FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 19.—Several communications from the departments, including a copy of the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office on the Indian Territory tribes and the amount of lands granted railroads in the Territory.

The Hot Springs bill was passed and the Geneva Award bill taken up. The Senate then went into executive session.

Anthony presented a memorial from Susan B. Anthony, asking for the removal of her political disabilities, and complaining that while the prayers of men have been granted for such purpose, women are denied. She asks to receive the same consideration as if her name were Samuel B. Anthony.

When the doors reopened, adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 19.—Wright, from the labor committee, reported a resolution requesting the President to notify the Chinese Government that it is the desire of the United States that the clauses in the treaties which allow and permit the emigration of subjects and citizens of the two countries be abrogated and annulled; placed on the calendar. The minority report was also ordered printed.

The House went at once into committee on the special deficiency bill. After a spirited debate, Mr. Ewing appealed to the democrats to accept Mr. Garfield's compromise and modify those bad election laws so as to make them non-partisan, otherwise the cry of nullification would go up all over the North.

Hawley, excitedly, declared the republican party tendered no compromise; it execrated the word.

Springer's amendment to Garfield's substitute, providing that special deputy marshals be appointed by United States judges, was adopted; also the amendment that deputy marshals shall not receive over three days' pay.

Frye, in Garfield's absence, disclaimed that he offered to compromise.

Ewing said that the Supreme Court having declared constitutional the election laws, they must be so regarded at present, but only temporarily, because the public mind never accepted as final a Supreme Court decision which was obtained by a party division of the tribunal. They had learned that the fire of partizanship burned as fiercely beneath the ermine as beneath the jackets of the people, but it was not necessary for representatives to vote any sum of money which might be demanded for the execution of laws which they believed to be utterly subversive of the liberty of the people. A majority of the North were tired of the republican party. It held its power by the clamor of southern brigadiers and a renewal by the people of the south of opposition to the Constitutional government, by secession or nullification.

Williams, of Wisconsin, would consent to no compromise until he was prepared to vote for a repeal of the election laws.

Randall said: To-day's discussion narrowed this issue to this. This law was on the statute books. Democrats believed it unconstitutional, and Springer's amendment was to take from that act a partisan administration of its provisions. The republicans would not have the law changed.

Hawley, Randall and Robeson had an excited debate, in which Randall declared the republicans administered this law in an outrageous manner.

Garfield said, speaking for himself alone, as ever his first object in legislation was, to be right.

Tucker gave notice that he would offer resolutions in lieu of those reported by the select committee on the inter-oceanic canal, declaring it the duty of Congress to affirm that whether the canal be constructed by foreign governments or by corporations, deriving their being and authority from foreign governments, the United States will assert and maintain their rights to see that nothing shall be done in the premises which shall not fully secure free and unrestricted commerce and intercourse by means of such inter-oceanic highway between the States of the Union in time of public war as well as of peace, and the United States cannot admit the right of any government, by treaty or otherwise, to grant to any other foreign power, or to any corporation created or authorized by any foreign power, any privilege, right or authority in respect to such inter-oceanic highway as will be inconsistent with their peace and security with free commerce and intercourse among the States of the Union. That the President be requested to take necessary and proper steps to carry into effect the foregoing declarations of public policy.

Three Reports on Chinese Labor.

WASHINGTON, 19.—The special report on the Chinese immigration question of the House committee appointed to inquire into the causes of the depression of labor, was presented to the House to-day. The report is signed by Chairman Hendrick B. Wright and Messrs. Murch, Dickey and O'Connor, and was accompanied by two minority reports, one signed by Messrs. Martin and Sherwin, and the other by Cowgill, of Indiana. The majority report, it is asserted, is based on a careful examination of witnesses, and at once concludes that Chinese immigration is destroying trade and materially affecting the business of San Francisco and the whole Pacific Coast. Thousands of industrious white men and women are absolutely thrown out of employment, Chinese labor being used throughout the whole coast as a substitute for white labor. It asserts that the subject is assuming alarming importance and that the entire population of the Pacific Coast, as far as could be ascertained, is hostile to Chinese emigration, and especially in San Francisco, where 35,000 or 40,000 Chinese are located in the heart of the city. This Asiatic element is governed by their own laws, living in dirt and filth and evading all responsibility of municipal taxation. This state of things, the majority say, has induced the authorities of the State to propose a law and submit it to the people to ascertain the sentiments of the citizens of the State upon the propriety of allowing the immigration to continue. The result of the vote testing public opinion on this question was of almost entire unanimity, 154,000 voters, through their ballots, being in opposition to the continuance of emigration, and only 800 favoring it.

The majority further state that in their opinion, unless some decisive action is taken by Congress, there is danger to be apprehended regarding the welfare and solidity of the government of the State of California.

The majority recommend as a temporary measure of relief, that the bill of last session limiting the landing of 15 Chinese upon one vessel be adopted by Congress, leaving out the two sections engrafted by the Senate upon the bill, which recommended the abrogation of our treaty with China, which was, the report says, probably the cause of the bill being vetoed by the President. The report continuing, says: Something must be granted to the people of the Pacific slope, and until it is, there is great danger of internal commotion and revolution. The people have reached a point beyond which it becomes an absolute necessity on the part of the government to interfere and prevent a great wrong being inflicted upon the coast. The influx of Chinese is not only depressing the price of labor and monopolizing industries of the people there, but their manners, customs and habits are undermining the moral and social condition of the State, and in order to dispose of the question in a definite manner, the majority offer a joint resolution, presented in the House to-day, proposing to abrogate that part of the treaty between the United States and China relating to immigration.

The minority report of Representatives Sherwin and Martin concur in the recommendation of the majority regarding the passage of a law limiting immigration to not more than 15 Chinese on one vessel, but do not endorse the proposed joint resolution.

The minority report of Representative Cowgill asserts that the majority of the committee refuse to put witnesses under the obligations of an oath as to the truth or falsity of their statements, and refused to subpœna any one to appear before them. As a result, with but one or two exceptions, none but the most visionary and impracticable witnesses appeared before the committee. That the evidence taken is wholly unreliable and, if believed, is much better calculated to mislead than to enlighten. That the committee under the purview of the resolution creating it, had not authority to investigate the Chinese question, excepting as far as Chinese labor incidentally may affect the general subject of labor. That the evidence taken at San Francisco by the committee was of a character utterly unworthy of belief. That the course pursued by the chairman of the committee in delivering addresses to sand lotters on Sabbath evenings, at one of which he received a nomination by a Kearneyite for the presidency, have induced and encouraged that class of people to obtrude themselves upon the committee, and may have had some agency in shaping the majority report. It asserts that the evidence is not of such a character as to warrant the conclusion of the majority in regard to Chinese immigration. It admits the existence of much bitter feeling on the part of the whites against the Chinese, chiefly due to race prejudice as evidenced by the result of the late election in California, (referred to in majority report). In support of the view that this feeling results from race prejudice it cites the adoption by the State of Indiana, in 1851, in a constitutional provision by a vote scarcely less decisive by which a whole race wa prohibited from coming into the State.

The report concludes that whatever causes may have existed for the appointment of the committee originally, none exist at this time requiring its further investigation. That prosperity abounds everywhere and the laborer can secure employment at fair compensation.

The report is accompanied by the following resolution:

Resolved, That Hon. Hendrick B. Wright, chairman of the committee, be required to pay into the United States Treasury the balance of the appropriation made for the use of the same, that now remains in his hands, and that the committee be discharged from any further consideration of the subject.

Exciting Debate.

The debate in the House of Representatives on the marshal deficiency bill to-day was the most animated that has taken place since the exciting periods of the extra session, and the intricate political and parliamentary struggle over the various amendments called into play the ablest efforts of an unusually large number of the leading men of both parties. It is generally conceded to-night that the democratic manœuvre of accepting and treating as an original compromise the proposition which was offered by Garfield yesterday, simply as an amendment to an amendment, gave them decidedly the best of the position, and the republicans in finally voting solidly against this proposition upon the ground of its being a rider to an appropriation bill, were not altogether judicious or justifiable. The proposition finally adopted provides in the first place for the payment of the $7,600 due to California deputy marshals of elections, and next provides that all such officers shall hereafter be appointed by United States Judges in equal numbers from the different political parties, and be paid $5 per diem. It will be observed that no restriction is placed upon the number that may be appointed. Seventeen republicans voted for the proposition when the bill was in committee of the whole, including Horace Davis, Garfield, Kelley, Hiscock, Rice, Harris and others of prominence; but when the amendment came to a final vote by yeas and nays, all the republicans acting under Garfield's own leadership voted against it, with the exception of Butterworth, of Ohio. During the progress of the debate, Page obtained the floor for two or three minutes, and in reply to the declaration of a South Carolina member that the democratic party was always in favor of fair elections, made a decided hit and called forth much applause from the republican side of the House, by showing that in various southern districts, where republicans are notoriously in the majority, democratic members are returned as receiving practically all the votes.

Congressional Chat.

The Star this evening publishes an article asserting that a new treaty with China has been concluded, placing restrictions upon Chinese emigration to this country, etc. There is the very best authority for pronouncing this statement untrue; it is certain that no conclusion has been reached, and it may be stated with entire confidence that little or no progress has yet been made in the so-called negotiations.

Reports are also current that Minister Seward's resignation is now and has long been in the hands of the President, and the Post to-day takes the President severely to task for withholding action upon it, charging that his purpose has been to give Seward as long a lease of official life as possible and allow him to escape impeachment by accepting it at the last moment. These reports and charges are also destitute of foundation.

The only other present gossip on this subject is to the effect that Secretary Evarts thinks of transferring Minister Bingham from Japan to Pekin, and also that John Russell Young is strongly urged for appointment as Seward's successor.

Representative Page to-day delivered to the Postmaster General the letter to which he obtained the signatures of all of the Pacific Coast delegation, protesting against the prohibition of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s letter-carrying service, and Judge Key agreed that the case should be held open for further argument up to May 1st.

The bill introduced by Senator Slater to provide for the completion of the Oregon & California Railroad, is a copy of the bill recently introduced by Representative Whiteaker authorizing the Oregon Legislature to designate the corporation to complete the road in case of failure by the present company within the specified time.

False Statements.

SAN FRANCISCO, 19.—Statements in the lecture delivered by Gifford F. Parker before the Young Mens' Christian Association, New York, regarding the mode adopted for getting Chinese emigrants to San Francisco, are declared at the Chinese consulate and by Koopman, Chap & Co. to be false in every particular. The Chinese profess to be unable to understand the statements telegraphed concerning the great influx of Chinese at New York from San Francisco. They say the total number of departures registered at the Chinese consulate is only about 100, a portion thereof going to Havana, others to points west of the Mississippi and that not over 60 or 70 can have found their way from here to New York.

A Grand Affair.

CINCINNATI, 19.—At the banquet last night the guests were all seated at 8 o'clock, the arrangements being so perfected that only five minutes was required in seating the whole number. At about 10.30 the band played Dixie, and instantly the the southern guests acknowledged the compliment by rousing cheers, joined by northern friends. The Star Spangled banner was next rendered, which caused the wildest enthusiasm. Speaking began at 12 o'clock, the speech of welcome being delivered by Mayor Jacob. He was followed by Gov. Foster, of Ohio, Gov. Blackburn, of Kentucky, and other notables. At 1 o'clock the assembly broke up.

The Peculiar Nuisance.

NEW YORK, 19.—A letter in a morning journal written in the same hand writing as the postal cards, circulars and sham invitations was recently sent to a second-hand clothes dealers, business firms and educational establishments in the name of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix and signed, "High Churchman," declared that the nuisance would begin again this morning at half past 8 o'clock and continue throughout the day. Dr. Dix left his house to avoid the nuisance and the servants stood at the door to guard against intrusion. There were only a half dozen callers, applicants for situations as servants.
