FRAGMENTS.

Home Missionaries will visit the city to-morrow evening.

Capt. Boyton will give another exhibition at Garfield this evening.

The Fourth Quartet of Seventies will meet as usual on Monday evening next.

The engagement of George C. Min in the Theatre closes this evening with "Othello."

J. M. Porter, for drunkenness and profanity, was fined $10 in the police court this morning.

The Sixteenth Quartet of Seventies will meet in the First Ward assembly hall on Monday evening, June 14, at 7:30 o'clock.

Thomas McCoy was in the police court to-day, and pleaded guilty to fast driving in Liberty Park. A fine of $2.00 was inflicted.

Thomas Fisher was fined $5 this morning for being drunk. He is about four score, and has been reduced to a pitiable condition by drink.

John Becitrol was arrested yesterday for fast driving in Liberty Park. He pleaded guilty, and sentence was suspended "during good behavior."

Two arrests were made in Provo this morning. David John and E. Peay, Thems, with a host of witnesses, will be brought to this city on this evening's D. & R. G. W. train.

James Kearney was found drunk this morning in an alleyway. When the police saw him he was lying against a wall, and in one hand he held a $10 gold piece. In his pockets were found $18.45 in cash.

A large number of the fine cattle belonging to Messrs. Davidson and Farns, are still on exhibition and sale at the Tithing yard. They are beautiful. Those who desire to see superior specimens of bovines, should not fail to take a look at them.

Religious services of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will be held in the Tabernacle to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock. Services to be conducted in the City Hall at 10 a. m., and in Scandinavia in the Social Hall at the same hour to-morrow.

The Ninth District school closed yesterday, for the summer vacation, and the children spent the day at Liberty Park. The efficient teacher of the school, Mr. A. M. Woolley, was the recipient from the pupils, of an elegant inkstand and paper holder, in token of the high esteem in which he is held.

A couple of schools visited Liberty Park yesterday. A refreshment vendor sold one of his vessels uncovered for a few moments, when a small dog began lapping the ice cream, and stretching too far fell in. The proprietor pulled the dog out of the cream and went on disposing of it as though nothing had happened.

Charles Martinez, a boy about thirteen years of age, who was sentenced a couple of months ago for petty larceny, was brought into the police court for trial to-day, charged with stealing some under-clothing. On the 8th of May last, Martinez broke out of jail and stole the clothing, which was found in his possession when he was arrested the same day. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and assured the court that in future he would work for an honest living. Sentence was suspended until Monday next.

Thomas Morris was arraigned in the police court this morning, on a charge of drunkenness. In reply to the question of the court, as to his plea of guilty or not guilty, Gomer said, "Well, speaking confidentially, I don't think I was drunk." The trial was set for 2 p. m. to-day, but Morris, after conferring for a few minutes, remarked, "Mr. Judge, please withdraw my plea of not guilty. I am guilty." A fine of $5 was imposed. Nash had four horses in his charge last night, but lost them for his beer. The proceeds of the streets by the police and returned to him this morning.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Young Case.—At 10 o'clock this morning the witnesses ordered to be present for the preliminary examination of Dr. Young assembled at Commissioner McKim's office. As there was no defendant present, all of the witnesses were excused, having received instructions to appear before the grand jury on August 4th.

A Sad Errand.—Our old friend Brother Joseph Hall is in town, having come down from the north on a errand. He brought with him the remains of his niece, Miss Alice Jane Hall, for interment in the Salt Lake City Cemetery. The deceased was not quite fifteen years old.

Several years since she met with an accident by falling from a wagon, which at the time injured her body severely; and although she recovered, she never was strong physically afterwards. She has more than once been reduced to the verge of death, but through her strong faith in the ordinances of the Church for the healing of the sick, her life was preserved until it seemed both wise and merciful to her heavenly Father to relieve her from severe afflictions and take her to himself. She was a member of the 13th Ward Sabbath School, where she won and retained to the last the affection of the superintendent, teachers and pupils, as also the Bishopric and officers of the Ward. She was a bright, intelligent young lady. Her numerous friends regret her early demise, but still are grateful that kind Providence has put a period to her sufferings.

Crops North.—We learn from a gentleman just in from that quarter that the crops in several of the counties north of here are looking much better generally than he had anticipated considering the drought. The dry farms in some parts of Davis and Weber are quite promising, while in others they are stunted or burned up. An early shower of good rain would revive and save some of the grain which is now suffering for want of water. The crops in Weber Valley are reported in excellent condition and promise good yields.

Last Evening's Performance.—A full-sized audience greeted Mr. Min at the Salt Lake Theatre last evening, to witness his impersonation of Bertuccio—the fool in Tom Taylor's great tragedy—"The Fool's Revenge." The plot of the play is thrilling, and although somewhat mysterious in the first act, it develops in interest as the play progresses.

Mr. Min's character is not a pleasing one, the make-up is hideous and the manner anything but attractive. The fool's thirst for revenge upon the man who wrecked the happiness of his life, and his diabolical scheming to blight the virtue of a young and unoffending woman to satisfy his vindictiveness, were portrayed so truthfully as to be hateful. His devilish plot at the supposed accomplishment of his purpose, when he had but compassed the ruin of his own daughter, was a wonderful illustration of the weakness and shortsightedness of man. And the final denouement involving the death of the arch-conspirator, thoroughly aroused the audience, to an appreciation of the star's talent. Notwithstanding Mr. Min is a preacher-actor, and his pulpit delivery is sometimes plainly apparent, he certainly possesses dramatic ability. His dying act was excellent, and brought vividly to the mind the possibility of man's hastening to the end—the real death of an actor in the overwrought excitement of such a portrayal. He reminded us of Nell Warner in the death scene of Sir Giles Overreach, and the character lacks only in the loss of reason to duplicate that wonderful performance.

Mr. Min's support as far as the characters in the hands of Miss Jordan and Mr. Lloyd were concerned, was very good. The young lady as the daughter of Bertuccio, and especially in the scene with the poet was quite attractive, in fact her part elicited sympathy and admiration whenever she appeared. The gentleman who assumed the character of the poet, however seemed to be wool-gathering, but his defects were more noticeable than those of others, because of the importance of the character, and his opportunities to shine, which we are sorry to say were almost entirely lost. Some of his best lines were slaughtered by his hesitating manner; and one of the star's greatest scenes was nearly ruined by the loud prompting of the poet at the most trying moment.

This character and that of Florida are the only attractive ones in the play. The others illustrate vice in nearly all its various forms—licentiousness, pride, cruelty, oppression, jealousy, deception, vindictiveness, violence, treachery and murder. The most beautiful sentiment uttered in the play was by Florida: "Father, remember revenge is not man's prerogative," and the play was evidently written to forcibly impress this great truth upon the public mind.

This afternoon Richell was presented, and this evening Mr. Min gives his great conception of Othello, which will close the engagement.

"Travels in Mexico."—This is the title of a very interesting volume of nearly 700 pages, recently issued by Estes & Lauriat, of Boston, Frederick A. Ober being the author. The work is in three divisions. Yucatan, Central and Southern Mexico, and the border States. It is written in an attractive and easy style, from the standpoint of personal observation, showing Mexico as it is, "with all its imperfections," and including nearly every topic of interest—people, customs, historical references, antiquities, productions and material resources of our southern neighbor. The state of Yucatan, of which the city Merida is the capital is peopled mostly by the Maya Indians, or Yucatecos. Comparatively little is known of these people, of whom the author says: "They are a gentle, docile race, loving pleasure, not always avoiding labor, cleanly in habit, perfectly honest, humble, never impudent, but always reliable; and a dirty one is indeed a phenomenon. No people in the world are pleasanter, or possessed of more delightful manners than the Yucatecos, and they might be taken as models to be studied with advantage." In Yucatan are to be found some of the strongest and indisputable evidences of a former high state of civilization in America, among the most magnificent ruins being those of Uxmal, Mayapan, Ake, Chichen-Itza, Kabah and Labna, besides scores of others of less importance. Of the origin and history of the inhabitants of this region Mr. Ober says: "The most ancient traditions seem to point to two distinct immigrations into the peninsula; but it is usually conceded that there existed in that portion of Central America where Yucatan, Guatemala and Southern Mexico came together, a great and potent theocratic empire. This was in age past. Successive immigrations, from the north and from the south, have swept over it, and all its distinctive race individuality of the people who lived there has been obliterated."

The second part contains a sketch of the vast group of ruins at Chichen, the grandest in Mexico. Among these remarkable ruins can be traced out immense buildings, some of which have been named by modern discoverers, as the Temple of the Three Tablets, the Palace, Temple of the Bean Stalks, Temple of the Sun and the Cross, Rained Pyramids, etc., the description of which in itself makes an interesting volume. The City of Mexico and surrounding country, its productiveness and history, are ably treated.

The third part relates to the states bordering on the United States, and the tribes inhabiting them. The whole volume is of interest and value to the student of history. It can be obtained of J. H. Parry & Co., Salt Lake City.

A Near Operation.—A few months ago Mr. Lorrans, of Coalville, Summit County, came to the Desert Hotel for treatment. Some years ago, while working in a coal mine, one of his eyes was injured with a pick. It grew gradually worse, and notwithstanding medical attendance, he became practically blind. In this condition Dr. Lorrans came to the hotel, and after treating him at the hospital, succeeded in making a new pupil for the eye, and restoring to a great extent, the sight of the unfortunate man. From being so blind that he had to be led around he is so far recovered that with the aid of a pair of glasses he can now read, and can make his way about with comparative little difficulty.

Off to Calder's.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning, the chief thoroughfare of the city was clogged by strains of music from Olsen's band, which headed a long string of vehicles, nearly all of which were drawn each by four spanking horses. They were filled with the employees of Z. C. M. I. shoe factory, who were just starting for Spring Lake Gardens, (Calder's) where they purpose spending the day. The company made quite a procession, being probably the largest party ever turned out of one establishment in this city. Manager Olsen, with members of his family, were in the line of march. The company appeared to be in high spirits.

ARRESTS AT PROVO.

DAVID JOHN AND E. PEAY THE VICTIMS.

Provo, June 12, 1886.
David John was arrested at 6:30 a. m. this date, by Deputy Marshal T. J. Smith, on the usual charge. Mr. Smith acted very gentlemanly and Mr. John took it perfectly cool. The latter is in charge of the former, and will appear before the U. S. Commissioner at Salt Lake City this afternoon. Mr. E. Peay was also arrested by Mr. Smith and Mr. Redfield.

PROVO JOYS.

Our promised storm has not arrived, consequently everything is nearly dried up except that which can be watered by artificial means.

Our weather prophets told us that on June 9th or before a heavy frost would come, destroying everything in the garden not provided against its encroachment. Great many accepted the statement and prepared, but their pains were thrown away as "Jack Frost" didn't come.

On Monday last Brother Myron Tanner, of the Bishop's Ward, was the recipient of a pleasant surprise party in the Assembly Rooms, it being the only anniversary of his birthday. Having been invited by Brother Albert Singleton to take a ride, he, passing through the house, noticed a crowd. He asked what it meant; Brother S. replied, "Let us go and see," which they did.

The Bishop was presented with an elegant cushioned chair and a beautiful birthday cake. About one hundred people participated. The chief conspirators were Mrs. Jennie Tanner (his daughter-in-law) and Mrs. Wilhelmina White, president of the Y. L. M. A.

Our farmers are busy cutting lucern, of which they find an extra heavy crop this year.

R. S. Hines is building a fine brick structure on the corner of the Kinsey block, with an iron front, all the material of which is manufactured here, including the lumber, brick and iron work. The latter is furnished by the Vulcan Iron Works, who make a specialty of iron bridges and iron work. The structure is for the stores of Peter Stubbs, Mrs. Bee, and Mrs. E. Horton. We feel assured proud of our manufacturing facilities.

Provo, June 11, 1886.

On Sale.—J. H. Ward's "Ballads of Life," named a few days ago in a review written by H. W. Nalebuff, is completed and on sale. We can add nothing to what the reviewer mentioned. It is a house of literature, a work of considerable merit, embracing a wide diversity of themes, and great variety of versification. We commend it to the favorable consideration of our readers.

Its Usual Course.—When Mr. Win. Felstead, a gentleman over 72 years of age, was arrested in the First Ward the other day, on a charge of having more than one wife, the children of the household alleged that his wife was mother and daughter. This assertion was made the foundation of the most scurrilous abuse of the aged man, against whom the most heinous crimes were charged. As a matter of fact, the wife referred to, Anna Almgren and Anna Mathilda Petersen, bear no such relationship to each other, the story being a lie out of whole cloth, gotten up for the basest of purposes.

Of Interest to Old Folks.—We are enabled to announce that arrangements are perfected for another Old Folks' Excursion. Bishop Wm. M. Bromley of American Fork, has tendered, on behalf of the people there, an invitation to the old folks to visit them, and offers every facility to make their visit agreeable. The time proposed for the excursion is June 24th, via the Utah Central. Full particulars will be given next week.

The invitation will be as before, age being the requisite qualification entitling persons to participate. All sects and parties are counted in, neither race faith nor color being a consideration. All people seventy years old are welcome.

The customary annual treat to the aged should not be forgotten. Too much cannot be done for those approaching the autumn of life. The committee in charge will be around among our citizens for solid sympathy before the event transpires. They are also ready to receive unsolicited assistance from any one.

The Suit for the Office.—The question of the right to the Territorial offices of treasurer and auditor came up on appeal in the Supreme Court to-day. District Attorney Dickson and Mr. L. Williams appeared for Messrs. Roberts and Pratt, ex-Governor Murray's appointees. Messrs. Clayton and Jack, the choice of the people, were represented by J. G. Stepien and Arthur Brown. Le Grande Young and E. S. Richards, Judge Sutherland made the opening argument, and insisted that if a vital part of the law was unconstitutional, those provisions depending on the illegal part were also invalid. A special pleading should not be made to convert the law in this case, but the customary rule, which had been followed by the Supreme Court in other cases, should be followed, and the act be construed according to the intent of the Legislature. There could be no doubt in relation to these offices, that in creating them the Legislature intended to prescribe the manner in which they should be filled, and it was equally certain that if they were so created, the latter power, the Legislature would not have created the offices. There was, then, no question as to the intent of the law-makers, and it would be inconsistent for the Court to give another construction to the statute, and apply a part in direct opposition to the intent of the legislative body that enacted it. The arguments in the case will probably consume considerably time.

The 10th quorum of Seventies will convene on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. J. W. EARDLEY, Secy.

SIXTY-FIVE carloads of cattle, will arrive in this city this evening, from the south, over the Utah Central. They are destined for points along the Union Pacific.

A XANGO woman was tried in the police court this afternoon, on a charge of vagrancy. Attorneys Fletcher and Gee, for the defendant, demanded a jury trial, and twelve men were selected. The prosecution made out as strong a case against the woman as they did against Miller, the "resortor" who was acquitted, but the jury in this case had not given a verdict when we went to press.
