WEDDING BELLS

The wedding of Miss Grace Jacobs and Lieutenant Sherman A. White on Tuesday was a charming affair, the details being in perfect taste, and a large number being present at the reception which followed the ceremony. The drawing-room, in which the service took place was beautifully decorated. American flags, carnations and ferns being effectively used. The bride party stood under a canopy of asparagus fern, with a great bell of white carnations hanging overhead, and palms forming a pretty background. The library was done in white and green and the staircase was twined with vines and flowers. In the dining room pink was used, carnations and pink shaded lights adorning the seven tables from which refreshments were served.

At 8:30 the bride entered on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Lohengrin march, and was met by the groom and his best man, Lieut. Harbison, the ceremony being performed by Dr. W. A. Paden, while the orchestra played "Cavalleria Rusticana" with the Mendelssohn march following. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white chiffon with trimmings of duchesse lace and a long veil of white tulle and a bouquet of bride's roses completed the toilet. She was unattended. Lieut. and Mrs. White left on the midnight train for San Francisco, whence they will sail tomorrow for the Philippines.

Another interesting wedding of Tuesday was that of Miss Maud Lewis and Mr. J. L. Craig, the event taking place at the home of the bride's mother, at 4 o'clock. The rooms were prettily decorated, and after the ceremony, which was performed by Bishop O. F. Whitney, a wedding supper was served, only the family and intimate friends being present. The bride wore a handsome going away gown. She was attended by her sister, Miss Laura Lewis. Later the newly married pair left for a short wedding trip, after which they will be at home at the Cullen hotel.

SOCIAL CHAT

The leading event of the week, and indeed of the past season, was the birthday breakfast given yesterday by the Ladies' Literary club. The prominence of the club, the number of invitations, and the elaborate preparations all combined to awaken exceptional interest in the affair, and the occasion proved that anticipation in this case at least had not overstepped fact. The audience hall was a picture with its decorations and artistically arranged tables, and when the beautifully costumed guests were seated the effect was all that could be desired. Baskets of flowers, trailing ropes of vines, and bunches of roses, chrysanthemums and carnations adorned the tables and a background of palms about the hall made all artistic. The club numbers among its members some of the brilliant women of the city, and in the bright lights at the table, as well as in the finely arranged details of the whole, new laurels were added to the reputation of the club. The entire affair was a genuine social, intellectual and artistic success and will be long remembered.

Mrs. A. J. Gorham was hostess at a pretty luncheon on Wednesday in hon-
