CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Showers in this city William H. Harrison, a mechanic, is being held in custody by a policeman on suspicion of the death of a score of innocent people at a passenger train. Last night he was a driver of a moving C. & N. Y. train at the Eighteenth street crossing. The collision occurred while the street car was making fifteen miles an hour.

Harrison, who was a forgetful mechanic, jumped before the crash and ran. Having the wheel of the collision, he put his hands in the way to shut out the view of the passengers. He is believed to be innocent. He was released after he learned that the twenty passengers were injured by falling out of the train. The door of the car opened the train. They were scattered along the street for 200 feet. Conductor Dr. W. H. Smith is believed to be innocent. He was injured. The car was demolished.
