Beautiful weather.

The fair opened to-day at noon.

Crowds of people at the fair to-day.

The first of the fair races take place to-morrow.

The "Sea of Ice" is the attraction at the Theatre to-night.

Only one case of diphtheria was reported for last month.

With the return of warm weather the snow is rapidly disappearing from the mountains.

"The False Friend" will be produced by the Home Dramatic Club to-morrow evening.

At the Police Court, on Saturday, a man named Wm. Dilley was fined $10 for brutally ill-treating his wife.

The grand jury has been discharged. Eleven indictments under the laws of the territory have been found.

The Essay on "Utah: her Attractions, etc."—for the Mecars prize of $50—has drawn forth some half dozen contestants.

The funeral services over the body of Mary Ann, infant daughter of Jeremiah and Sarah E. Langford, were conducted by Bishop Morris at the residence of the parents, yesterday. The twin reported dead, we are pleased to state, is still living.

Mr. John Henderson, who has for the last eight years been the manager of the Western Union Telegraph office of this city, is about to retire, having accepted a more satisfactory situation further west. Mr. Frank Giles, of Ogden, a pleasant and intelligent gentleman succeeds Mr Henderson.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Fatal Accident.—A melancholy accident occurred on the Temple now in course of erection in this city, between one and two o'clock this afternoon, whereby a man named William Pullend has lost his life. It appears that Pullend was engaged on the south west corner of the building, and while holding the rope attached to the derrick, a sudden gust of wind blew the derrick round, pitching the unfortunate man down into the cellar of the building, a distance of some sixty feet. The poor fellow was carried into a house on the Temple Block, and was immediately attended to by the Drs. Richards. It was found that he had received severe internal injuries, from which he died about 3.40 this afternoon.

Melancholy Death.—About nine o'clock this morning, the melancholy intelligence was received by President John Taylor of the death of Elder Feramorz L. Young, son of the late President Brigham Young, while returning home from his mission in Mexico. The telegram conveying the sad intelligence is from Apostle Moses Thatcher, is dated New York, the 2d, and simply states that "on Tuesday night, at 11 o'clock, 100 miles out from Havana, Elder Feramorz L. Young died of typhoid fever. Having no means of preserving the body he was buried at sea Wednesday afternoon." Elder Young was a man well known and highly respected in this community, and the news of his death will be received by his many friends with sincere grief.

Fair Procession. — About 11 o'clock this forenoon, quite an imposing procession was formed on South Temple Street by the fair exhibits of Mr. H. B. Clawson. The procession was composed as follows: No. 1, 10 horse power steam engine; No. 2, Kingsland & Ferguson thresher; No. 3, Ertel economy hay Press; No. 4, cider mills; No. 5, railroad plows; No. 6, Leffell turbine wheel and Cook's evaporator and victor cane mill; No. 7, grist mill machinery and Howe scales; No. 8, portable forge and corn mills; No. 9, plows; No. 10, garden impliments; No. 11, Coats hay rake, nickle plated.

Headed by the "Julia Dean" band carriage, containing the Seventh Ward band, and drawn by four splendid horses lent for the occasion by Mr. Abram Gould, the procession was paraded through Main Street and afterwards to the Fair grounds.

The "Sea of Ice."—This evening, the splendid spectacular drama, the "Sea of Ice," will be produced by a powerful combination of local talent, and doubtless the performance will meet with the patronage it deserves. Every effort has been made by the management to produce the play in a style unequaled before, and to this end considerable money has been spent in the getting up of scenic effects. In this line, the scene representing the "Sea of Ice," will be put forward with great effect, as also a scene representing the coast of Mexico. The painting has been produced by Mr. Lambourne, while the mechanical workings have been executed by Messrs. Evans and Timms. Altogether, taking into consideration the well known ability of the combination under whose auspices the "Sea of Ice" is to be

THE FAIR.

In accordance with previous announcement, the Fair was duly opened shortly after noon to-day, there being a large number of people present on the occasion. The committee have worked hard to get everything in readiness, and from a cursory glance all round this forenoon, the efforts put forth seem to have been crowned with success. The exhibition of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, etc., is fully equal to that of any previous year, while the exhibition of agricultural implements, wagons, carriages, etc., is also equal to any former year. The large building in which the fancy articles, prints, cloth, etc., are exhibited, is very tastefully arranged, and doubtless the fair will be patronized by a very large number of people.

A few minutes before one o'clock, Colonel R. Winder introduced to the assemblage,

Hon. George Q. Cannon, who proceeded to deliver the opening address. The occasion which called them together that day was one he might say of vast importance to the people of this territory. The opportunities that we have of displaying the manufactures of our people, and in witnessing all they had done, and the progress that was being made in every branch of industry, could be well appreciated by those who had lived here from the commencement of our settlement until the present time. Those who had recently come to the country, since the introduction of railroads, could not feel the full importance, probably, of this exhibition, as those who have had the experience, that many present had, of founding the settlement of this territory. Though we have not made that progress in many directions that many of us could desire, there was every reason to be encouraged by that which was around us, and the speaker had no doubt that with the increase of capital and the reduction of interest, that a great many branches of home manufactures that were now in abeyance would receive an impulse, and money would be invested in them to that extent that had never been done up to the present time. One of the great difficulties we had had to contend with was the absence of capital. It was not a great while ago since money could command, under many circumstances, 5 per cent. per month, and it was only quite recently that it could be had at one and a half and two per cent. Of course, where money was dear it was impossible to induce persons who had capital to invest in home manufactures, for the reason that they could make money more rapidly in other directions. Now, however, since it was difficult to find any investment that would yield six or seven, or or at the most eight per cent.—there was good reason to look forward to quite an increase in home manufactures, for capitalists were seeking investment in that direction. In contrasting the exhibition of to day with the early days of this settlement, and the shifts the people were compelled to resort to for cloth, etc, it was very encouraging indeed, in looking through this exhibition, to see the cloth, the blankets, the harness, the furniture, and many other things too numerous to enumerate. The Hon. gentleman, however, did not feel so anxious about what had been accomplished—and it was considerable—as about that which is to be done in the future. It should be the aim of this community to manufacture everything that we require. This had been the policy that had been urged upon us from the beginning, and the older we grew, and the more experience we gained in these matters, the more manifest became the correctness of this counsel. One thing was evident, that no people could prosper who imported more than they exported. The prosperity of the United States was mainly due to the fact that their exports far exceeded their imports; that they supplied the world with almost everything that was necessary for them, and in return they received from them the gold, their means for that which they furnished. After enumerating the various articles exported from America to Europe and elsewhere, the speaker proceeded to dilate upon the great advantages possessed by this territory in the way of inducing home manufactures, and deprecated the exportation of articles, such as wool, hides, wheat, etc., all of which should be manufactured by ourselves into cloth, leather, flour, etc., and thus give employment to labor. And to this end he said it should be the aim of the leading men of the various communities to furnish employment for the people who compose those communities, and especially for those who are growing into manhood and to womanhood. And it should be the aim of all to see, down taxation, so that people might possess homes and not be burdened. The speaker then referred to the display of fruit, and instanced what the State of Michigan had done recently with a view to destroying the moths which had infested the orchards in that part of the country. By the measures which they had adopted in this line the people of Michigan had succeded in preserving their orchards, and the Hon gentlemen was of the opinion that a reward should be offered for bringing forth the best means to be used by the people of this Territory for the destruction of the moth which had infested their orchards for so many years. Such a thing would be a great benefit to the community at large. The speaker also strongly recommended the manufacturing of flour, butter, cheese, sugar, and other articles. Wagons and carriages should also be manufactured, as they had skilled workmen who could work in these branches of industry. In fact, it should be the aim of this people to manufacture everything that we required for use. All our furniture, glass, etc., should be manufactured right in the Territory. In the matter of glass we were importing thousands of dollars' worth every year, while a little capital invested in that direction would start a very important branch of industry. He was very glad to find that steps were being taken, and a good deal of interest felt in the manufacture of iron, and that the day was not far distant when iron works would be established in our Territory. Iron is an indispensable article, and the establiament of works for the manufacture of this material should receive every encouragement. The Hon. gentleman counseled all to take an interest in these matters. It should be the aim of the community to sustain each other, for that which was for the benefit of one was for the benefit of all.

President John Taylor also made a few remarks, showing forth the necessity of home manufactures and spoke encouragingly about the future of the Territory in this respect.

Mr. T. B. Lewis then proposed a vote of thanks to the speakers, which was unanimously carried.

Col. J. R. Winder declared the exhibition open. The committee, he said, had done all in their power to make the best of building in which the Fair was being held, but should the places allotted to certain individuals not come up to their expectations, he trusted such persons would be lenient upon the committee, as they had done the best they could under the circumplayed a lively tune, and the assemblage proceeded to inspect the various exhibits.

Great Western Match Factory.—This co-operative factory, which we noticed some time ago, have just got their machinery running in the 2nd Ward of this city, and we have before us some neatly labeled samples that never miss fire. The boxes and matches are all home made and turned out by the same machinery. The capacity of the factory is about 100 gross per day. They have never put a match upon the market yet, but soon will, and they defy competition either in price or excellence.

The Fair.—Several competitors for the baby prize of $20 have already entered their names. Other mothers expecting to compete should register their names at the ticket office without delay.

The Fair will be open each day from 9 a. m. till 6 p. m., then close for one hour and open again at 7 o'clock for the evening. The electric light will make the exhibition look grand; all should see it lighted by electricity.

Awarding Committees are expected to be on the ground promptly at 9 a. m. to-morrow.

Sheep Shearing contest comes off at 2 o'clock to-morrow. All are invited.
