

MAESER MONUMENT TO BE DEDICATED

Exercises Will Take Place in City Cemetery on Monday Afternoon.

WAS ERECTED BY HIS PUPILS

Base is of Utah Granite and Die of Barre Material—Beautiful Memorial Shaft.

On Monday next at 4:30 p. m., a monument in memory of Karl G. Maeser will be dedicated at the grave of the dead educator. The monument has been erected by the former pupils of Prof. Maeser, as a loving tribute to the labors of him who was so well beloved by his pupils and such a power in Church educational work. Elder Reed Smoot will offer the dedicatory prayer.

Dr. J. M. Tanner will act as master of ceremonies at the dedicatory exercises. Dr. George H. Brimhall will deliver the oration for the occasion and Mrs. Zina Y. Card will offer a sentiment in behalf of the lady pupils of Dr. Maeser.

Music will be furnished by the Brigham Young university choir of Provo under the direction of Prof. Lund. The exercises will take place at the grave, which is situated immediately behind the sexton's house in the city cemetery.

The monument is a beautiful granite sarcophagus, and is five feet long by three feet wide by four feet six inches in height. The base is composed of Utah granite, the same material of which the temple is built. The die is of Barre Vermont granite, which is the material of the monument to the Prophet Joseph Smith is built. On the die is a raised panel on which the name "Karl G. Maeser" appears. On the right side of the panel is an oak leaf carving, and below the name appears the inscription: "Erected by His Pupils."

A Barre granite marker is placed at the head of the grave, on which appears a saying of Dr. Maeser's, "Character is Power." The data is also given as follows: "Karl Gottfried Maeser, born Jan. 16, 1828, Meissen, Saxony, Germany; died Feb. 15, 1901."

The monument was erected entirely by contributions from the pupils of Dr. Maeser, and cost $500.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.
Following is a brief biographical sketch of Karl G. Maeser, who lived a long and useful life:
Dr. Karl G. Maeser was born in Meissen, Saxony, Germany, on Jan. 16, 1828. His father was an artist, employed in the china works, where the famous Dresden china is produced. He was in easy circumstances but by no means wealthy. Karl attended the public school of Meissen, and finished his education in the normal school at Dresden, graduating from that institution in May, 1848.

TWO VITAL EVENTS.
While connected with that institution the two most vital events of his life transpired. One was the securing of a wife, the daughter of the principal of the normal college, who was his faithful helpmeet for a half a century, surviving a devoted widow, equalled even by her own sex. His wife was the sister of Mrs. Edward Schoenfeldt of East Brighton, and also of Camilla Cobb.

The other event was that which turned the current of his life, the meeting with three Mormon missionaries, viz: the late Apostles Franklin D. Richards, President William Budge of the Bear Lake stake, and Elder William Kimball, son of the late President Heber C. Kimball.
When Dr. Maeser's attention had been attracted to the Mormons by an illustration that appeared in a newspaper, and the impression made upon him at that time was so profound that he anxiously waited for an opportunity to meet with a representative of the Mormon Church, or to investigate the much criticized religion by other means. But that opportunity did not present itself until 1855, when he met the elders that have been mentioned. They were promptly invited to the home of the eager young teacher, and as they recited the story of the gospel and its restoration, his soul glowed with an inward fire. He accepted their message with as much avidity as a starving man would have received a loaf of bread.

COMES TO AMERICA.

Realizing that the moment it became known that he was a Mormon he would be almost scourged from the city, Dr. Maeser resigned his position and went to London, where he labored for some time among the German people in that city. He succeeded in building up a branch of the Church in their midst. He then took passage for America, disembarking at Philadelphia, where he was retained as a missionary under President Anson M. Cannon. The panic of 1857 came on and he had to seek employment or perish. In company with four young elders, he traveled by foot to Virginia, in Richmond he obtained a position as music teacher in the family of ex-President John Tyler and others. He remained there six months, when he was called to preside over the Philadelphia conference, holding that position until June, 1859.

THE PIONEER TEACHER.

Dr. Maeser emigrated to Utah in 1860, arriving in Salt Lake in the company of Patriarch John Smith, in October of that year.

As naturally as water seeks its level Dr. Maeser turned to the school room.

Opening a school in the Fifteenth ward, he remained there until the attention of Bishop Sharp, and others was attracted to him, when he accepted a school in the Twentieth ward at their urgent solicitation. How well his labors were appreciated at that place is evinced in the unwillingness of Bishop Sharp and C. R. Savage and others to give him up. In 1864 President Brigham Young, having recognized the excellent qualifications as a teacher possessed by Dr. Maeser, made him the private tutor to his family. At this time he also acted as organist for the tabernacle choir.

In 1867 he was called to preside over the Swiss and German mission, and among other monuments of his efficient and intelligent labors in that field, stands the Stern, the mission paper. The paper is still flourishing and has been of incalculable benefit to the mission. In 1876 President Brigham Young called Dr. Maeser to go to Provo and organize the Brigham Young academy. The growth of not only the academy but all of the Church schools from such a poor and unassuming beginning to their present proud position under the educational institutions of the West is due mostly to his indefatigable efforts, coupled with intelligence and devotion. On the system of the Church schools is stamped the impress of his organizing genius, in that field he stands forth pre-eminent. He could bring order out of chaos and mold such beginnings to large enterprises. With a rare gift of presence he understood the needs of the future and laid the foundations of his work deep and wide so that they will stand the requirements of future years.

TABERNACLE TONIGHT
Eisteddfod Prize Winners sing in Grand Concert—7:30 & 7:50.
Now is the time for conference visitors and citizens of this city to beware of crooks. Whenever the city has an attraction that draws thousands, the city is infested with a gang of confidence men, grafters, "dips," hold-ups, yegg-men and second-story artists, and the police department is anxious that visitors and residents should be on their guard. The immaculately attired and affable fellow who is always willing to show a stranger points of interest and then separate the stranger from his hard earned money by means of the lock trick, crooked card game or bogus policeman stunt, is usually in town where there are big attractions. The yegg-man, who will steal anything from a doughnut from a little boy to a sack of money from a safe, is also in evidence upon such occasions. Then there is the rubber soled second-story worker who watches your house until you have departed, then breaks in and quickly cleans out the place of anything and everything of value. The clever "dips," male and female, black and white, who stop persons on the street to ask a simple question, or who mingle with crowds on the sidewalks, and in case they find the "litt" purses, watches and pins, should be kept in mind.

PEOPLE WARNED AGAINST CROOKS

Some time ago Chief Pitt warned residents to see that their houses were properly locked before going out and also to see that their valuables were placed in a secure hiding place. He also advised people to look out for pickpockets and the warning he gave them is not at all amiss now.

KEEP HOUSES LOCKED.

During the conference and fair weeks there will be additions to the plain clothes squad and officers will be constantly on the alert to catch crooks plying their wiles. The residence guard will also be patrolled as thoroughly as possible, considering the area to be covered and the limited number of policemen available, but visitors and citizens will do well to be on their guard against the confidence men and the thieves who break in and steal.

VOLUNTEERS ARE BUSY.

The rain and cold snap which suddenly struck the city has been the cause of driving into the Volunteers a horde of unemployed men. The headquarters of this institution, opposite the police station, can accommodate 120 persons with sleeping quarters. Last night there was but one vacant cot and Capt. Edison states that the capacity of the place has been reached. Those who apply for lodgings and can pay 10 or 15 cents are expected to pay, but the less fortunate are not turned away.

HOLIDAY ON WEDNESDAY

Mayor John S. Bransford Issues a Proclamation for Salt Lake Day at Fair.

Wednesday, Oct. 7, has been proclaimed a holiday in this city by Mayor John S. Bransford, who today in a signed address called public attention to the action already taken by Governor Cutler, in suggestion that the day be set apart in the interests of the state fair. The proclamation of Mayor Bransford reads as follows:

Whereas, Representatives of the Utah State Fair association have petitioned the governor of the State of Utah, and the mayor of Salt Lake City, Utah, requesting that they call the attention of the residents of this city to the opening of the state fair and suggesting that a day be designated as one to be fully observed by the citizens to attend said fair, and

Whereas, His excellency, Governor John C. Cutler, has designated and proclaimed Wednesday, Oct. 7, 1908, as a day to be fully observed by the people of the city of Salt Lake as a holiday and that all citizens devote the day to attending the fair, and that wherever possible, business be suspended and business houses close on said day;

Therefore, in accordance with the petitions aforesaid and with a desire to contribute to the success and advancement of a cause so worthy and important, I, J. S. Bransford, mayor of Salt Lake City, Utah, do hereby commend to the attention of the residents of this city, the proclamation of his excellency, Governor John C. Cutler, and earnestly recommend that the suggestion therein contained be fully observed, and to that end and for such purpose, I hereby request that the business houses close on Wednesday, Oct. 7, 1908, at 1 o'clock p. m. of said day, and so far as possible there be an abstention from the usual daily pursuits.

Dated at Salt Lake City, Utah, this 2nd day of October, 1908.

J. S. BRANSFORD,

Mayor of Salt Lake City, Utah.

WELSH REUNION.

Meeting in Barrett Hall Today Occasion for Song and Addresses.

Following the announcement at last night's session of the Eisteddfod in the tabernacle, Welsh people from all over the United States and some few from Wales congregated this morning at Barrett hall in an informal reception under the auspices of the Cambrian society. The object of the meeting was to bring the Welsh musters together that they might sing their native songs and talk with countrymen of the distant fatherland which plan was adequately fulfilled.

About 50 persons were present, all Welsh, and the program was impromptu. The meeting was opened by an address from Postmaster A. L. Thomas. Mr. Thomas spoke of the gratitude of the Cambrian society for making the assembly possible, and heartily welcomed his fellow countrymen from the many colors of the map.

In conclusion Mr. Thomas named C. E. Thomas, of Seattle, chairman.

The first speaker was J. D. Jones of Seattle, who spoke and recited in Welsh. Mr. Jones spoke of the influence of music as a national institution. Other speakers were Rev. W. M. Jones of Portland, Oregon; J. S. Peris of Ogden, W. C. Price of Salt Lake; William Amadoc of Chicago; David Evans of Wales.

Daniel Protheroe, adjudicator at the Eisteddfod, who took the Welsh extraction, delighted the assembly by a song. After the meeting Welsh recitations were given, handshaking was indulged in and Mr. Jones of Ogden, who said, "I have often heard him speak of her," was the order of the day.

The Pure Drug Dispensary

112-114 So. Main Street

The Colorado capital is growing so fast that it is hard to find vacant houses, and rents in consequence are mounting up.

Friday was a strenuous day for the singing society contestants. The Denver chorus became apprehensive early in the day, after hearing "great stories" about the Salt Lake Choral society, and occupied most of the morning, in polishing up at the Salt Lake theater. In the afternoon, there was another busy function, and early in the evening, yet another. The Ogden and Provo choruses spent some time at noon, in the tabernacle, going over their work, and the Salt Lake singers were given a good overhauling during the day.

The singing of the public school children is commented on with pleasure by visiting musicians.

The individual work of the Salt Lake, Ogden and Provo choruses was such that neither of the leaders has any reason to blush, or feel anything but gratified. Indeed, all ought to feel proud that it took such an organization as Denver to win over them. It was amusing to listen to the comments throughout the house after each chorus sang and retired. When the magnificent volume of the Provo basses rolled forth, and Prof. Lund was again electrified, every one gasped and said, "How can that be excelled?" When Ballantyne's nervous energy which inspired his singers to produce such a unified response was seen every one gasped again and thanked their stars that they did not have the work of adjudicating.

The soprano section of the Ogden chorus was equally beautiful; then when McClellan's singers finished, the people scratched their heads and wondered where it would all end. The admirable balance of House's singers, (aided by the grouping of the men on each side of the ladies), the superior quality of the tone of his tenors, (which simply means that he had a great city like Denver to pick from), were the points which told in his favor.

Only those "on the inside" can really appreciate something of the difficulty under which the Salt Lake chorus was operating. They know, too, the stress under which McClellan has been conducting his rehearsals. That he should be able to win even second prize is a matter of wonderment to all who know the facts. The work of preparing for the Eisteddfod was taken up while the rehearsals for the "Girl and the Governor," and the task of conducting and rehearsing the operas given in the fall festival, were at their height. Add to this the daily organ recitals given at noon, the regular singing of the choir, and the teaching of his pupils which had to be kept up, and some idea may be obtained of what the professor has waded through. Many of the singers who took part, did so at a personal sacrifice, after an appeal from him and Mr. Giles, and it was only at the last few rehearsals that the necessary number of tenors was enrolled. Mr. McClellan expresses himself as in all ways pleased and satisfied with the outcome, and says the winning of the prize is entirely second to the gratification he feels at laboring with so many representative singers, and all achieving the record that they did.

FAMOUS "CORN CASE UP"

E. J. Kiesel Company Posts One Thousand Dollar Bond and Can Sell Under True Labels.

Routine naturalization matters were broken into in the United States court this morning when the E. J. Kiesel company of Ogden appeared and through agents, announced its readiness to post a bond in its famous "corn case." The concern is defendant in a suit filed by the government when it was learned the wholesalers had a thousand and more short weight cases of corn in its warehouses. While the government realizes that the Junction city corporation was an innocent buyer, the suit was filed against it for hearing. Criminal action against the Audubon Canning company of Audubon, Ia., the shippers of the corn, is probable. The local hearing is set for Oct. 12.

The court asked $1,000 as bonds and this amount was put up promptly. The court released the corn which has been held under custody for a week. The Kiesel firm now has the right to sell
