undoubtedly insane. Scoville excepted and Guiteau' in-terspersed his remarks. Scoville made a sharp cross-examination.

Recess. After recess, Scoville put the hy-pothetical question, which embraced the clause; "Suppose the prisoner believed himself to be a partner with Jesus Christ. Judge Porter protested against the question as blaphemous, and it would be a dis-grace to a court of justice and a Christian nation to allow it to be entertained for a moment. Scoville entertained for a moment. Scoville replied that if no allusion could be made to what was claimed by the prisoner; to be the actuating motive prisoner; to be the actuating motive or influence that led to his act, then the whole defense would be wiged away at a single stroke. Judge Por-ter proceeded to insist upon his view and declared that the time had come, when in the name of the American people and on be-half of the Government in the federal cont he fait it his duty to federal court, he felt it his duty to demand that the prisoner be remov-
