TORPID LIVER

Is known by these marked peculiarities:

1. A feeling of weariness and pain in the limbs.
2. Bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, and a furred tongue.
3. Constipation, with occasional attacks of diarrhœa.
4. Headache in the front of the head; nausea, dizziness, and yellowness of skin.
5. Heartburn, loss of appetite.
6. Distention of the stomach and bowels by wind.
7. Depression of spirits, and great melancholy, with lassitude and a disposition to leave everything for tomorrow.

A natural flow of Bile from the Liver is essential to good health. When this is obstructed it results in which, if neglected, soon leads to serious diseases. Simmons Liver Regulator exerts a most felicitous influence over every kind of biliousness. It restores the Liver to proper working order, regulates the secretion of bile and puts the digestive organs in such condition that they can do their best work. After taking this medicine no one will say, "I am bilious."

BILIOUSNESS,

"I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 30 grains of calomel which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator, which gave me relief without any interruption to business." —J. Hugg, Middleport, Ohio.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The session of the Senate today was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendez, rabbi of the Spanish and Portuguese congregation of New York. This is the second instance probably in the history of the government when a Jew has offered prayer in the Senate.

Among the bills reported from committees and placed on the calendar, was the following:

To provide for the erection of public buildings for postoffices in towns and cities where the postoffice receipts for the three years preceding have exceeded $3000 annually. The bill is recommended by the Postmaster-General.

Hale offered a resolution directing the civil service commissioners to furnish lists of all persons certified for appointment to the patent office from March 4, 1885, to March 1888, and the list of all persons selected and appointed under such certification. Adopted.

The House bill appropriating $200,000 for an arsenal at Columbia, Tennessee, was passed.

The Senate then resumed consideration of the international copyright bill, the question being on the amendment offered yesterday by Morrill, providing that newspapers and periodicals may copy articles from foreign newspapers and periodicals.

After an interesting discussion the bill was laid aside without action, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the bill for the establishment of a bureau of animal industry.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Bills were reported and placed upon the calendar for the erection of a public building at Cheyenne Wyoming, and increasing the appropriation for the purchase of a site for a public building at San Francisco.

A resolution providing for the investigation of the strike on the Chicago, Burlington & Quinty Railroad was reported back and referred to the committee of the whole.

Mills (Texas), asks unanimous consent that all gentlemen might be allowed to print in the Record any remarks upon the subject of tariff, but Reed objected.

Then the House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill, the floor being accorded to McMillan, of Tennessee.

McMillin opened with the declaration that whoever advocated the present tariff favored the tariff not for revenue but for surplus and tariff for trusts. Commenting on the surplus he said: We are drawing money from commerce and stacking it up in the treasury at such a rate that it is only a question of time when the stringency will set in. We are robbing not only commerce of its life blood, but the people of the means of paying taxes to their government. The annual surplus is only about $60,000,000, so that if all the internal revenue laws were repealed it would leave a deficiency in our taxes of $60,000,000. What is this to be raised from? Shall we repose a tax on tea and coffee? No, there is not a man who would retax coffee to make whiskey. Shall we increase the duty on woolen goods, rice, or sugar? No, for the people would not, and should not tolerate any such legislation. In other words, reduce the tax on that without which men can live and prosper or upon that which is essential to their comfort and it narrows itself down to a contest between the drunkard's belly and the poor man's back. In that fight I do not hesitate to say that I espouse the cause of the back. The present law taxes the poor man's articles higuly and placed a low rate on luxuries.

THE COMMITTEE'S BILL

is so framed that the tax will bear most heavy on luxuries and those things without which the people can live, other than upon the necessaries of life. McMillan declared protection was worse to the merchant marine and crushed the sea-faring industry. Yet the gentleman proposed to pay subsidies out of the treasury, or, in other words, levy taxes on those who live inland to make money for those engaged in the carrying trade. He turned his attention to the subject of trusts, and said:

"For years we have had these halls ringing with statements that bye and bye home competition would give us the lowest possible prices the welkin had been made to ring with the declaration reiterated and reiterated, until even those who first proclaimed it have almost gotten to believe it. But look at the unfortunate situation and the delusion will be dispelled. While the goverament has thrown up its tariff walls without, the monopolists have joined hands within for the purpose of putting up the price and plundering the people by devices known as trusts, etc. We have a steel rail trust, which cost the people of the country last year millions of dollars. I have no apprehensions as to who will be the victor in the great battle about to be waged between the people and the trusts. It is the organization which is invoked to aid trusts and make polling profitable. The people waited long and patiently, but they are aroused and their voice comes thundering through the land in demanding a reduction of taxes. The procession for the relief of the taxpayers is moving. There are but two places about this procession, one after it the other under it. Seek to-day whether you prefer to follow and aid it, or go down under it and be crushed by it."

During the course of his speech McMillin declared that the internal revenue system against which the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Kelley) inveighed, had not been inaugurated by the democratic party.

KELLEY ADMITTED

that the democratic party had not enacted the law, but declared that it had made it necessary for the republican party, which remained in Congress during the war, to provide the sinews for that war, and thus forced that party to resort to internal taxes and all the hardships resulting from them.

McMillin replied that the Gentleman from Pennsylvania not only inaugurated the internal taxes of which he complained, but he put the tax on railroads and incomes and capital deposits of banks, but these latter had been removed and those which the gentleman said worked hardships never had been removed The gentleman had not done the very thing which he said the democratic party was responsible for not doing. He (McMillin) remembered the gentleman coming before the House and saying he favored the repeal of the system, but that his caucus determined otherwise, and he bowed his neck to the yoke. (Applause on the democratic side.)

Kelley—Has not that been done by your democratic caucus! (Applause on the republican side.)

McMillin—Does your party favor the total repeal of the internal revenue system?

Kelley—I speak for myself.

McMillin—Who will speak for your party? (Laughter.)

Kelley—Will you vote for such an amendment?

McMillin—I do not propose to vote for such an amendment.

Reed—Then what are you talking about?

McMillin stated that sixty million dollars were annually received from internal taxes. If these taxes were removed, where does the gentleman from Pennsylvania propose to get the revenue? Did he propose to replace the tax on tea and coffee?

Kelley—No.

McMillin—You have not the courage to do it.

Kelley—Have you and your party the courage to tax tea and coffee?

McMillin—We do not propose to take off the internal taxes.

"There are none of us so brave," was Reed's comment.

Burrows (Michigan) was the next speaker.

Our tariff on imports was today professedly protective in that it was levied, not for revenue only, but to encourage American industry and protect American labor. The republican party insisted that the present protective system should not be disturbed except so far as might be necessary to correct its incongruities and harmonize its provisions. If Congress followed the lead of the President in his bold declaration and secured a reduction by such a revision of the tariff as he proposed, leaving untouched, as he suggested, the internal revenue system, not only would the protective system be destroyed, but the nation would be out on the highway of free trade. As the members were free traders or protectionists, the bill of the committee would be approved or condemned. The pending measure stood in the history of American legislation. The bill exposed to foreign assault many of our principal industries. The great wool-growing industry of the country, only in the infancy of its development, was to be exposed to the ruinous foreign competition, which would surely prove its destruction. The majority tried to delude the people into the belief that cheap wool meant cheap clothing. He admitted that wool would be cheapened by foreign rivals who were trying to decroy our industry, but when they had eliminated from our market three hundred million pounds of domestic wool we would find ourselves bound hand and foot at the mercy of the foreign producer. What restraint would there be then on his power or cupidity? In the exuberancy of the President's zeal for free trade, he wanted the entire reduction made by the revision of the tariff, but even the free traders of the democratic party lacked the courage to move on that line and occupy the advanced position. Burrows said the President's assertion that the duty on imports enhanced the prices of both foreign and domestic articles to the consumer, had been echoed by every free trader in the United States, and hailed with delight by the free traders of England. He challenged any man to name the product of a single well-established American industry that could not be bought cheaper today under than at any period under free trade. The difficulty with the President's theory was that he forgot that the price of a commodity did not depend upon the rate of duty, but upon the great law of supply and demand. Efforts were being made persistently to induce the American farmer to believe that protective tariffs were hostile to his interests.

WITHOUT A PARALLEL.

Burrows argued the farmer was directly interested in maintaining the protective system and home market. Protection had enhanced the value of land in the north; it would bring it to the south. It would bring to the south an era of unexampled prosperity. He believed in protection, not for his state alone, but for his country. He believed in American industry, in American capital, in American labor, against the whole world. "Let me warn you, gentlemen of the south," he continued, "that this measure bodes no good to you. It will arrest the investment of capital and bring your industries to a standstill. There is no portion of the country where the measure should meet with more united and determined opposition than in the south. Untoward circumstances have heretofore retarded her material progress, but the way is now open for her to march unimpeded to a splendid industrial future. The advance is already sounded. He who does not responded to its inspiring summons will soon find himself without a party and without a following."

The committee then rose and an attempt was made to have a night session, but it was defeated by the republicans refusing to vote, leaving the House without a quorum.

The House then adjourned.

MR. JOSEPH BEACH.

A LUCKY MAN.

Stone in the Kidney expelled after using Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" about two weeks.

One of the most remarkable cases that has ever been brought to the notice of the public is that of Mr. J. S. Beach, of Stone Ridge, Ulster Co., N. Y. Mr. Beach had suffered since October 18th, 1874, from the presence of Calculus or stone in the right kidney. No less than seven physicians were employed at different times, to whom Mr. Beach paid hundreds of dollars for medical treatment with only temporary relief from his agony.

By the urgent solicitation of his friends he was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," made, you remember, at Rondout, N. Y. He experienced marked improvement from the first day he began to use the medicine. On the 15th September he voided a stone as large as could be passed through the natural channel.

Mr. Beach concludes a long letter to Dr. Kennedy by saying: "It will always afford me pleasure to recommend the "Favorite Remedy" to those who may be suffering from difficulties of the Kidneys and Bladder, or any disorders arising from an impure state of the blood." The "Favorite Remedy," is sold by all druggists. Price only $1 a bottle. The Doctor's only address where he manufactures his "Favorite Remedy," is Rondout, N. Y.

The people of the Territory of Utah, send greeting:

To Eleanor F. C. Squires, Defendant.

YOU ARE HEREBY REQUIRED TO appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Utah, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree dissolving the marriage between plaintiff and defendant, and awarding to plaintiff the custody of the minor children, issue of said marriage, on the ground of various acts of adultery committed by defendant with one James Greer, (sometimes known as James Wesley) and with one Solomon Hancock; also, on the ground of desertion of plaintiff by defendant, and on the further ground of cruel and inhuman treatment of plaintiff by defendant.

And you are hereby notified, that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded therein.

Witness, the Hon. Charles S. Zane, Judge, and the Seal of the District Court of the Third Judicial District, in and for the Territory of Utah, this 11th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

[SEAL.] HENRY G. McMILLAN, Clerk.
