

BUTTERFLY LIFE
TRANS ALIENY

Society Matron Finds Herself in Court Accounting for Her Spendings.

ONE MAN IN THE BIG CROWD.

Edward Pidge Has No Idea Where His Wife is Now and He is Again in Eligible Class.

After Mrs. Austin Davis, formerly Mrs. Anna Dunlap, a young society matron, confessed yesterday in divorce matters that she had spent considerable money giving theater parties and dinner parties in downtown cafes, Judge Morse modified the decree and issued stringent orders in her case. He not only reduced the alimony to $12.50 a month but ordered her to make an accounting each month to the court.

When it was intimated by Atty. Will that she was carrying on a butterfly life at the expense of her former husband, it aroused her dignity. It was shown, however, that she entertained extensively and used money secured from property to the extent of $100,000. The property involved consists of a lot improved by a modern cottage which is valued at $3,000. The transfer was made by Mrs. Davis for $300 cash and $1,500 in certain payments on the mortgage that she would assume the $1,000 mortgage on the place. It was this $300 that got Mrs. Austin into court and part of which she admitted she spent to keep up her social engagements.

The question of title to the property will be heard in a separate trial in the district court in an effort to straighten out the tangle. The matter was brought before the court on a motion to modify the decree. Mrs. Davis was granted a divorce decree. Mrs. Davis was granted a decree from Dunlap to pay her $100 a month for the custody of her two sons and $25 a month alimony besides the house and lot which was to revert to her sons. She was married about two years ago to Mr. Davis. Mrs. Davis is a young and handsome woman. She was stylishly dressed when she appeared in court and was accompanied by her attorney.

FIRST ROUND FOR GEISLER.

With a scratch on his nose, a discolored eye and a soiled shirt, Louis Geisler, a contractor, appeared in court yesterday and looked a fit picture for his wife's private hospital which she is conducting in their residence. He was arraigned before Judge Morse to show why he should not pay temporary alimony to his wife, who seeks a divorce on the grounds of cruelty. After listening to the testimony the court decided that Mrs. Geisler was better able to take care of herself than her husband, both physically and financially. Although he was discharged on the order to show cause a restraining order was granted prohibiting him from disposing of the property, valued at $5,000.

From all appearances, their domestic trouble started over a laundry bill amounting to 30 cents. For some years they have had differences but the real hostilities did not break out until last Saturday. When the laundry man delivered Geisler's shirts with the rest of the clothes he refused to pay the bill. Mrs. Geisler hid the shirts and then Geisler took $20 in gold away from her. It was in the struggle that Geisler received his scratches and black eye. They were married 19 years ago and have three children. For the last three years Mrs. Geisler has been conducting a private hospital at her home. She makes as much money as Geisler does in the contracting business and now has a bank account of $400.

GO TO COURT TOGETHER.

Although Archibald E. Higham is supporting his wife, Mrs. Hattie D. Higham, and living in the same house with her and his family of eight children, he was ordered into court yesterday to show cause why he should not pay alimony to her. Higham accompanied his wife to court, sat by her until the case was called and then left the courtroom with her. The order was discharged by Judge Morse when he heard the testimony. Mrs. Higham brought the suit on the grounds that Higham is a felon and now on parole from the state prison. He has been out on parole since Feb. 17, 1906, and since that time has been working at his occupation and providing for his family. He was convicted of forgery and sentenced to serve three years, in January, 1905.

FORGETS WEDDING DAY.

Mrs. Beatrice E. Nichols' matrimonial life was so uninteresting that she had forgotten the date of her marriage. After considerable floundering she said that it was 14 years ago. Her husband, George E. Nichols, deserted her four years ago and since that time she has seen nothing of him. There are no children as an issue of the marriage and she was granted a divorce.

HELPS IN ANOTHER CASE.

After her divorce was granted, Mrs. Nichols took the witness stand and corroborated the testimony of Mrs. Madge Latham, who was also given a divorce on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Latham married John P. Latham on Jan. 9, 1905, at Pocatello, Idaho. She was deserted four years ago and likewise she knows nothing of her husband's whereabouts.

ONE HUSBAND RELIEVED.

Edward D. Pidge was the only husband who was granted a divorce yesterday. He alleged desertion on the part of his wife, M. Elizabeth Pidge. They were married Feb. 13, 1893, and two years ago she left him. There were no children as the result of the marriage and Pidge has no idea where his wife is now. He was granted a divorce and his name was stricken from the list of husbands.

RIGHTS HURRY NOW AND THEN.

Mrs. Maggie Jamison's suit for divorce was taken under advisement by Judge Morse to look over the service.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves. The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a nerve nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefiting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear. Mrs. J. C. Jamison, of Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes: "I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine. Also was treated by three doctors. They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

In the case. According to her testimony they were married in Denver on Jan. 23, 1894. When she came to Salt Lake to visit her folks about a year after their marriage, Jamison disappeared. She went back to Denver, but when she found it did not find him returned to Salt Lake. Nine years later she met him on the street in Salt Lake. Then he disappeared again and she has not seen him since. If the service by publication is irregular she will have to file another complaint.

Mrs. Maud Ellis was granted a divorce from William Ellis on the grounds of desertion and was given the custody of her daughter, Henrietta, 11 years old. They were married in Jamestown, New York on Aug. 22, 1895. Ellis deserted her three six years ago. She came to Salt Lake two years later.

AN EXPERIENCED DIVORCEE. Mrs. Emma Arnold Matthews secured her second divorce yesterday. She is still receiving alimony from her first husband but her second husband got away owing her mother, Mrs. Mary Ellis, six months board and lodging. He has not been seen for the last year and Mrs. Matthews knows nothing of his whereabouts. They were married at Farrington on July 5, 1905. She alleged cruelty in her complaint charging her husband with beating her on several occasions. Matthews was a solicitor by occupation.

For the last four years Henry Shimmin has not supported his wife, Mrs. Ruth Ella Shimmin, so she was granted a divorce. They were married Aug. 6, 1905. There are no children as an issue of the marriage.

JOHNSON NOT IN CONTEMPT. On a showing that he was unable, by reason of illness, to pay his divorced wife alimony, past due, John L. G. Johnson was declared not to be in contempt. The complaint in the case is held in abeyance, who accuses her ex-husband of having transferred property to the amount of several thousand dollars to his relative.

BEST TREATMENT FOR COLDS.

Major H. C. Benson, Superintendent of the Park, Confers With Traffic Officials.

Major H. C. Benson, superintendent of the Yellowstone National park, is in Salt Lake today on route for California. While here Maj. Benson met Frank Pierce, first assistant secretary of the interior department at Washington, and together these gentlemen conferred with the officials of the Oregon Short Line railroad with reference to handling the tourist travel in the national park during the coming season. In speaking of conditions in the park Maj. Benson said: "As the attractions of the park become more widely known and the facilities for reaching it increase, the matter of handling the rapidly increasing number of tourists each year has become a problem. New arrangements are now made necessary to take care of the traffic, and the establishment of additional accommodations will doubtless be authorized by the government for handling the increased travel.

The snowfall in the park the past winter has been unprecedented," continued Maj. Benson. "There is so much snow in the mountains that the government has had engineers in the park taking measurements of the fall and the probable volume of water which will be produced as it melts, and the possible utilization in the various arid land reclamation projects now being carried on in Idaho and Wyoming. As you know, we are on the very brink of one of the American continent, and a person can stand on one spot in the park and see one stream flowing eastward to empty into the Gulf of Mexico, while a short distance away another stream begins its career toward the west Pacific. The Missouri river flows in the Yellowstone, the Snake river, emptying into the Pacific, and the Green river, flowing southwesterly into the Gulf of California, have their sources in the same region of the park. Maj. Benson is a friend and classmate of Maj. Richard W. Young of this city, and in the absence of the latter Maj. Benson is in Salt Lake to pay his respects to the family of Maj. Young. After spending the day in this city Maj. Benson will take the limited train for Los Angeles this evening.

GORDON ACADEMY WINS.
A large audience was in attendance last night at the Congressional church to hear the debate between pupils of the Gordon Academy and representatives of the Park City high school. The question discussed was "Resolved, That the United States should permanently retain the Philippines." The debate was unanimously in favor of the Gordon academy boys, Wallace Veagle, Jack Allen and Burton Clay, who had the affirmative. The Park City team consisted of Ira Worms, Ira Shor, and Homer and Dodge McDonald. The meeting was presided over by President Joseph T. Kingsbury of the U. of U. and the judges were M. L. Ritchie, George G. Armstrong and John C. Bowman.

MEAT ORDINANCE IS RECOMMENDED

Sanitary Committee of the Council Reports Measure for Passage.

SLAUGHTERERS ARE ON HAND

They Attempt to Excuse Themselves, But the Councilmen Severely Score Them Nevertheless.

Although threats were made by the slaughter men and butchers that they would raise the price of meat if the ordinance was passed compelling them to clean up their slaughter, the sanitary committee of the council last night recommended the passage of the ordinance. Since the exposure of the filthy conditions of the slaughter houses last Wednesday, the consumption of meat has dropped off considerably, and the Retail Grocers & Butchers' association has become alarmed. The ordinance provides for government inspectors, which means that the slaughter houses will have to be kept in a sanitary condition and that diseased meats cannot be sold in Salt Lake City. John H. White, representing the wholesale butchers, was the first to speak on the question. He said that the councilmen were not competent to judge the condition of the slaughter houses. He argued that government inspection would increase the price of meat and that it would deprive the city of certain kinds of meat. The committee showed White that where it would be impossible to get a license for a slaughter house, the government would be appointed under the same rules carried out by the government. Councilman Raybould took up the condition of the slaughter houses in which they were found the other day and told of the desperate effort of several places to clean up before the investigating committee reached them. Councilman Black said that it was a criminal act to keep slaughter houses in such a condition and went so far as to say that he would make it warm for the man who sold him such meat if he ever found it out. Mr. Hepworth of Hepworth & Sons spoke for a few minutes, and pled that he had given time to get his place in a first class condition. Black said that if the body did its duty by the people that they would close up his place and make him move out of the city. On every hand the slaughter houses men were given severe lectures by the city fathers and nearly every one of them agreed to clean up their places and have them in good condition as soon as possible.

OFFICIAL INSPECTION OF STREET CAR LINES

Extensions and Car Barns Are Visited By Railway Men and Party.

A tour of the street car lines of the city, including the new line up to Fort Douglas and other extensions, was made by a party of street railway officials and newspaper men this afternoon. Among the points of interest visited were the recently completed car barns, occupying the block between Sixth and Seventh East and Fifth and Sixth South streets; the extension of the Third avenue line to Fort Douglas, and other places where new extensions, switches, heavy rails and new track had been laid during the last year. Many improvements have been made in all parts of the city, antilting except the nature of vast sums of money. Improvement has been the watchword of the company all along the line, and the service now offered the public is a well ballasted track and modern equipment is unsurpassed by any city of the size of Salt Lake in the country.

In the party were Joseph S. Wells, general manager of the Utah Light & Railway company; B. E. Hunt, assistant general manager; L. L. Dugnon, engineer in charge of construction; O. A. Hammond, electric engineer in charge of transmission lines and power plants; D. S. Spencer, assistant general passenger agent of the Oregon Short Line; Fred H. Knickerbocker, private secretary to General Manager W. H. Bancroft, and the newspaper representatives.

Some Women Don't Get Kayzers

Every genuine woman, for 25 years, has wanted the Kayser silk gloves. The patent tip—the finish, fabric and fit—are all that make silk gloves desirable. But some women pay the Kayser price, and get an inferior make, because they don't look in the hem.

Patent Finger-Tipped Silk Gloves

Every genuine Kayser has the name in the hem. That means a fabric made in our factory—a pure silk fabric woven to wear. It means a finish and fit due to fifty operations, and to 25 years of experience. It means the patent tip.

Don't be misled by inferior gloves, without the Kayser name in the hem.
