the judgment was passed, his wife, who was in court, exclaimed: "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, a man of your age, to be drunk." The court looked up, when the lady exclaimed: "Oh, I can hardly keep a'll, and burst into tears. She has had a pretty hard time of it with a drunken husband."

Mrs. Jackson, aged about 70 years, was brought in for being drunk. The Court inquired whether she had any home or friends, and ascertained that she had neither. Of late she has been sleeping in chicken coops and stables. He told her that she would be kept in the City Jail for ten days. At this she remarked, "Little enough, I'm better here than anywhere I've been. I'm thankful to get here." The court directed the marshal to call the attention of the county officials to the matter, with a view to having Mrs. Jackson placed in the infirmary.

THE JOLLIFICATION.

Scenes at the Demonstration on Saturday Evening.

Never before has Salt Lake City witnessed a scene like that at the republican jubilation on Saturday evening. When the democrats gained victory that placed Grover Cleveland in the White House, four years ago, the demonstration was entered into in this city by a much greater proportion of the population than was the case last evening, but for the "howling" portion, the event of Saturday evening eclipses all else; yet, as a prominent politician remarked, "as compared to cities in the east, this is nothing—this is as a baby whirlwind compared to a terrible cyclone."

During the day many business houses, private residences, hotels, etc., had been beautifully decorated with the national colors; Chinese lanterns and other means of illumination were plentifully provided, of transparencies and banners bearing various legends and devices there was a plentiful supply; till births were gathered in from every source; the block of fireworks in the city was heavily drawn upon; and huge piles of bonfires were stacked for bonfires at each corner of the block on which the Opera House is situated.

A very few minutes after 7 o'clock, the proceedings of the evening commenced by the lighting of the bonfires. The crowds began to assemble, and half an hour later, the time for the parade to commence, there were probably 10,000 people on the streets. The procession formed, in conformity with the previous arrangement, in front of the Opera House, and headed westward; it turned northward along West Temple to First South, then east to East Temple, along which street it led to Second South, and then turned into the Opera House. The procession itself was about a quarter of a mile long, nearly all of those participating in it being on foot.

The lighting of the bonfires was the signal for a general illumination, the inauguration of a pandemonium such as has never before been witnessed in Salt Lake. Red fire, rockets, bombs, etc., were seen and heard on every hand. Along the streets, crowding their way through the multitude, were gangs of hoodlums, who with their shouting, their blowing of trumpets, clanging of bells, and beating of tin cans, created a deafening tumult. The procession itself presented a ludicrous sight, while many of those engaged in it added in increasing the fearful din.

Probably one-fourth of those in line carried torches or banners, and presented from a distance a pleasing appearance. Most of the remainder had horns, bells, or some other article with which to make a noise. As the column moved along the street the uproar was terrific. Shouting, swearing, singing, cheering, playing of bands, blowing of drums, blowing of horns, ringing of bells, bursting of bombs, howling, screaming, whistling—all were combined in the maddest throng, and the demon of confusion held high carnival, while thousands of people looked on in amazement at the change wrought in our hitherto peaceful town. It seemed as though a spirit was rampant which caused those who took part in the affair to lose all control of themselves and to join in the effort to augment the general uproar. Fancy, for a moment, a staid man of business, with a flaming torch in one hand, a flag in the other, and on the back of his head, yelling and screaming at the top of his voice, and he is the next moment a half-drunken ruffian; or a talented lawyer, with torch and long hair, and later being brought into almost continuous regulation, except when his manipulations are directed to give vent to yell or cheer. Yet such scenes were the rule rather than the exception.

The latter end of the procession may have been made up from respectable folks, but the demonstration was in every respect one of hoodlums.

In the Opera House, which was nicely festooned and decorated, the tumult was simply terrific, though there was a sufficient lull to hear the speakers the greater portion of the time. Those who were present were in every respect one of hoodlums.

The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That on the election of the gallant soldier and accomplished statesman, Benjamin Harrison, as President, and that experienced legislator and noble-hearted citizen, Levi P. Morton as Vice-President, the republican party has restored itself to the control of national affairs by the selection of leaders who are an honor to their party, and at the same time a credit to the whole country.

Second—That while as republicans we rejoice in the success of our party and in the triumph of its principles, and congratulate the country and ourselves upon our glorious success, we are citizens of the United States, and we have special reasons for joy at the result of this election. We have had grave fears that the re-election of Grover Cleveland would perpetuate the power of the Mormon hierarchy and the escape from that danger gives to this victory the most exquisite satisfaction.

Third—That as republicans we are proud of our party, of its history, and achievements. Proud of its standard-bearers, and its leaders, and proud of the next four years, and express with all reason our faith and confidence that under their guidance the nation will advance and prosper, Utah be reformed and redeemed.

It was a late hour when the assembly separated, and later still when the streets were cleared and quiet restored.

AT OGDEN there was a smaller edition of the scene in Salt Lake. The Mormons were greatly well left alone there, and the participants in the festivities expressed their feelings in speeches, music, illuminations, etc.

LOGAN AND BRIGHAM also indulged in bonfires and similar accompaniments to those had in this city, but of course to but a limited degree.
